Losing Battles:

Losing Battles Eudora Welty, 1990-08-11 Three generations of Granny Vaughn's descendants gather at her Mississippi home to celebrate her 90th birthday Possessed of the true storyteller's gift the members of this clan cannot resist the temptation to swap tales The Late Novels of Eudora Welty Jan Nordby Gretlund, Karl-Heinz Westarp, 1998 The Late Novels of Eudora Welty offers readings of two of the works considered to be Welty's most exciting both in innovative technique and postmodern existential statement Fourteen new essays by internationally distinguished critics of Southern literature provide focused appraisals of Welty's last two novels Losing Battles 1970 a provocative experiment in narration and Pulitzer Prize winning The Optimist's Daughter 1972 a profound comment on our time Understanding Eudora Welty Michael Kreyling, 1999 Kreyling instead reveals the dynamic growth in the depth and complexity of Welty's vision and literary technique over the course of her career BOOK JACKET Serious Daring Susan Letzler Cole, 2016-11-01 Serious Daring is the story of the complementary journeys of two American women artists celebrated fiction writer Eudora Welty and internationally acclaimed photographer Rosamond Purcell each of whom initially practiced but then turned from the art form ultimately pursued by the other For both Welty and Purcell the art realized is full of the art seemingly abandoned Welty's short stories and novels use images of photographs photographers and photography Purcell photographed books texts and writing Both women make compelling art out of the seeming tension between literary and visual cultures Purcell wrote a memoir in which photographs became endnotes Welty re-emerged as a photographer through the publication of four volumes of what she called her snapshots magnificent black and white photographs of small town Mississippi and New York City life Serious Daring is a fascinating look at how the road not taken can stubbornly accompany the chosen path how what is seemingly left behind can become a haunting and vital presence in life and art Welty Albert J. Devlin, 1987 Marking the fiftieth anniversary of Eudora Welty's first important publication this special collection of critical essays celebrates her achievement as an incomparable literary artist Since 1936 when Death of a Traveling Salesman was published the excellence of her stories novels essays and collections has been giving unceasing acclaim and she has become one of the most honored and most esteemed of American writers The essays in this collection convey the scholarly pleasure one finds in studying the works of Eudora Welty Although they employ varying critical methodologies pleasure is at the source of the examinations published in this book In these essays formal mythic and thematic criticism from a variety of scholars offers fresh access to A Curtain of Green The Wide Net The Golden Apples and Delta Wedding One bibliographical study included shows Welty to be keenly attuned to the nuances of meaning during the writing and revising of The Optimist's Daughter deepening clarifying making more precise a novel of inestimable personal feeling In another essay Welty's close attention to the world is examined in relation to an early story At the Landing to the remarkable photography of One Time One Place and to her recent memoir One Writer's Beginnings Also included is a study of Eudora Welty in relation to Elizabeth Bowen the Anglo Irish writer A new interview with Miss Welty which unifies this collection and a checklist of Welty materials that updates Welty scholarship enhance this volume and bring further scholarly acknowledgement to this celebrated author's significant artistic stature and preeminent literary worth The Family Saga in the South: Generations and Destinies Robert O. Stephens, 1995

Writing the South Richard Gray, Richard J. Gray, 1997 In this major reconsideration of a regional consciousness Richard Gray explores how generations of southerners have been engaged in writing the South in reinventing their place even as they describe it Humane and learned informative and analytical WRITING THE SOUTH is a most impressive addition to cultural inquiry THE LISTENER 12 photos The Postsouthern Sense of Place in Contemporary Fiction Martyn Bone, 2014-01-13 For generations southern novelists and critics have grappled with a concept that is widely seen as a trademark of their literature a strong attachment to geography or a sense of place In the 1930s the Agrarians accorded special meaning to rural life particularly the farm in their definitions of southern identity For them the South seemed an organic and rooted region in contrast to the North where real estate development and urban sprawl evoked a faceless raw capitalism By the end of the twentieth century however economic and social forces had converged to create a modernized South How have writers responded to this phenomenon Is there still a sense of place in the South or perhaps a distinctly postsouthern sense of place Martyn Bone innovatively draws upon postmodern thinking to consider the various perspectives that southern writers have brought to the concept of place and to look at its fate in a national and global context He begins with a revisionist assessment of the Agrarians who failed in their attempts to turn their proprietary ideal of the small farm into actual policy but whose broader rural aesthetic lived on in the work of neo Agrarian writers including William Faulkner and Eudora Welty By the 1950s adherence to this aesthetic was causing southern writers and critics to lose sight of the social reality of a changing South Bone turns to more recent works that do respond to the impact of capitalist spatial development on the South and on the nation generally including that self declared international city Atlanta Close readings of novels by Robert Penn Warren Walker Percy Richard Ford Anne Rivers Siddons Tom Wolfe and Toni Cade Bambara illuminate evolving ideas about capital land labor and class while introducing southern literary studies into wider debates around social cultural and literary geography Bone concludes his remarkably rich book by considering works of Harry Crews and Barbara Kingsolver that suggest the southern sense of place may be not only post Agrarian or postsouthern but also transnational One Writer's Imagination Suzanne Marrs, 2002-09-01 In One Writer's Imagination Suzanne Marrs draws upon nearly twenty years of conversations interviews and friendship with Eudora Welty to discuss the intersections between biography and art in the Pulitzer Prize winner's work Through an engaging chronological and comprehensive reading of the Welty canon Marrs describes the ways Welty's creative process transformed and transfigured fact to serve the purposes of fiction She points to the sparks that lit Welty's imagination an imagination that thrived on polarities in her personal life and in society at large Marrs offers new evidence of the role Welty's mother circle of friends and community played in her development as a writer and analyzes the manner in which her most heartfelt relationships including her romance with John Robinson inform her work. She charts the profound and often subtle ways Welty's fiction responded to the crucial historical episodes of her time, notably the Great Depression, World War II, and the civil rights movement, and the writer's personal reactions to war, racism, poverty, and the political issues of her day. In doing so, Marrs proves Welty to be a much more political artist than has been conventionally thought. Scrutinizing drafts of Welty's work, Marrs reveals an evolving pattern of revision increasingly significant to the author's thematic concerns and precision of style. Welty's achievement, Marrs explains, confirms theories of creativity even as it transcends them, remaining in its origins somewhat mysterious. Marrs's relationship to Eudora Welty as a friend, scholar, and archivist, with access to private papers and restricted correspondence, makes her a unique authority on Welty's forty-year career. The eclectic approach of her study speaks to the exhilarating power of imagination Welty so thoroughly enjoyed in the act of writing.
