I Will Never Trust a Man Dr. Kumdong Bindul Nostra, 2014-06-16

From the very first moment Saratu met Bindul he made her believe that she was more than any other woman he had ever seen in the world. He bathed her with love, bathed her, bathed her, and finally drowned her completely into his love. Saratu loves him with the truest love of her heart. As a matter of fact, they were head over heels in love. They admired each other, they adored each other, they allured each other, they liked each other, they want each other, they need each other, they beseechingly desired each other, and they loved each other like politicians with corruptions. They declared their love for each other, and not so long they stood in front of an overfilled church congregation to publicly declare their love for each other in a one-in-town society marriage. They swam in their love and lived very, very comfortable and happily in love. Saratu wasn't in need of anything, even sex. Bindul gave her all the practical part of love, the love that was made in heaven for a woman, that kind of love that made her feel as though she was the only EVE with the only ADAM in this modern world, and she was wholly dependable on it. Like King Solomon to his wives and concubines, Bindul lavished Saratu with the sweetest, lovely words and praises. He gave her all that she needed in life. But when Saratu later discovered that her husband was still madly in love with Jimikat, his primeval girlfriend, things weren't the same again for her. Their loveliest sex-packed marriage suffered a temporary drought of sex. Saratu first ran to her dear friend Dakmikat for help. Despite doing everything, her husband clung onto Jimikat like a tick to a cow. But at the end, when Bindul brought the two of them together, the problem was solved, and Saratu and Jimikat became very, very good friends and lived very happily under the spell of Bindul.
