Reel Food Anne L. Bower, 2012-08-06 Reel Food is the first book devoted to food as a vibrant and evocative element of film featuring original essays by major food studies scholars among them Carole Counihan and Michael Ashkenazi This collection reads various films through their uses of food from major food films like Babette s Feast and Big Night to less obvious choices including The Godfather trilogy and TheMatrix The contributors draw attention to the various ways in which food is employed to make meaning in film In some cases such as Soul Food and Tortilla Soup for example food is used to represent racial and ethnic identities In other cases such as Chocolat and LikeWater for Chocolate food plays a role in gender and sexual politics And of course there is also discussion of the centrality of popcorn to the movie going experience This book is a feast for scholars foodies and cinema buffs It will be of major interest to anyone working in popular culture film studies and food studies at both the undergraduate and graduate level

Food on Film Tom Hertweck, 2014-10-30 From early cinematic depictions of food as a symbol of ethnic and cultural identity to more complex contemporary portrayals movies have demonstrated how our ideas about food are always changing On the big and small screens representations of addiction starvation and even food as fetish reinforce how important food is in our lives and in our culture In Food on Film Bringing Something New to the Table Tom Hertweck brings together innovative viewpoints about a popular yet understudied subject in cinema This collection explores the pervasiveness of food in film from movies in which meals play a starring role to those that feature food and eating in supporting or cameo appearances The volume asks provocative questions about food and its relationship with work urban life sexual orientation the family race morality and a wide range of appetites The fourteen essays by international interdisciplinary scholars offer a wide range of perspectives on such films and television shows as The Color Purple Do the Right Thing Ratatouille The Road Sex and the City Twin Peaks and even Jaws From first course to last Food on Film will be of interest to scholars of film and television sociology anthropology and cultural history

Food, Film and Culture James R. Keller, 2014-11-04 Culinary imagery much like sexual and violent imagery is a key cinematic device used to elicit a sensory response from an audience In many films culinary imagery is central enough to constitute a new subgenre defined by films in which food production preparation service and consumption play a major part in the development of character structure or theme This book defines the food film genre and analyzes the relationship between cinematic food imagery and various cultural constructs including politics family identity race ethnicity nationality gender and religion Chapters examine these themes in several well known food films such as The Cook the Thief His Wife and Her Lover Chocolat Babette s Feast and Eat Drink Man Woman and lesser known productions including Felicia s Journey

Kitchen Stories Magic Kitchen and Chinese Feast The work includes a filmography of movies within the food genre

Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Reading Food in Modern Japanese Literature Tomoko Aoyama, 2008-09-30 Literature like food is in Terry Eagleton's words endlessly interpretable and food like literature looks like an object but is actually a relationship So how much do we and should we read into the way food is represented in literature Reading Food explores this and other questions in an unusual and fascinating tour of twentieth century Japanese literature Tomoko Aoyama analyzes a wide range of diverse writings that focus on food eating and cooking and considers how factors such as industrialization urbanization nationalism and gender construction have affected people's relationships to food nature and culture and to each other The examples she offers are taken from novels shosetsu and other literary texts and include well known writers such as Tanizaki Jun ichiro Hayashi Fumiko Okamoto Kanoko Kaiko Takeshi and Yoshimoto Banana as well as those who are less widely known Murai Gensai Nagatsuka Takashi Sumii Sue and Numa Shozo Food is everywhere in Japanese literature and early chapters illustrate historical changes and variations in the treatment of food and eating Examples are drawn from Meiji literary diaries children's stories peasant and proletarian literature and women's writing before and after World War II The author then turns to the theme of cannibalism in serious and popular novels Key issues include ethical questions about survival colonization and cultural identity The quest for gastronomic gratification is a dominant theme in gourmet novels Like cannibalism the gastronomic journey as a literary theme is deeply implicated with cultural identity The final chapter deals specifically with contemporary novels by women some of which celebrate the inclusiveness of eating and writing while others grapple with the fear of eating Such dread or disgust can be seen as a warning against what the complacent gourmet boom of the 1980s and 1990s concealed the dangers of a market economy environmental destruction and continuing gender biases Reading Food in Modern Japanese Literature will tempt any reader with an interest in food literature and culture Moreover it provides appetizing hints for further savoring digesting and incorporating textual food

Understanding Tracy Letts Thomas Fahy, 2020-09-04 Winner of the Pulitzer Prize in drama as well as Tony Awards for best play and best actor Tracy Letts has emerged as one of the greatest playwrights of the twenty first century Understanding Tracy Letts the first book dedicated to his writing is an introduction to his plays and an invitation to engage more deeply with his work both for its emotional power and cultural commentary. Experiencing a Tracy Letts play often feels akin to reading a Cormac McCarthy novel, watching a Cohen Brothers film, and seeing an episode of Breaking Bad at the same time. His characters can be ruthlessly cruel and funny, selfish and generous, delusional and incisive and deceptive and painfully honest. They keep secrets. They harbor biases and misconceptions. And in their quest to find love and understanding, they often end up being the greatest impediments to their own happiness. As a writer, Letts can move seamlessly from the milieu of a Texas trailer park to the pulsating nightlife of London's countercultural scene, the stifling quiet of small town Ohio to the racial tensions of urban Chicago. He thrives in the one act format in plays like Mary Page Marlow and The Minutes as well as the epic scope of August: Osage County and Linda Vista. With a musician's sense of timing, Letts shifts between humor and heartache, silence and sound, and the mundane and the poetic. And he fearlessly tackles issues such as gender bias, racism, homophobia, and disability rights. Contemporary American life thus becomes a way to comment on the country's troubled history from Native American genocide to the civil rights movement. The personal narratives of his characters become gateways to the political.

Understanding Tracy Letts celebrates the range of Letts's writing in part by applying different critical approaches to his works. Whether through the lens of disability studies, the conspiracy genre, food studies, the feminist politics of quilting, or masculinity studies, these readings help bring out the thematic richness and sociopolitical dimensions of Letts's work.

What's Eating You? Cynthia J. Miller, A. Bowdoin Van Riper, 2017-02-23

Divided into four thematic sections, What's Eating You explores the deeper significance of food on screen, the ways in which they reflect or challenge our deepest fears about consuming and being consumed. Among the questions it asks are: How do these films mock our taboos and unsettle our notions about the human condition? How do they critique our increasing focus on consumption? In what ways do they hold a mirror to our taken-for-granted beliefs about food and humanity, asking if what we eat truly matters? Horror narratives routinely grasp those questions and spin them into nightmares. Monstrous others dine on forbidden fare; the tables of consumption are turned, and the consumer becomes the consumed. Overindulgence as Le Grand Bouffe (1973) and Street Trash (1987) warn can kill us, and occasionally as films like The Stuff (1985) and Poultrygeist (2006) illustrate, our food fights back. From Blood Feast (1963) to Sweeney Todd (2007), motion pictures have reminded us that it is an eat or be eaten world.

Food for Thought Lawrence C. Rubin, 2014-01-10

Historically, few topics have attracted as much scholarly, professional, or popular attention as food and eating, as one might expect, considering the fundamental role of food in basic human survival. Almost daily, a new food documentary, cooking show, diet program, food guru, or eating movement arises to challenge yesterday's dietary truths and the ways we think about dining. This work brings together voices from a wide range of disciplines, providing a fascinating feast of scholarly perspectives on food and eating practices, contemporary and historic, local and global. Nineteen essays cover a vast array of food-related topics, including the ever-increasing problems of agricultural globalization, the contemporary mass marketing of a formerly grassroots movement for organic food.
