Howard Zinn Martin Duberman, 2012-10-02 Howard Zinn was perhaps the best known and most widely celebrated popular interpreter of American history in the twentieth century renowned as a bestselling author a political activist a lecturer and one of America's most recognizable and admired progressive voices His rich complicated and fascinating life placed Zinn at the heart of the signal events of modern American history from the battlefields of World War II to the McCarthy era the civil rights and the antiwar movements and beyond A bombardier who later renounced war a son of working class parents who earned a doctorate at Columbia a white professor who taught at the historically black Spelman College in Atlanta a committed scholar who will be forever remembered as a devoted people's historian Howard Zinn blazed a bold iconoclastic path through the turbulent second half of the twentieth century For the millions who were moved by Zinn's personal example of political engagement and by his inspiring bottom up history here is an authoritative biography of this towering figure by Martin Duberman recipient of the American Historical Association's 2007 Lifetime Achievement Award Given exclusive access to the previously closed Zinn archives Duberman's impeccably researched biography is illustrated with never before published photos from the Zinn family collection Howard Zinn A Life on the Left is a major publishing event that brings to life one of the most inspiring figures of our time

The Sexual Paradox Susan Pinker, 2010-01-11 After four decades of eradicating gender barriers at work and in public life why do men still dominate business politics and the most highly paid jobs Why do high achieving women opt out of successful careers Psychologist Susan Pinker explores the illuminating answers to these questions in her groundbreaking first book In The Sexual Paradox Susan Pinker takes a hard look at how fundamental sex differences continue to play out in the workplace By comparing the lives of fragile boys and promising girls Pinker turns several assumptions upside down that the sexes are biologically equivalent that smarts are all it takes to succeed that men and women have identical goals If most children with problems are boys then why do many of them as adults overcome early obstacles while rafts of competent even gifted women choose jobs that pay less or decide to opt out at pivotal moments in their careers Weaving interviews with men and women into the most recent discoveries in psychology neuroscience and economics Pinker walks the reader through these minefields Are men the more fragile sex Which sex is the happiest at work What does neuroscience tell us about ambition Why do some male school drop outs earn more than the bright motivated girls who sat beside them in third grade Pinker argues that men and women are not clones and that gender discrimination is just one part of the persistent gender gap A work world that is satisfying to us all will recognize sex differences not ignore them or insist that we all be the same

From the Tools of Good Works to the Heart of Humility Aquinata Böckmann, 2017-12-01 In a new volume of her exegetical commentary Sr Aquinata Böckmann explores chapters 4 7 of the Rule of St Benedict They contain Benedict's instruction of how to learn and live the spiritual art of monastic life that is focused on Christ In her close reading of the text and its sources she pursues questions such as the following How do general Christian rules help us to live in community How does obedience lead us closer to Christ How does silence build community How does humility deepen our love for Christ and those around us Never losing sight of the reality of monastic life Sr Aquinata weaves together Benedict's wisdom and today's challenges to show the crucial spiritual elements of his Rule

A World More Concrete N.D.B. Connolly, 2014-08-25 Many people characterize urban renewal projects and the power of eminent domain as two of the most widely despised and often racist tools for reshaping American cities in the postwar period In A World More Concrete N D B Connolly uses the history of South Florida to unearth an older and far more complex story Connolly captures nearly eighty years of political and land transactions to reveal how real estate and redevelopment created and preserved metropolitan growth and racial peace under white supremacy Using a materialist approach he offers a long view of capitalism and the color line following much of the money that made land taking and Jim Crow segregation profitable and preferred approaches to governing cities throughout the twentieth century A World More Concrete argues that black and white landlords entrepreneurs and even liberal community leaders used tenements and repeated land dispossession to take advantage of the poor and generate remarkable wealth Through a political culture built on real estate South Florida's landlords and homeowners advanced property rights and white property rights especially at the expense of more inclusive visions of equality For black people and many of their white allies uses of eminent domain helped to harden class and color lines Yet for many reformers confiscating certain kinds of real estate through eminent domain also promised to help improve housing conditions to undermine the neighborhood influence of powerful slumlords and to open new opportunities for suburban life for black Floridians Concerned more with winners and losers than with heroes and villains A World More Concrete offers a sober assessment of money and power in Jim Crow America It shows how negotiations between powerful real estate interests on both sides of the color line gave racial segregation a remarkable capacity to evolve revealing property owners power to reshape American cities in ways that can still be seen and felt today

Schooling for Peaceful Development in Post-Conflict Societies Clive Harber, 2019-05-02 This book explores how and if formal education affects peacebuilding in post conflict societies As schooling is often negatively implicated in violent conflict the author highlights the widely expressed need to build back better and transform schooling by changing both its structures and processes and its curriculum Drawing upon research from a wide range of post conflict developing societies including Cambodia Colombia and Kenya the author examines whether there is any empirical support for the idea that schooling can be transformed so it can contribute to more peaceful and democratic societies In doing so the author reveals how the myth of building back better is perpetuated by academics and international organisations and explains why formal education in post conflict developing societies is so impervious to radical change This important volume will appeal to students and scholars of education in post conflict societies
