persecution or inhuman or degrading treatment How are courts assessing individual risk or threat to stateless persons The book draws on historical and contemporary interpretation of international law based on the travaux pr paratoires to the 1951 Refugee Convention and its antecedents academic writing UNHCR policy and legal documents UN Human Rights Council resolutions UN Human Rights Committee general comments UN Secretary General reports and UN General Assembly resolutions It is also based on original comparative analysis of existing jurisprudence worldwide relating to claims to refugee status based on or around statelessness By examining statelessness through the prism of international refugee law this book fills a critical gap in existing scholarship

Refugee Rights David Hollenbach, 2008-04-30 Of the over 33 million refugees and internally displaced people in the world today a disproportionate percentage are found in Africa Most have been driven from their homes by armed strife displacing people into settings that fail to meet standards for even basic human dignity Protection of the human rights of these people is highly uncertain and unpredictable Many refugee service agencies agree advocacy on behalf of the displaced is a key aspect of their task But those working in the field are so pressed by urgent crises that they can rarely analyze the requirements of advocacy systematically Yet advocacy must go beyond international law to human rights as an ethical standard to prevent displaced people from falling through the cracks of our conflicted world

Refugee Rights Ethics Advocacy and Africa draws upon David Hollenbach SJ s work as founder and director of the Center for Human Rights and International Justice at Boston College to provide an analytical framework for vigorous advocacy on behalf of refugees and internally displaced people Representing both religious and secular perspectives the contributors are scholars practitioners and refugee advocates all of whom have spent time on the ground in Africa The book begins with the poignant narrative of Abebe Feyissa an Ethiopian refugee who has spent over fifteen years in a refugee camp from hell Other chapters identify the social and political conditions integral to the plight of refugees and displaced persons Topics discussed include the fundamental right to freedom of movement gender roles and the rights of women the effects of war and the importance of reconstruction and reintegration following armed conflict The book concludes with suggestions of how humanitarian groups and international organizations can help mitigate the problem of forced displacement and enforce the belief that all displaced people have the right to be treated as their human dignity demands

Reconceiving International Refugee Law James C. Hathaway, 2023-07-24 Violence and other human rights abuses continue to force desperate people to migrate in search of protection Yet because the political and economic reasons that induced an historical openness to the arrival of refugees have largely withered away there is no longer a guarantee that any state will be prepared to receive these involuntary migrants Governments of both North and South are withdrawing from the international legal duty to provide potentially indefinite protection to any and all refugees who arrive at their borders The challenge is to reconceive refugee protection in a way that is reconcilable with the legitimate concerns of modern states yet which does not sacrifice the critical right of at risk people to seek asylum The essays in Reconceiving International Refugee Law offer a response to the concerns of many states that refugee protection has become no more than a back door route to permanent immigration and that its costs are not fairly apportioned among states Drawing on the research of leading migration scholars from around the world and vetted through dialogue with senior officials and non governmental experts this volume explores the potential for a shift to a robust and empowering system of temporary asylum supported by a pragmatic system of guarantees to share both the costs and human responsibilities of refugee protection

Rights in Exile Guglielmo Verdirame, Barbara E. Harrell-Bond, 2005 Of the estimated 12 million refugees in the world more than 7 million have been confined to camps effectively warehoused in some cases for 10 years or more Holding refugees in camps was anathema to the founders of the refugee protection regime Today with most refugees encamped in the less developed parts of the world the humanitarian apparatus has been transformed into a custodial regime for innocent people Based on rich ethnographic data Rights in Exile exposes the gap between human rights norms and the mandates of international organisations on the one hand and the reality on the ground on the other It will be of wide interest to social scientists and to human rights and international law scholars Policy makers donor governments and humanitarian organizations especially those adopting a rights based approach will also find it an invaluable resource But it is the refugees themselves who could benefit the most if these actors absorb its lessons and apply them Guglielmo Verdirame is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Cambridge and a Fellow of Corpus Christi College He is also the author of a forthcoming book on the accountability of the United Nations Barbara Harrell Bond Founding director of the Refugee Studies Centre University of Oxford has after retirement been Visiting Professor at Makerere University and at the American University in Cairo In 1996 she received the Distinguished Service Award of the American Anthropological Association She is the author of Imposing Aid Oxford 1986

African Refugees Howard Adelman, 2020-02-24 Of the world's refugees more than a third live in Africa displaced from their homelands by war poverty famine and political persecution In this book contributors explore key issues related to these refugee populations The first section looks at the legal framework for defining and assisting refugees and the second deals with the issue of relief by considering specific cases the general problems faced and particular relief efforts Subsequent chapters examine forced migration resettlement and repatriation conflict with local populations integration of refugees and sustainable development

Refugee Law and Durability of Protection Maria O'Sullivan, 2019-05-08 This book examines the link between refugee protection duration of risk and residency rights It focuses on two main issues of importance to current state practice the use of temporary forms of refugee status and residency and the legal criteria for cessation of refugee status under Article 1C 5 of the 1951 Refugee Convention In analysing this issue this book canvasses debates which are pertinent to many other contentious areas of refugee law including the relationship between the refugee definition and complementary protection application of the Refugee Convention in situations of armed conflict and the role of non state bodies as actors of protection It also illustrates some of the central problems with the way in which the 1951 Refugee Convention is implemented domestically in key asylum host states The arguments put forward in this book have particular significance for the return of asylum seekers and refugees to situations of ongoing conflict and post conflict situations and is therefore highly pertinent to the future development of international refugee law

The Internal Protection Alternative in Refugee Law Jessica Schultz, 2018-12-10 Under what circumstances can a state refuse refugee status to a person whose risk of persecution exists in only part of her country of origin This book is the first monograph to examine the treaty basis and criteria for the internal protection alternative IPA an exception to refugee status increasingly invoked by state parties to the 1951 Refugee Convention and its 1967 Protocol Through a critical analysis of the relationship between refugee law and related fields Schultz finds that the legal scope for IPA practice is narrower than is commonly claimed Since persons subject to an IPA analysis have a well founded fear of persecution within their countries of origin any limit on their right to refugee status must involve a careful balancing of the impact of continued displacement against the state s interest in preserving its restricted protection resources She argues that the doctrine of implied limits in human rights law can provide analytic structure to the IPA concept and reduce the risk of overly broad application

Refugee Law in the Sudan Peter Nobel, 1982

Protecting Civilians in Refugee Camps Maja Janmyr, 2013-11-28 Rather than serving as civilian and humanitarian safe havens refugee camps are notorious for their insecurity Due to the host state s inability or unwillingness to provide protection camps are often administered by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees UNHCR and its implementing partners When a violation occurs in these situations to which actors shall responsibility be allocated Through an analysis of the International Law Commission s work on international responsibility Maja Janmyr argues that the primary responsibility of states does not exclude the responsibilities of other actors Using the example of Uganda Janmyr questions the general assumption that unable and unwilling is the same as unable or unwilling and argues for the necessity of distinguishing between these two scenarios Doing so leads to different conclusions in terms of responsibility for the state and therefore for UNHCR and its implementing partners
