

Reflection Essay

With completing the first term in the Constructed Self class, I was able to benefit from a variety of new things from the class, as well as refresh my memory on things that I already knew, just needed a reminder about.

The biggest hurdle in the class for me was time management. I am a procrastinator and always have been, so completing assignments on time was and still is a challenge for me. I have not come to a full solution to this problem yet, but I did make changes in my life as to how I can manage time management. I found that it was easier for me to focus on homework if I was outside my dorm room, because when in my dorm, I would usually mess around on the internet or take naps. I don't think realistically I will get over procrastination anytime soon, but I can manage it.

With hurdles came hidden strengths I discovered about myself. I've never thought of myself as a leader, but because the class used group thinking in more than one occasion, I found that I am a good leader. I communicate my ideas to the group while trying to balance the ideas of others so the group can come to an agreed upon decision. Obviously this can benefit me no matter what career I decide to go into, because the ability to take control of a situation and still remain diplomatic with colleagues is a valuable asset to have. Other than this, I can't think of any other strength I discovered. I

Writing and Growing Timothy Horan,2022-07-11

In this book Dr Timothy Horan presents an original and highly effective writing program whose major goal is to transform high school students into accomplished writers and mature young adults This writing program is innovative rigorous and engaging and was designed with high school students in mind This volume contains a total of twenty original writing projects that represent creative and innovative interpretations of Common Core Writing Standards These projects focus on the worlds of contemporary secondary students exploring such topics as technology literature goals for the future and potential careers Each assignment in this book is full and complete and includes a reproducible outline that presents the assignment to students in a simplified graphical format As students progress through this program they will encounter engaging writing projects that foster growth and anticipate the changes occurring in students lives during this time of development and transition It will also prepare students for the rigors of writing in college career and the unwritten future that awaits all of them Finally Dr Horan issues a call for every secondary school in the United States to create and implement courses singularly devoted to the craft of writing and this book contains the curriculum for that course

The Writing Life Jeff Strand, 2020-12-10 Jeff Strand whose work Publishers Weekly has called wickedly funny and Kirkus has called ridiculously stupid has had one of the least meteoric rises to success in the publishing industry But he eventually got there even if he should probably put success in quotes He s been at it a long time and has learned a lot of lessons along the way And he shares them with brutal honesty in this very book along with plenty of hilarious and sometimes painful anecdotes about his career This is not a book that will tell you how to format a manuscript or write a compelling query letter It s a book about how to cope with rejection and bad reviews Book signings where nobody shows up Helplessly watching your peers go on to greater success than you He s been through all of that and so much more and in these pages you ll have a bunch of laughs as you commiserate and figure out how to get through it all

Negotiating the Personal in Creative Writing Carl Vandermeulen, 2011-08-19 This book describes an alternative way to teach Creative Writing one that replaces the silent writer taking criticism and advice from the teacher led workshop with an active writer who reflects upon and publically questions the work in progress in order to solicit response from a writers group as well as from the teacher Both accompany the writer first as readers and fellow writers only later as critics Because writers ask they listen and dialogues with responders become an inner dialogue that guides later writing and revision But when teachers accompany writers teaching CW becomes even more a negotiation of the personal because this teacher who is listener and mentor is also a model for some students of the writer and even the person they would like to become and still the Authority who gives the grades

Catholic Women Writers Mary Reichardt, 2001-07-30 Women have been writing in the Catholic tradition since early medieval times yet no single volume has brought together critical evaluations of their works until now The first reference of its kind Catholic Women Writers provides entries on 64 Catholic women writers from around the world and across the centuries Each of the entries is written by an expert contributor and includes a biography of the author a critical discussion of her works especially her Catholic and women s themes an overview of her critical reception and a bibliography of primary and secondary sources Authors writing in all genres including fiction autobiography poetry children s literature and essays are represented The entries give special attention to the authors use of Catholic themes structures traditions culture and spirituality The writers surveyed range from Doctors of the Church to mystics and visionaries to those who employ Catholic themes primarily in historical and cultural contexts to those who critique the tradition An introductory essay places the writers within the historical and literary contexts of women's writing in the Catholic tradition and the volume closes with a selected general bibliography

