Linda M. Harasim, 1990-01-19 Written for educators and education professionals this groundbreaking volume offers a comprehensive introduction to educational computer mediated communication CMC As editor Linda Harasim notes at the outset although online education already exists as a field of practice there is a critical need now to build a research discipline and knowledge base to guide research developments in the field Online Education fills this need by presenting theoretical frameworks design paradigms and research methodologies for analyzing and shaping this new field of educational activity In one volume the contributors provide a range of perspectives and approaches for understanding the educational applications of such innovations as electronic mail and computer conferencing networks The final chapter provides an extensive bibliography making this an extremely valuable resource for researchers developers and educators working on educational CMC Divided into three sections the chapters address the questions posed by educational CMC from the perspectives of theory design and methodology in turn Each contribution is written by one of the leading theoreticians or practitioners in the field and although the volume represents a rich diversity of approaches common themes link the chapters The contributors emphasize that online education is a new environment with new attributes that requires new approaches to understand design and implement it They focus particular attention on the essentially group or socially interactive nature of the online educational environment as the conceptual basis for research and design and explore the augmented environment that the computer provides for educational activity Finally each looks at fundamental practical issues What are the effective uses of these new computer mediated communication media Can we simply transfer existing conventional instructional practices or do we need to develop a new set of practices better suited to the new tools EBOOK: E-Learning Groups and Communities David McConnell, 2006-03-16 How can we design networked e learning courses to ensure students participate in them and engage in quality learning outcomes What happens in an e learning course that is designed to foster group work and a sense of community How can we research e learning practice in ways that will enhance the processes of learning and teaching This book outlines approaches to networked e learning course design that are underpinned by a belief that students learn best in these contexts when they are organised in groups and communities As such the book is one of the first to provide a detailed analysis of what goes on in e learning groups and communities But how do students react to working in e learning groups and communities What determines their willingness to adopt new forms of learning in order to participate in these new courses What actually happens in an e learning community and what impact does this have on students and tutors This book examines these key questions through a variety of research approaches aimed at exploring the experience of e learners as they participate in successful e groups and communities It also offers ways in which learning outcomes may be achieved in these communities and outlines the specific skills that students would develop through e learning E learning Groups and Communities is essential reading for teachers trainers managers researchers and students involved in e learning courses as well as people interested in improving the quality of the learning experience
