Wheat Improvement Center,1989 Theory and Practice of Integrated Pest Management Ramesh Arora,Balwinder Singh,A.K. Dhawan,2017-01-01 The dominance of insects in the world fauna has made them the humanity s greatest rival for the world s food resources both directly by eating the plants cultivated for food and indirectly as vectors of pathogens attacking these plants Agricultural scientists and especially entomologists have strived hard to develop a diversity of cultural mechanical biological and chemical weapons during the last more than two centuries to gain dominance over insects However there is evidence that insect pest problems have escalated with an increasing cropping intensity and with the use of agrochemicals inherent in modern agriculture Consequently Indian plant protection scientists have intensified research on the development of pest management tactics and effective pest management systems have been designed for all the important crops in the country This book consisting of 29 chapters draws together the diverse literature on the subject of insect pest management in agriculture and contains contributions written by scientists having extensive experience with insect pest problems in Indian agriculture The first half of the book is devoted to the principles and components of pest management including factors affecting pest populations construction of life tables coevolution of insects and plants pest forecasting pesticides IGRs botanicals entomopathogenic nematodes and molecular approaches etc The different tactics for the management of major insect pests of principal agricultural crops of India viz rice maize wheat forage crops cotton sugarcane vegetables fruits oilseeds pulse crops jute mesta and tobacco have been discussed in the second half of the book The book contains a wealth of information on all aspects of insect pest management in agriculture under Indian conditions and would prove indispensable for students teachers and researchers in agricultural entomology in India and other Asian countries Agroecosystems K. R. Krishna,2013-12-04 Comprised of three sections this covers the nutrient dynamics and productivity of global agroecosystems It focuses on the major aspects that make up agroecosystems such as soils climate crops nutrient dynamics and productivity It introduces agroecosystems and describes global soil types that support vast crop belts then deals with the principles that drive crop growth nutrient dynamics and ecosystematic functions within any agroecosystem It also details the influence of agronomic practices and factors such as soil microbes organic matter crop genetic nature irrigation weeds and cropping systems that affect productivity of agroecosystems Crop Improvement Manjit S. Kang,2024-11-01 Learn to integrate molecular genetic techniques with traditional plant breeding methods This comprehensive book provides the latest authoritative scientific information on improvement of both temperate and tropical crops Crop Improvement Challenges in the Twenty First Century brings together expert plant breeders and geneticists to address issues related to crop adaptability and stability across environments for important food and fiber crops It emphasizes the need to integrate molecular genetic techniques with traditional plant breeding methods to develop hardier more productive crops Crop Improvement includes the latest research on physiological and biochemical responses of plants to drought and heat stress which should help breeders develop effective strategies for improving resistance to abiotic stresses

In addition this helpful book elucidates the use of mixed models and best linear unbiased prediction To make the book comprehensive chapters discuss stability analysis in crop performance trials and genotype by environment interactions Crop Improvement includes detailed information on breeding specific crops including rice tropical maize sorghum common bean sugar beet bananas and plantain cotton Crop Improvement offers both practical information and up to date research It also suggests a vision of new directions and partnerships that are expected to evolve in this century This book is an essential resource for practicing plant breeders and geneticists at universities government agencies and industry It should also be of use to teachers and students engaged in crop breeding Genetic Aspects of Plant Mineral Nutrition P.J. Randall,E. Delhaize,R.A. Richards,Rana Munns,2012-12-06 The adaptation of desirable agricultural plants to infertile and problem soils is an increasingly important strategy for improving food supplies in many parts of the world The plant breeding approach complements and in some cases may replace agronomic practices such as the use of fertilizers and soil amendments to provide solutions which are economically and environmentally sustainable The Symposium at which the papers in this volume were presented drew together workers in plant breeding plant nutrition physiology biochemistry and molecular biology to discuss research on gene systems which affect the mineral nutrition of plants Papers describe successes in plant breeding for problem soils as well as advances in understanding of mechanisms at the whole plant and cellular levels Papers in the molecular area point the way to the contribution which the new biology will make to this field in the future The reviews and research papers are grouped under five topics Better plants for acid soils Salinity tolerance Efficiency of uptake and use of macronutrients Efficiency for iron and micronutrients Tolerance of heavy metals and boron Towards a Second Green Revolution G.B. Marini-Bettòlo,2012-12-02 Genetic research in some fundamental crops together with the use of chemicals as pesticides and fertilizers opened the way in the 1950s and 1960s to great changes in methodology in agriculture with astonishing results in the tropics This change became known as the Green Revolution a truly great revolution in methods and materials which when applied with intelligence made possible in a few years the achievement of complete sufficiency in cereals production in South and South East Asia Mexico and South America After 20 years of continuous success aspects of the Green Revolution need to be rediscussed in the light of new findings and possibilities offered by scientific and technological progress and negative side effects on environment and health These papers examine the present state of agriculture and indicate the way forward for its development especially in the tropics and in particular Africa and South America The need for more research is stressed priorities in the application of this research are discussed such as the economic aspects of any new system to be adopted and the need to respect the ecological equilibria of different environments and the balance of energy input output in a given agrosystem Economic Cooperation Among Developing Countries in Agricultural Trade ,1987-01-01 Toward the 21st century CIMMYT's strategy ,1989
