Reforming Medicine Lessons From The Last Quarter Century:

Reforming Medicine Victor W. Sidel, Ruth Sidel, 1984 An American Health Dilemma: Race, medicine, and health care in the United States 1900-2000 W. Michael Byrd, Linda A. Clayton, 2000 This volume is a comprehensive collection of critical essays on The Taming of the Shrew and includes extensive discussions of the play's various printed versions and its theatrical productions. Aspinall has included only those essays that offer the most influential and controversial arguments surrounding the play. The issues discussed include gender authority, female autonomy and unruliness, courtship and marriage, language and speech, and performance and theatricality.

Gender Justice and the Health Care System Karen L. Baird, 2019-01-22 This book focuses on gender justice and the health care system. It will be divided into two parts. In Part One a framework of gender justice will be developed. What is gender justice? What would a gender just public policy look like? What criteria should such policies meet? In Part Two the framework will be applied to the area of health care policy, specifically medical research and health care financing and delivery. An analysis of past policies will be made as well as an analysis of the recently enacted and proposed changes. First published in 1998, Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an informal company.

Communities of Health Care Justice Charlene Galarneau, 2016-11-03 The factions debating health care reform in the United States have gravitated toward one of two positions: that just health care is an individual responsibility or that it must be regarded as a national concern. Both arguments overlook a third possibility: that justice in health care is multilayered and requires the participation of multiple and diverse communities. Communities of Health Care Justice makes a powerful ethical argument for treating communities as critical moral actors that play key roles in defining and upholding just health policy. Drawing together the key community dimensions of health care and demonstrating their neglect in most prominent theories of health care justice, Charlene Galarneau postulates the ethical norms of community justice. In the process she proposes that while the subnational communities of health care justice are defined by shared place, including those bound by culture, religion, gender, and race, that together they define justice. As she constructs her innovative theorization of health care justice, Galarneau also reveals its firm grounding in the work of real-world health policy and community advocates. Communities of Health Care Justice not only strives to imagine a new framework of just health care but also to show how elements of this framework exist in current health policy and to outline the systemic conceptual and structural changes required to put these justice norms into fuller practice.

Community Health Centers Bonnie Lefkowitz, 2007 This book tells the story of one groundbreaking approach to medicine that attacks the problem by focusing on the wellness of whole neighborhoods. Since their creation during the 1960s, community health centers have served the needs of the poor in the tenements of New York, the colonials of Texas, the working class neighborhoods of Boston, and the dirt farms of the South. As products of the civil rights movement, the early centers provided not only primary and preventive care but also social and environmental services, economic development, and empowerment.

Social Functions and Economic Aspects of Health Insurance William A. Rushing, 2012-12-06 Statistics published by the U S Department of Commerce 1980 indicate that in 1977 we spent 8.1% of our gross national product GNP on life health property casualty and other forms of insurance An additional 5.7% was used to pay the Social Security tax which is another form of insurance premium for a total of 14.8% of the GNP Although insurance had its historical origin in marine insurance it has now developed into one of the major industries of the American economy and extends into many areas of economic activity One area where growth has been particularly strong is the medical sector Health insurance is a major institution in all industrialized countries It became a government responsibility in 1883 when Bismarck introduced a compulsory program of health insurance for industrial workers in Germany Programs for workers in various industrial and income categories soon followed in other European countries Austria 1888 Hungary 1891 Norway 1909 Serbia 1910 Great Britain 1911 and Russia and Romania 1912 Rubinow 1913 250 Programs in these countries were extended in subsequent years and other countries in Europe followed with their own programs Consequently today most industrial countries have universal or near universal health insurance coverage In the United States the issue of national health insurance has been seriously debated since just prior to World War I and polling data since the 1930s show that a substantial majority of the public has been supportive of such a program Erskine 1975
