Magic Stone A Legend From Hong Kong:

The Magic Stone, 1966* Hong Kong Documentary Film Ian Aitken, 2014-03-17 A comprehensive study of the lost genre of Hong Kong documentary film The Grierson Effect Zoë Druick, Deane Williams, 2019-07-25 This landmark collection of essays considers the global legacy of John Grierson the father of British documentary Featuring the work of leading scholars from around the world The Grierson Effect explores the impact of Grierson's ideas about documentary and educational film in a wide range of cultural and national contexts from Russia and Scandinavia to Latin America South Africa and New Zealand In reconsidering Grierson's international influence this major new study emphasises the material conditions of the production and circulation of documentary cinema foregrounds core issues in documentary studies and opens up expanded perspectives on transnational cinema cultures and histories No Babylon Peter Moss, 2006 Having witnessed Britain's retreat from India in 1947 and Malaya in 1957 Peter Moss traveled on through the lengthening shadows of a waning Empire seeking the last remnants of a once flourishing panoply of imperial pomp and circumstance He arrived in Hong Kong to find this fabled territory less a British colony than a triumph of collective enterprise no mythic Babylon but a vibrant and compelling reality His Hong Kong career spanned four decades from the spillover of China's cultural revolution to the return of its prodigal son at midnight on June 30th 1997 In his take on events leading up to that historical watershed he has drawn on Chinese sources to present a wider perspective and has not flinched from challenging popular perceptions He saw Chris Patten Hong Kong's last governor as a knight in shining armour riding in at the eleventh hour to slay the dragon I felt there was a distinct danger of him accidentally killing the damsel in distress Many have loved and admired Hong Kong but few have grasped its intricacies That an enclave so small should have become so powerful and left such a mark on the world is a mystery that No Babylon seeks to probe and dispel Had he discovered Hong Kong first Karl Marx might never have written Das Kapital for this hubble bubble of experimental capitalist alchemy contradicted so many of his theories
