The Norton Anthology of Literature by Women Sandra M. Gilbert, Susan Gubar, 2007 Long the standard teaching anthology the landmark Norton Anthology of Literature by Women has introduced generations of readers to the rich variety of women's writing in English Reclaiming Authorship Susan S. Williams, 2013-06-15 There was in the nineteenth century a distinction made between writers and authors Susan S. Williams notes the former defined as those who composed primarily from mere experience or observation rather than from the unique genius or imagination of the latter If women were more often cast as writers than authors by the literary establishment there also emerged in magazines advice books fictional accounts and letters a specific model of female authorship one that valorized natural feminine traits such as observation and emphasis on detail while also representing the distance between amateur writing and professional authorship Attending to biographical and cultural contexts and offering fresh readings of literary works Reclaiming Authorship focuses on the complex ways writers such as Maria S. Cummins Louisa May Alcott Elizabeth Keckley Mary Abigail Dodge Elizabeth Stuart Phelps and Constance Fenimore Woolson put this model of female authorship into practice Williams shows how it sometimes intersected with prevailing notions of male authorship and sometimes diverged from them and how it is often precisely those moments of divergence when authorship was reclaimed by women The current trend to examine women writers rather than authors marks a full rotation of the circle and writers can indeed be the more capacious term embracing producers of everything from letters and diaries to published books Yet certain nineteenth century women made particular efforts to claim the title author Williams demonstrates and we miss something of significance by ignoring their efforts Honor in Concord Cathryn McIntyre, 2008-07 The writers of Concord Massachusetts literary past are alive in present day in Honor in Concord They appear as characters who struggle between their need for freedom and self determination and the sense of responsibility they feel toward the commitments they have made Do the commitments we make define or limit us Is freedom an illusion Are we ever truly free Honor in Concord also asks What if we choose to honor our lives What if we choose to honor who we are and who others determine themselves to be What if we choose to honor the commitments we've made to ourselves and others leaving our hearts intact rather than allowing our lives to shatter out of a sense of boredom or regret or out of the mistaken belief that none of it matters anyway The message here is that all that we think say and do has meaning Our actions and intentions make up the very essence of who we are and help to form the circumstances of the world in which we live In Honor in Concord the author's own story is also told What results is a weave of fiction and fact that includes extraordinary moments from her own life as well as poignant images that she draws from Concord's literary past like that of Thoreau in his final days struggling to complete his essay Walking Hawthorne drifting into the sea of infinity as he writes and Martha Hunt's act of purification in the waters of the Concord River It is through this mix of reality and imagination that we see the link that exists between the present and the past and we are reminded of the presence of spirit in our lives We are reminded of what Emerson called the infinitude of the soul Scribbles, Sorrows, and Russet Leather Boots: The Life of Louisa May Alcott Liz Rosenberg, 2021-10-12 Insightful exciting and deeply moving Liz Rosenberg's distinctive portrait of the author of Little Women reveals some of her life's more complex and daring aspects Moody and restless teenage Louisa longed for freedom Faced with the expectations of her loving but hapless family the Alcotts and of nineteenth century New England society Louisa struggled to find her place On long meandering runs through the woods behind Orchard House she thought about a future where she could write and think and dream Undaunted by periods of abject poverty and enriched by friendships with some of the greatest minds of her time and place she was determined to have this future no matter the cost Drawing on the surviving journals and letters of Louisa and her family and friends author and poet Liz Rosenberg reunites Louisa May Alcott with her most ardent readers In this warm and sometimes heartbreaking biography Rosenberg delves deep into the oftentimes secretive life of a woman who was ahead of her time imbued with social conscience and always moving toward her future with a determination that would bring her fame tragedy and the realization of her biggest dreams

Hall, 2009-09-15 Volume 3 of A History of the Book in America narrates the emergence of a national book trade in the nineteenth century as changes in manufacturing distribution and publishing conditioned and were conditioned by the evolving practices of authors and readers. Chapters trace the ascent of the industrial book, a manufactured product arising from the gradual adoption of new printing, binding, and illustration technologies and encompassing the profusion of nineteenth-century printed materials which relied on nationwide networks of financing, transportation, and communication. In tandem with increasing educational opportunities and rising literacy rates, the industrial book encouraged new sites of reading, gave voice to diverse communities of interest through periodicals, broadsides, pamphlets, and other printed forms, and played a vital role in the development of American culture.

A New Literary History of America Greil Marcus, Werner Sollors, 2012-05-07

America is a nation making itself up as it goes along, a story of discovery and invention unfolding in speeches and images, letters, and poetry, unprecedented feats of scholarship and imagination. In these myriad, multiform, endlessly changing expressions of the American experience, the authors and editors of this volume find a new American history. In more than two hundred original essays, A New Literary History of America brings together the nation's many voices. From the first conception of a New World in the sixteenth century to the latest re-envisioning of that world in cartoons, television, science fiction, and hip hop, the book gives us a new kaleidoscopic view of what "Made in America" means. Literature, music, film, art, history, science, philosophy, political rhetoric, cultural creations of every kind appear in relation to each other and to the time and place that give them shape. The meeting of minds is extraordinary as T. J. Clark writes on Jackson Pollock, Paul Muldoon on Carl Sandburg, Camille Paglia on Tennessee Williams, Sarah Vowell on Grant Wood's American Gothic, Walter Mosley on hard-boiled detective fiction, Jonathan Lethem on Thomas Edison, Gerald Early on Tarzan, Bharati Mukherjee on The Scarlet Letter, Gish Jen on Catcher in the Rye, and Ishmael Reed on Huckleberry Finn. From Anne Bradstreet and John Winthrop to Philip Roth and Toni Morrison, from Alexander Graham Bell and Stephen Foster to Alcoholics Anonymous, Life, Chuck Berry, Alfred Hitchcock, and Ronald Reagan, this is America singing, celebrating itself and becoming something altogether different, plural, singular, new. Louisa May Alcott (1832-1888) was a trailblazer in American letters, influenced by her Transcendentalist upbringing and active involvement in the abolitionist and women's suffrage movements. Her experiences growing up in a socially progressive household, with figures like Ralph Waldo Emerson and Henry David Thoreau deeply informing her narratives, which often grapple with the constraints of gender roles and the pursuit of personal fulfillment.
