Seasons on the Pacific Coast Susan J. Tweit,1999-01-01 This book is an intimate family album of the diverse animal and plant life inhabiting the 2 000 miles of coastline stretching from Vancouver British Columbia to Tijuana Mexico Combining personal observation and scientific insight celebrated nature writer Susan Tweit brings dozens of nature s most intriguing species to life Bat rays and banana slugs pickleweed and giant Pacific octopuses monarch butterflies and moon jellyfish are all captured in Tweit s thought provoking essays each vividly illustrated by artist James Noel Smith With recommendations on the best places and times for your own coastal explorations plus a list of further readings this book is both a distinctive field guide and lively companion for the armchair nature lover 100 full color illus Seasons on the Pacific Coast Susan J. Tweit,1999 Presents essays in which the author profiles some of the many plants and animals that live along the Pacific Coast grouped by season Legacy ,2000 Memories of the months, the notebook of a field-naturalist and antiquary Sir Herbert Maxwell,1897 American Book Publishing Record ,1999 This Incomparable Land Thomas Jefferson Lyon,2001 Nature writing is essential to awakening an ecological way of seeing The author covers the full spectrum of the genre including field guides travel and adventure stories and essays on solitary and back country living This new edition contains an updated bibliography of primary and secondary sources in nature writing through the end of the 20th century Writers Directory M-Z Miranda Herbert Ferrara,2004-06 This comprehensive resource features up to date bibliographical biographical and contact information for approximately 20 000 living authors worldwide who have at least one English publication Entries typically include name pseudonyms addresses citizenship birth date specialization career information and a bibliography Contact information includes e mail addresses where available Naturalist Histories Jamon Alex Halvaksz,Joshua A. Bell,2024-03-31 From early explorers to contemporary scientists naturalists have examined island flora and fauna of Oceania discovering new species carefully documenting the lives of animals and creating work central to the image of Oceania These discoveries and exploratory moves have had profound local and global impacts Often however local knowledge and communities are silent in the ethologies and histories that naturalists produce This volume analyzes the ways that Indigenous and non Indigenous naturalists have made island natures visible to a wider audience their relationship with the communities where they work as well as the unique natures that they explore and help make In staking out an area of naturalist histories each contributor addresses the relationship between naturalists and Oceanic communities how these histories shaped past and present place and practices the influence on conservations and development projects and the relationship between scientific and indigenous knowledge The essays span across colonial and postcolonial frames tracing shifts in biological practice from the eighteenth and nineteenth century focus on taxonomy and discovery to the twentieth century disciplinary restructurings and new collecting strategies and contemporary concerns with biodiversity loss conservation and knowledge formation The production of scientific knowledge is typically seen in ethnographic accounts as oppositional contrasting Indigenous and western local and global objective and subjective Such dichotomous views reinforce differences and further exaggerate inequities in the production of knowledge More dangerously value distinctions become embedded in discussions of Indigenous identity rights and sovereignty Contributors acknowledge that these dichotomous narratives have dominated the approach of the scientific community while informing how social scientists have understood the contributions of Pacific communities The essays offer a nuanced gradient as historical narratives of scientific investigation in dialogue with local histories and reveal greater levels of participation in the creation of knowledge The volume highlights how power infuses the scientific endeavor and offers a distinct and diverse view of knowledge production in Oceania Combining senior and emerging international scholars the collection will be of interest to researchers in the social sciences history as well as biology and allied fields
