Systems of Suffering Jonathan Darling, 2022-05-20 Of the many state enacted cruelties to which refugees and asylum seekers are subjected detention and deportation loom largest in popular consciousness But there is a third practice perpetrating a slower violence that remains hidden dispersal Jonathan Darling provides the first detailed account of how dispersal the system of accommodation and support for asylum seekers and refugees in Britain both sustains and produces patterns of violence suffering and social abjection He explores the evolution of dispersal as a privatised process from the first outsourced asylum accommodation contracts in 2012 to the renewed wave of outsourcing pursued by the Home Office today Drawing on six years of research into Britain's dispersal system and foregrounding the voices and experiences of refugees and asylum seekers Darling argues that dispersal has played a central role in the erasure of asylum from public concern Systems of Suffering is a vital tool in the arsenal of those fighting to hold the government to account for the violence of its asylum policy and practice

Migration, Transnationalism and Development in South-East Europe and the Black Sea Region

Russell King, Maja Povrzanović Frykman, Julie Vullnetari, 2018-04-19 The Southeast Europe and Black Sea region presents fertile terrain for examining recent international migration trends. The contributions to this book cover a range of examples from Ukraine and Moldova in the north to Greece and Albania in the south. By intersecting the three key concepts of migration, transnationalism and development, they offer new insights based on original empirical research. A wide range of types of migration can be observed in this region: large scale emigration in many countries; recent mass immigration in the case of Greece; return migration; internal migration; internal and external forced migration; irregular migration; brain drain etc. These migratory phenomena occur within the context of EU migration policies and EU accession for some countries. Yet within this shifting migration landscape of migrant stocks and flows, the fundamental economic geography of different wealth levels and work opportunities is what drives most migration now as in the past. This book was previously published as a special issue of Southeast European and Black Sea Studies. New Directions in Race, Ethnicity and Crime Coretta Phillips, Colin Webster, 2013-10-08 The disproportionate criminalisation and incarceration of particular minority ethnic groups has long been observed, though much of the work in criminology has been dominated by a somewhat narrow debate. This debate has concerned itself with explaining this disproportionality in terms of structural inequalities and socio-economic disadvantage or discriminatory criminal justice processing. This book offers an accessible and innovative approach, including chapters on anti-Semitism, social cohesion in London, Bradford and Glasgow, as well as an exploration of policing Traveller communities. Incorporating current empirical research and new departures in methodology and theory, this book also draws on a range of contemporary issues such as policing terrorism, immigration detention and youth gangs. In offering minority perspectives on race, crime and justice, and white inmate perspectives from the multicultural prison, the book emphasises contrasting and distinctive influences on constructing ethnic identities. It will be of interest to students studying courses in ethnicity, crime and justice. Refugees, Capitalism and the British State Tom Vickers, 2016-04-08 Today, in a period of economic crisis, public sector cuts and escalating class struggle, Marxism offers important tools for social workers and service users to understand the structures of oppression they face and devise effective means of resistance. This book uses Marxism's lost insights and reinterprets them in the current context by focussing on one particular section of the international working class: refugees and asylum seekers in Britain. Vickers' analysis demonstrates the general utility of a Marxist approach, enabling an exploration of the interplay between state policies, how these are experienced by their subjects, and how conflicts are mediated. The substantive focus of the book is twofold: to analyse the material basis of the oppression of refugees in Britain by the British state, and to examine the means by which the British state has managed this oppression through the cultivation of a refugee relations industry within a broader narrative of social capital building. These questions demand answers if social workers and other practitioners are to successfully work with refugees and asylum seekers, and this book provides these through a detailed Marxist analysis. The Routledge Handbook of Communication and Resilience Marya L.

Doerfel,Jennifer A. Theiss,Maria K. Venetis,Kristina M. Scharp,2025-09-24 Drawing on expertise from communication scholars who examine resilience within and across individual relational group team organizational inter organizational and community levels this handbook provides a wide ranging resource for theory building empirical investigations and practical applications Chapters in this handbook bring awareness to how resilience is constituted through human communication processes As a baseline Part I begins with chapters that explicate and conceptualize resilience as a process that shapes and reflects communication behavior at multiple levels In Part II chapters focus on micro communication processes in the enactment of resilience at an interpersonal level in domains such as close relationships families and small groups In Part III attention shifts toward examining resilience processes in professional domains within and among organizations Part IV considers macro communication processes looking at how communities can build resilience sustainability and engagement through communal activities that cultivate strong networks and promote the health and safety of the community All chapters feature a discussion of practical implications for policy investments and or interpersonal interventions for building and maintaining sustainability and resiliency This handbook is a useful resource for scholars and advanced students in communication studies social psychology sociology human development public policy and family sciences Refugee women in Britain and France Gill Allwood,Khursheed Wadia,2013-07-19 This book is about the lives of refugee women in Britain and France Who are they Where do they come from What happens to them when they arrive while they wait for a decision on their claim for asylum and after the decision whether positive or negative It shows how laws and processes designed to meet the needs of men fleeing political persecution often fail to protect women from persecution in their home countries and fail to meet their needs during and after the decision making process It portrays refugee women as resilient resourceful and potentially active participants in British and French social political and cultural life It exposes the obstacles that make active participation difficult The book is an authoritative and thorough synthesis of all available material on refugee women in Britain and France The style is accessible and highly readable making this an ideal book for academics students and interested readers Vulnerability, Exploitation and Migrants Gary Craig,Louise Waite,Hannah Lewis,Klara

Skrivankova,2015-09-30 Globalization the economic crisis and related policies of austerity have led to a growth in extreme exploitation at work with migrants particularly vulnerable This book explores the lives of the growing numbers of severely exploited labourers in the world today questioning how we can respond to such globalized patterns of extreme inequality

Displacement, Asylum and the City René Kreichauf,Birgit Glorius,2023-05-22 This edited volume draws attention to the interlinked yet understudied relationship between the role of cities in dealing with international displacement and forced migration and the influence of forced migration in stimulating spatial societal and institutional transformations in and of cities In 2022 almost 84 million people worldwide were forcibly displaced More than two thirds of them reside in urban areas Displacement and forced migration are an urban experience and an urban story of those seeking protection This book helps us understanding the conditions of displaced population in cities and the way cities and urban actors respond to recent migration trends It applies an urban perspective to the analysis of migration processes and it provides insights into the urban governance of forced migration and asylum the production of spaces related to forced migration and the role of the displaced population as actors of urban change Thereby it covers a broad spectrum of topics including migrant dispersal welfare and social protection urban humanitarian policymaking and governance neighbourhood development migrant solidarity and refugee protest and new refugee and migrant destinations Given the increasing mobility and displacement of human populations this book provides a relevant prerequisite for readers interested in current urban forced migration and asylum trends and on the intersections of those topics The book will be of great value to researchers and academics of Geography Migration and Urban Studies The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Urban Geography
