MacDonald, 2012-06-28 Intentionality the relationship between conscious states and their objects is one of the most discussed topics in contemporary debates in philosophy of mind cognitive neuroscience and the study of consciousness Long a foundational concept in Phenomenology it has also received considerable coverage in the writings of analytic philosophers This book is the first study to offer an impartial well informed assessment of the two traditions approaches through an in depth investigation of the principal thinkers ideas so that their positions emerge side by side converging and diverging on certain shared themes Beginning with a historical discussion of the development of the term in the work of Continental thinkers in the 19th and early 20th centuries the book considers the work of Brentano and Husserl and subsequent existentialist critiques From there it explores how empirical analytic philosophers took up the topic drawn as they were to materialist and computer models of the mind Finally MacDonald presents a new hybrid account of intentionality that will be a crucial work for scholars working on consciousness and the mind Spoken Language Difficulties Lynn Stuart, Felicity Wright, Sue Grigor, Alison Howey, 2015-12-22 Intended as a practical approach to helping children who have spoken language difficulties because of general language delay or specific language impairment this book contains ideas and activity sheets as well as structured guidance Areas of language difficulty are identified activities are suggested to meet these language needs and all this is supported by a developmental framework This book also provides advice on classroom management and grouping in addition to a bank of individual targets for IEPs which are linked to the activities and strategies suggested within the book Suitable for non specialists and specialists alike many professionals find this book to be an invaluable resource including mainstream teachers teaching assistants speech and language therapists working in schools SENCOs nursery nurses and special school teachers Great American History Ron Thom, 2018-05-15 A person could write a history story every day for the rest of his life and not come close to covering all the history of America The history of America in the last five hundred years reflect every human experience that man possesses The stories selected for this book depict men women and events of every possible description Most of these stories are not found in high school history books yet are influential in the development of America Kit Carson fought Indians but also guided Fremont through the West Elizabeth Blackwell became the first woman to receive a medical degree in America at a time when women were not even thought of as citizens Then there is the innovative genius of the Burma Shave signs that sold shaving cream all over the country History is a very delicate subject The reader is at the mercy of the eye witness account of a person's actions or an event taking place. The eye witness from one side will see it one way while the person recording the event from the other side may see it differently. It is then up to the historian to decipher these varying accounts and determine what really happened. It is possible that both sides were wrong. Historians have the task of inspecting as many versions of the same story as possible to come to some reasonable expectation of what actually took place. A case in point would be the story of the Alamo. Texans tell the story as they wanted it while the Mexicans tell a story that is completely opposite. See DeQuello inside. The stories in this book have been compared and researched as honestly as it is possible to do remembering that there are precious few eye witnesses left.

The Uses of Art in Public Space Julia Lossau, Quentin Stevens, 2014-12-05 This book links two fields of interest which are too seldom considered together: the production and critique of art in public space and social behaviour in the public realm. Whilst most writing about public art has focused on the aesthetic, cultural and political intentions and processes that shape its production, this edited collection examines a variety of public artworks from the perspective of their actual everyday use. Contributors are interested in the rich diversity of people's engagements with public artworks across various spatial and temporal scales, encounters which do not limit themselves to the representational aspects of the art and which are not necessarily as the artist, curator or sponsor intended. Case studies consider a broad range of public art including commissioned and unofficial artworks, memorials, street art, street furniture, performance art, sound art and media installations.
