Urban Regeneration in Europe Uwe Altrock, Detlef Kurth, 2024-11-25 We understand urban regeneration as all efforts managed funded or at least guided to some extent by public authorities that aim at improving stabilizing or revitalizing existing neighborhoods. This comprises area based strategies improvements of public infrastructure and interventions into the physical structure of the built environment. Their strategies may be redevelopment renewal careful regeneration socially integrative management and others. Those efforts aim at dealing with reurbanization trends recently challenged by new suburbanization due to overheated development sharp increases in house prices and more and more professionals working from home. The major objective of the book is to give an overview of the variety of approaches applied in European countries. Therefore it takes a particular look at the systems of urban regeneration that build upon an interplay of specific legal frameworks policies public funding schemes physical planning tools partnerships and governance arrangements applied with the intention of solving urban problems. For this purpose chapters present case studies of those national or regional systems or outstanding examples of long term efforts by major cities.

The Routledge Companion to Urban Regeneration Michael E. Leary, John McCarthy, 2013-10-30 In the past decade urban regeneration policy makers and practitioners have faced a number of difficult challenges such as sustainability budgetary constraints demands for community involvement and rapid urbanization in the Global South. Urban regeneration remains a high profile and important field of government led intervention and policy and practice continue to adapt to the fresh challenges and opportunities of the 21st century as well as confronting long standing intractable urban problems and dilemmas. This Companion provides cutting edge critical review and synthesis of recent conceptual policy and practical developments within the field. With contributions from 70 international experts within the field it explores the meaning of urban regeneration in differing national contexts asking questions and providing informed discussion and analyses to illuminate how an apparently disparate field of research policy and practice can be rendered coherent drawing out common themes and significant differences. The Companion is divided into six sections exploring globalization and neo liberal perspectives on urban regeneration emerging reconceptualizations of regeneration public infrastructure and public space housing and cosmopolitan communities community centred regeneration and culture led regeneration. The concluding chapter considers the future of urban regeneration and proposes a nine point research agenda. This Companion assembles a diversity of approaches and insights in one comprehensive volume to provide a state of the art review of the field. Planning for Small Town Change Neil Powe, Trevor Hart, 2017-02-17 Change is inevitable in all communities they both grow and decline. Planning is a means by which we have sought to manage this change It has not always succeeded in providing the types of settlements and environments which many residents and others want either because it is operating with the wrong policies or because it is failing to ensure that the right policies are effectively implemented These failings have opened planning to criticism by a dominant neoliberal orthodoxy which shapes an increasingly difficult environment in which planning has to operate Planning for Small Town Change builds on an underexploited selection of international research and the authors English case studies to consider the efficacy of planning for change Drawing on insightful small town experiences three themes emerge understanding and conceptualising change appreciating the potential within place and the mechanisms for planning and delivery The research draws on many examples of how key actors have made a significant difference to specific places and provides important insights into how the planning process can be better matched to the long term and complex challenges faced Whilst small town experiences are often neglected they are found to be particularly insightful in understanding the potential roles of local communities and the importance of place quality when planning for change
