Myth Of Generational Conflict The Family And State In Ageing Societies:

The Myth of Generational Conflict Sara Arber, Claudine Attias-Donfut, 2002-01-04 The ageing of Western societies has provoked extensive sociological debate surrounding both the role of the state and whether it can afford the cost of an ageing population and the role of the family especially women in supporting older people In this important book the authors examine how changes such as cuts in welfare provision migration urbanization and individualisation influence intergenerational relations The collection addresses theoretical and policy issues connecting age and generation with the family and social policy and focuses both on cross cultural comparison within societies and analysis based on a range of societies This edited collection brings together a range of leading researchers and theorists from across Europe to advance a sociological understanding of generational relations in terms of the state and the family and how they are interlinked It will be of interest to academics and researchers in sociology social policy and ageing and to policy makers concerned with the implications of demographic and policy changes

Ageing and intergenerational relations Misa Izuhara, 2010-02-17 With socio economic and demographic changes taking place in contemporary societies new patterns of family relations are forming partly due to significant family changes value shifts precariousness in the labour market and increasing mobility within and beyond national boundaries This book explores the exchange of support between generations and examines variations in contemporary practices and rationales in different regions and societies It draws on both theoretical perspectives and empirical analysis in relation to new patterns of family reciprocity Contributors discuss both newly emerging patterns and more established ones which are now being affected due to various opportunities and pressures in contemporary societies The book is split into two parts the first Chapters one to four reviews key theoretical and conceptual debates in this field while the second Chapter five to nine offers insights and an understanding of exchange practices based on case studies from different regions and different relationships

Generational Tensions and Solidarity Within Advanced Welfare States Asgeir Falch-Eriksen, Marianne Takle, Britt Slagsvold, 2021-09-12 This book explores generation as both a reference to family or kinship structures and a reference to cohorts or age sets The principal objective is branching out this two part concept through studies of tensions and solidarity within and between generations of advanced and robust welfare states Answering key questions using multiple disciplinary approaches the book considers how generations challenge advanced and robust welfare states how new and young generations are affected by living in an advanced welfare state with older generations how tensions or solidarity are understood when facing challenges and what the key characteristics are of certain generation types It contributes to the development of a more comprehensive generation approach within social sciences by developing the concept of generation by exploring different challenges to the welfare state such as migration digitalization environmental damages demands for sustainability and marginalization Highlighting the escalating tensions and altered versions of solidarity between generations this book shows how a comprehensive concept of a generation can create new insights into how we collectively coordinate and resolve challenges through the welfare state It will be of interest to all scholars and students of social policy sociology political science and social anthropology

Families, Ageing and Social Policy Chiara Saraceno, 2008-01-01 Offers insights into the way in which social policies and welfare state arrangements interact with family and gender models This title presents the research in the field based on a variety of national and comparative sources and using different theoretical and methodological approaches

Housing Careers, Intergenerational Support and Family Relations Christian Lennartz, Richard Ronald, 2020-06-09 In this comprehensive volume authors from across the social sciences explore how housing wealth transfers have impacted the integration of families society and the economy with a focus on the re negotiation of the generational contract While housing has always been central to the realization and reproduction of families more recently the mutual embedding of home and family has become more obvious as realignments in housing markets employment and welfare states have worked together to undermine housing access for new households enhancing intergenerational interdependencies More families have thus become involved in smoothening the routes of younger adult members into and up the housing ladder While intergenerational support appears to have become much more widespread it remains highly differentiated across countries cities and regions as well as uneven between social and income classes This book addresses the increasing role that family support and intergenerational transfers in particular are playing in sustaining the formation of new households and the transition of young adults towards social and economic autonomy The authors draw on diverse international cases and a variety of methodologies in order to advance our understanding of housing as a key driver of contemporary social relations and inequalities Chapters 1 4 6 7 8 and 9 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <https://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license Chapters 1 6 8 and 9 and a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4 0 license Chapters 4 and 7

is a crucial source of popular legitimacy for nations However efforts since the 1990s to politically support European integration by using identity mechanisms borrowed from nationalism have had very limited success European integration may require new post national approaches to the relationship between culture and politics This controversial and timely volume poses the logical question if identity doesn't effectively connect culture with European integration politics what does The book brings together leading scholars from several of the disciplines that have developed concepts of culture and methods of cultural research These expert interdisciplinary contributors apply a startling diversity of approaches to culture linking it to facets of integration as varied as external policy the democratic deficit economic dynamism and the geography of integration This book examines commonalities and connections within the European space as well as representations of these in identity discourses It will be useful for students and scholars of sociology geography anthropology social psychology political science and the history of European integration