Sixty Candles Susan Tyler Hitchcock, 2008-04-08 Distorted Reflections Stuart Taberner, 2023-11-27 This volume presents a new approach to the political engagement of three major West German authors Uwe Johnson G nther Grass and Martin Walser Whereas analysis of intellectuals participation in the political upheaval of the late 1960s has tended to focus on speeches written in response to contemporary events this book examines works of fiction for the way in which authors reflected upon their engagement in a more contemplative medium Examination of these literary reflections reveals a mismatch between writers confidence as public intellectuals and their private anxiety Beginning with a survey of intellectual engagement until the late 1960s the present volume moves onto a theoretical discussion of the legitimacy of authors public interventions Three chapters are devoted to the fiction of Uwe Johnson G nther Grass and Martin Walser Uwe Johnson's fiction embodies retreat an acknowledgment of political impotence G nther Grass's novels present the failings of the engaged intellectual as exemplary to an audience which is expected to learn from this inadequacy Finally Martin Walser's intellectual characters stylise private weakness to appeal to a middle brow audience titillated by the public figure's confession of impotence In Walser's work political engagement degenerates into pure form into a Camp gesture of authors obsession with their private selves

Voices in the Creation of an Indigenous Trinidad and Tobago Theatre Patrick Brennan, 2025-04-15 This book explores how from the mid 20th century a new form of theatre emerged in Trinidad and Tobago as its playwrights came to mine the Afro Creole Trinidadian folk milieu This book focuses primarily on the period from the 1950s through to the contemporary moment investigating how Trinidad's theatrical practitioners developed methodologies that formulated an indigenous theatre It examines how in its creation it would distance itself from Western forms as the stage was decolonized making way for a variety of new forms that mimetically reflect the reality of Trinidad's Afro Creole folk. This book establishes a premise on which the terms folk and indigenous have been shaped by Trinidad's socio-historical past. It develops an argument that outlines how Trinidad's African cultural retentions form a central basis on which a theatrical tradition was established. This book traces the historical impetus and driving forces that gave rise to a body of writers for whom the vitally important link between the production of drama and the search for identity in the immediacy of the post-colonial period is established. The book develops a structure that forms three lines of discrete research: folk expression, women, their portrayal and their emergence as theatrical practitioners and theatrical developments through the decades. These subject areas are examined through the work of a broad body of playwrights. Exploring their theory and praxis, their work is described in terms that exhibit a variety of genres with tropes that have become indelible resources for theatrical practitioners to draw from. With a theatrical base that extends from popular comedy to avant-garde spiritual works, the theatre is shown to represent a composite entity, one that accommodates a plurality of forms which in their summation express the breadth and depth of Trinidad and Tobago's theatrical journey, one that is still very much underway. Readers that have an interest in theatre, cultural, gender, post-colonial or Caribbean studies will enjoy this book.

Conceptualising Reflection In Teacher Development James Calderhead, Peter Gates, 2003-09-02

Reflection has become widely recognised as a crucial element in the professional growth of teachers. Terms such as reflective teaching, enquiry-orientated teacher education, teachers as researchers and reflective practitioner have become quite prolific in discussions of classroom practice and professional development. It is frequently presumed that reflection is an intrinsically good and desirable aspect of teaching and teacher education and that teachers in becoming more reflective will in some sense be better teachers, though such claims have been rarely subject to detailed scrutiny. Each of the chapters in this book is concerned with exploring the concept of reflection and considering its contributions to teacher education. The papers range across different stages of professional development, some focusing in particular on pre-service education, others on in-service or professional development generally. Some of the papers are concerned with particular strategies for promoting reflection and how they might operate in a teacher education context; others dwell more upon a theoretical appreciation of how reflection facilitates the processes of professional development and how it relates to issues of quality in teacher education.

Theological Reflection: Methods Elaine Graham, 2013-01-25. This is the first in a two-part project aimed at postgraduates and academics interested in the expanding volume of work and research surrounding theological reflection. Brought together in Volume one is a comprehensive collection of models of theological reflection. By bringing this diverse collection together in one place, the editors create a unique reference work that allows a clear and visible contrast and comparison as each model is treated formally and in a standard format. Throughout each chapter, the distinguishing features of the model are examined, the genealogy and origins are discussed, worked examples of the model applied to contemporary theology are provided, and critical commentary, future trends and exercises and questions are provided.
