Scrutinising Science The Changing Uk Government Of Science:

Scrutinising Science R. Boden,D. Cox,M. Nedeva,K. Barker,2003-12-17 By the 1980s UK government research laboratories were an often quirky but always essential part of the state sector In one of the most radical experiments in the organization and management of scientific research attempted in the UK successive Conservative governments sought to reform these laboratories by applying the market based solution of New Public Management Scrutinising Science explores and critiques that reform process by examining the laboratories new organizational forms the new visions of what science is for implicit in the reform agenda and the new forms of scientific knowledge production that have arisen as a consequence

Scrutinising Science Rebecca Boden,2004 For many laboratories this meant some form of privatisation for the remainder it meant a significant degree of marketisation within the public sector Scrutinising Science explores and critiques that reform process by examining the laboratories new organisational forms the new visions of what science is for as defined in the reform agenda and the new forms of scientific knowledge production that have arisen as a consequence BOOK JACKET

Innovation, Science, and Institutional Change Jerald Hage,Marius Meeus,2006-10-26 Innovation is central to the dynamics and success of organizations and society in the modern world the process famously referred to by Schumpeter as gales of creative destruction This ambitious and wide ranging book makes the case for a new approach to the study of innovation It is the editors conviction that this approach must accomplish several objectives it must recognise that innovation encompasses changes in organizations and society as well as products and processes it must be genuinely interdisciplinary and include contributes from economics sociology management and political science It must be international to reflect both different patterns or systems of innovation and different research traditions and it must reflect the fundamental changes taking place in science research and knowledge creation at all levels To this end they have gathered together a distinguished group of economists sociologists political scientists and organization innovation and institutional theorists to both assess current research on innovation and to set out a new research agenda This has been achieved through careful planning and development of the project and also through the ensuing structure of the book which looks in turn at Product and Process Innovation perhaps the best established focus of existing research on innovation Scientific Research assessing the changing character of basic research and science policy Knowledge Dynamics in Context encompassing organizational learning in all its aspects and Institutional Change an analysis of the institutional context that can shape enable and constrain innovation This carefully integrated and wide ranging book will be an ideal reference point for academics and researchers across the Social Sciences interested in all dimensions of innovation be they in the field of Management Studies Economics Organization Studies Sociology Political Science and Science and Technology Studies Handbook on the Politics of Higher Education Brendan Cantwell,Hamish Coate,Roger King,2018 Understanding the politics of Higher Education is becoming more important as the sector is increasingly recognised as a vital source of innovation skills economic prosperity and personal wellbeing Yet key political differences remain over such issues as who should pay for higher education how should it be accountable and how we measure its quality and productivity Particularly are states or markets the key in helping to address such matters The Handbook provides framing perspectives and perspectives chapters on funding governance and regulation and pieces on the political economy of higher education and on the increased role of external stakeholders and indicators Towards European Science Linda Wedlin, Maria Nedeva, 2015-12-18 Since the European Research Area was launched at the beginning of the century significant efforts have been made to realise the vision of a coherent space for science and research in Europe But how does one define such a space and measure its development This timely book analyses the dynamics of change in the policy and governance of science and research within Europe over the past decade It widens the scope of traditional policy analysis by focusing attention on the interaction between policy rationales new governance mechanisms and the organisational dynamics of the scientific field The contributors build a novel analytical framework to understand the European research space as one shifting from a fragmented space of Science in Europe to one that is labeled European Science The chapters explore the dynamics of this shift through the lenses of political science organisation theory science policy and related analytical traditions Towards European Science is an interdisciplinary book which will attract a wide set of scholars and professionals interested in science policy governance and scientific practice It will also be of use to university leaders and managers as well as policy makers and practitioners working on issues of internationalisation and the Europeanisation of science Innovation, Science, Environment 06/07 G. Bruce

Bruce Doern, Jeffrey S. Kinder, Jeff Kinder, 2007-01-01 The past twenty years have seen considerable shifts and struggles in government science that is in the way the state funds supports regulates conducts and uses scientific and technological activity Focusing on federal labs and agencies Strategic Science in the Public Interest explores how these labs have been located within and often buried by the larger commercially focussed federal innovation agenda G Bruce Doern and Jeffrey S Kinder examine four labs whose mandates deal with the Alberta oil sands environmental technologies wildlife research and mining and metals respectively The authors use these cases to explain why a better middle level approach to analysis is needed for strategic public interest centred government science They illustrate the importance of understanding the variety as well as the similarity of federal science and technology labs and agencies and of instituting policies that reflect this diversity The growing importance of

Related Science Activities RSA is also explored as well as the core trade offs between commercial and public goods science in their mandates and their internal capacities

Research for the Developing World Bruce Currie-Alder, 2015-10-08 Research for the developing world can generate evidence on the effectiveness of foreign aid invent new technologies that serve poor people and strengthen research capabilities in poor countries How do countries determine which of these policy goals to pursue Examining the United Kingdom Canada and Australia reveals how each country established a unique approach to research funding Programs and grantmaking evolved in response to various expectations across government tempered by the need to remain credible in the scientific community This book explores the histories of the UK Department for International Development DFID Canada's International Development Research Centre IDRC and the Australian Centre for International Agricultural Research ACIAR Looking back changes in research governance encouraged a shift towards whole of government priorities shorter timeframes for realizing results and performance predicated on academic productivity and research impact Whereas funders used to encourage small is beautiful with local experiments in development today the emphasis is on getting to scale delivering innovation through self financing models Looking forward research for the developing world is fading as part of development assistance yet rising as collaboration on common global challenges Funders are adopting new definitions of performance and actively shaping policy to connect science and international development Leaders are brokering partnerships that connect research governance at home and abroad bridging the incentives towards academic productivity and research impact In short the future of research for the developing world is moving from foreign aid to science diplomacy