Artistic Practices Tasos Zembylas, 2014-04-03 Art matters It affects us in our daily lives and is full of meanings that are valuable to all of us As a catalyst for social interactions art may either cause public conflict and create dissensions or facilitate mutual understanding and strengthen collective bonds All of this is grounded in practices that develop and change along social interaction cultural dynamics as well as technological and economic lines So how is art formed and produced What are the relevant constraints and challenges that artists experience in the creative process And what constitutes artistic agency This collection of contributions from international interdisciplinary experts explores particular case studies to deeply analyse artistic practices Comprising eleven chapters relating to different art forms each chapter offers an original perspective conveying a comprehensive understanding of artistic practices as arrays of specific activities in contemporary art worlds This book will be important for both researchers and practitioners in the field It will help artists to deepen their analytical abilities enabling them to further their own creative practice It will allow students and researchers to gain insights into processes of artistic creation and thus into the reproduction of art as well as innovation in the arts

Beyond the Nuclear Family Eric Widmer, Riitta Jallinoja, 2008 The importance of significant family contexts that are not easily circumscribed with reference to a household or a limited set of family roles has been underlined throughout the last two decades by researchers A strong interest for family relationships beyond the nuclear family has emerged in the social sciences The various contributions to this book develop a configurational approach to families which emphasizes interdependencies existing among large numbers of family members and reconsiders some of the central issues of family life in this light fertility projects childcare and socialization monetary transfers across generations and support for the elderly relationships with grandparents uncles aunts and in laws gender inequalities divorce and other family disruptions and the importance of friends and acquaintances for families Beyond very real changes affecting the structures of family life since the sixties the book reveals that basic forms of togetherness still underlie much of what is going on in family configurations

Young Europeans, Work and Family Julia Brannen, Susan Lewis, Anne Nilsen, 2002-11

Based on qualitative research with young people aged from 18 to 30 in five European countries this book examines young peoples pathways to adulthood and their perspectives on their future work and family lives Solidarity Between Parents and Their Adult Children in Europe Tineke Fokkema, Susan ter Bekke, Pearl A. Dykstra, 2008 At present our knowledge of the current state of solidarity between parents and their adult children in Europe is limited Insight into contemporary intergenerational solidarity is not only important for the well being of individuals but is also of great interest to policy makers Patterns of intergenerational solidarity are not only affected by social policies and services but also reveal a number of important social policy issues and dilemmas Will encouraging labour force participation among women and older workers mean they have less time to care for their dependents Should formal care services be further expanded to relieve the burden faced by family members with the risk that they start to replace informal care This report aims to contribute to this insight by providing a more differentiated picture of the strength nature and direction of solidarity between parents and their adult children its variation among European countries and its determinants Our findings indicate that parent child ties are quite strong The majority of Europeans aged 50 and over live in close proximity and are in frequent contact with at least one of the children Moreover strong family care obligations still exist and a substantial amount of support is being exchanged between parents and their non co resident children Interesting differences however emerge between individuals and countries While fathers are more inclined to assist their children financially mothers have more frequent contact and exchange more help in kind with their children Being religious and having a large family have a positive impact on several dimensions of intergenerational solidarity Parental divorce and a better socioeconomic position of parents and children on the other hand lead to a weakening of parent child ties in many respects Contrary to common belief employed children show solidarity with their parents as much as those without a paid job Differences in the nature of intergenerational solidarity between the European countries tend to follow the general division into an individualistic north and a familistic south Oxford
