Phantom Limbs Peter Szendy, 2015-11-02 The prostheses Peter Szendy explores those peculiar artifacts known as musical instruments are not only technical devices but also bodies that live a strange phantom life as uncanny as a sixth finger or a third lung The musicological impulse to inventory those bodies that produce sound is called into question here In Szendy's hands its respectable corpus of scholarship is read aslant so as to tease out what it usually prefers to hide hybrids and grafts produced by active fictions monsters and chimera awaiting the opportunity to be embodied Beyond these singular bodies that music composes and disposes there lies the figure of a collective social body ready to emerge amid an innervated apparatus that operates at a distance telepathically Phantom Limbs touches on bodies of all shapes and sizes that haunt the edges of music's conceptualizations Music continually reinvents such bodies and reconvenes them in new collective formations It is their dynamics and crystallizations that Szendy auscultates on a motley corpus that includes Bach Diderot Berlioz Eisenstein Disney and Monk

Mars by 1980 David Stubbs, 2018-07-31 Electronic music is now ubiquitous from mainstream pop hits to the furthest reaches of the avant garde But how did we get here In Mars by 1980 David Stubbs charts the evolution of synthesised tones from the earliest mechanical experiments in the late nineteenth century through the musique concrete of the Futurists and radical composers such as Pierre Schaeffer and Karl Stockhausen to the gradual absorption of electronic instrumentation into the mainstream be it through the BBC Radiophonic Workshop grandiose prog rock or the DIY approach of electronica house and techno Stubbs tells a tale of mavericks and future dreamers malfunctioning devices and sonic mayhem But above all he describes an essential story of authenticity is this music Mars by 1980 is the definitive account that answers this question

Liveness in Modern Music Paul Sanden, 2013-01-17 This study investigates the idea and practice of liveness in modern music Understanding what makes music live in an ever changing musical and technological terrain is one of the more complex and timely challenges facing scholars of current music where liveness is typically understood to represent performance and to stand in opposition to recording amplification and other methods of electronically mediating music The book argues that liveness itself emerges from dynamic tensions inherent in mediated musical contexts tensions between music as an acoustic human utterance and musical sound as something produced or altered by machines Sanden analyzes liveness in mediatized music music for which electronic mediation plays an intrinsically defining role exploring the role this concept plays in defining musical meaning In discussions of music from both popular and classical traditions Sanden demonstrates how liveness is performed by acts of human expression in productive tension with the electronic machines involved in making this music whether on stage or on recording Liveness is not a fixed ontological state that exists in the absence of electronic mediation but rather a dynamically performed assertion of human presence within a technological network of communication This book provides new insights into how the ideas of performance and liveness continue to permeate the perception and reception of even highly mediatized music within a society so deeply invested on every level with the use of electronic technologies
