Beautiful Circuits Mark Goble, 2010-11-02 Considering texts by Henry James Gertrude Stein James Weldon Johnson F Scott Fitzgerald Ralph Ellison Richard Wright James Agee and William Carlos Williams alongside film painting music and popular culture Mark Goble explores the development of American modernism as it was shaped by its response to technology and an attempt to change how literature itself could communicate Goble s original readings reinterpret the aesthetics of modernism in the early twentieth century when new modes of communication made the experience of technology an occasion for profound experimentation and reflection He follows the assimilation of such old media technologies as the telegraph telephone and phonograph and their role in inspiring fantasies of connection which informed a commitment to the materiality of artistic mediums Describing how relationships made possible by technology became more powerfully experienced with technology Goble explores a modernist fetish for media that shows no signs of abating The mediated life puts technology into communication with a series of shifts in how Americans conceive the mechanics and meanings of their connections to one another and therefore to the world and to their own modernity Alive in the Sound Ronald Radano,2025-08-15 Ronald Radano offers a new understanding of Black music arguing that its value developed from the historical relation of race and capital The New Encyclopedia of Southern Culture Bill C.
