Preparing for Death, Remembering the Dead Tarald Rasmussen,Jon Øygarden Flæten,2015-04-22 Death and dying were not in the main focus of the denominational conflicts of the 16th century However pious literature covered these topics again and again not only before the Reformation but after it as well Here certain denominational differences are clearly visible

Partly these differences consist in the use of genres For example funeral sermons are an often used genre among Lutherans while they are much rarer in the Reformed tradition Similar differences can be observed concerning epitaphs In Roman Catholic areas funeral sermons and epitaphs are common in the 16th century too but their religious function is often a different from the one in Lutheranism Beyond such interdenominational differences there are also interesting continuities and connections which the contributors of the volume analyze For example there is a certain continuity between 16th century Lutheran funeral sermons and the late medieval tradition of ars moriendi The volume contains papers presented at the Second RefoRC Conference in Oslo in 2012 and is characterized by a multiconfessional and multidisciplinary approach with contributions from Church History Art History Archaeology History of Literature and Cultural History Within a field of research dominated by specialized contributions e g on ars moriendi traditions or on specific traditions of funeral monuments and funeral sermons the broad approach of this volume may further stimulate to comparative and cross confessional reflection

Jacobus Arminius Stands His Ground John S. Knox, 2018-11-06 On October 30 1608 Jacobus Arminius presented his Declaration of Sentiments to the Assembly of the States of Holland and West Friesland in the Binnenhof at The Hague First Arminius sought to defend himself and his theological views from the spirited attacks of opponents such as Gomarus Lubbertus and Plancius Second Arminius hoped to bring to light the wrongdoings of the European church and its extremist understanding of certain Christian doctrines Having trained in Geneva under Jean Calvin's successor Theodore Beza 1519 1605 and having further expanded and honed his theology at the University of Leyden from both lectern and the pulpit Arminius thoroughly presented his theological views in both oral and written form He spoke in his native Dutch language to an assembly of his peers and religious authorities with the hopes of avoiding a theological rift in Holland while at the same time hoping to remove a long standing conflict with the Supralapsarian faction warring against him Thus Arminius Declaration of Sentiments is a sophisticated passionate appeal to reason scripture and community With each section Arminius seeks not only to demonstrate the error of the attacks on him but also to point out how and why reconciliation can take place through a careful examination of various precepts of Christian thought

Economics of Faith Esther Chung-Kim, 2021-04-02 Economics of Faith examines the role of religious leaders in the development of poor relief institutions in early modern Europe As preachers policy makers advocates and community leaders these reformers offered a new interpretation of salvation and good works that provided the religious foundation for poor relief reform Although poverty was once associated with the religious image of piety reformers no longer saw it as a spiritual virtue Rather they considered social welfare reform to be an integral part of religious reform and worked to modify existing poor relief institutions or to set up new ones Population growth economic crises and migration in early modern Europe caused poverty and begging to be an ever increasing concern and religious leaders encouraged the development and expansion of poor relief institutions This new cadre of reformers served as catalysts organizers stabilizers and consolidators of strategies to alleviate poverty the most glaring social problem of early modern society Although different roles emerged from varying relationships and negotiations with local political authorities and city councils reform minded ministers and lay leaders shaped a variety of institutions to address the problem of poverty and to promote social and communal responsibility As religious options multiplied within Christianity one's understanding of community determined the boundaries albeit contested and sometimes fluid of responsible poor relief This goal of communal care would be especially relevant for religious refugees who as foreigners and strangers became responsible for caring for their own group

Ables,2021-12-07 The Body of the Cross is a study of holy victims in Western Christian history and how the uses of their bodies in Christian thought led to the idea of the cross as a substitutionary sacrifice Since its first centuries Christianity has traded on the suffering of victims martyrs mystics and heretics as substitutes for the Christian social body These victims secured holiness either by their own sacred power or by their reprobation and rejection Just as their bodies were mediated in eucharistic social and Christological ways so too did the flesh of Jesus Christ become one of those holy substitutes But it was only late in Western history that he took on the function of the exemplary victim In tracing the story of this embodied development The Body of the Cross gives special attention to popular spirituality religious dissent and the writing of women throughout Christian history It examines the symbol of the cross as it functions in key moments throughout this history including the parting of the ways of Judaism and Christianity the gnostic debates martyr traditions and medieval affective devotion and heresy Finally in a Reformation era haunted by divine wrath these themes concentrated in the unique concept that Jesus Christ died on the cross to absorb divine punishment for sin a holy body and a rejected body in one Pro Ecclesia Vol 22-N4 Pro Ecclesia,2013-11-13 Pro Ecclesia is a quarterly journal of theology published by the Center for Catholic and Evangelical Theology
