Jonathan Edwards's Philosophy of History Avihu Zakai, 2009-02-09 Avihu Zakai analyzes Jonathan Edwards's redemptive mode of historical thought in the context of the Enlightenment As theologian and philosopher Edwards has long been a towering figure in American intellectual history Nevertheless and despite Edwards's intense engagement with the nature of time and the meaning of history there has been no serious attempt to explore his philosophy of history Offering the first such exploration Zakai considers Edwards's historical thought as a reaction in part to the varieties of Enlightenment historical narratives and their growing disregard for theistic considerations Zakai analyzes the ideological origins of Edwards's insistence that the process of history depends solely on God's redemptive activity in time as manifested in a series of revivals throughout history reading this doctrine as an answer to the threat posed to the Christian theological teleology of history by the early modern emergence of a secular conception of history and the modern legitimation of historical time In response to the Enlightenment refashioning of secular historical time and its growing emphasis on human agency Edwards strove to re establish God s preeminence within the order of time Against the de Christianization of history and removal of divine power from the historical process he sought to re enthrone God as the author and lord of history and thus to re enchant the historical world Placing Edwards s historical thought in its broadest context this book will be welcomed by those who study early modern history American history or religious culture and experience in America

Pinn, Benjamin Valentin, 2001-04 The latter half of the twentieth century saw the development of liberationist and progressive theologies whose aim is both to understand life and to enhance it by focusing attention on the ways in which certain groups and ethnic minorities suffer injustices that are traceable to political economy and culture Although African American and Hispanic Latino a theologies emerged side by side the development and analysis of theology within these ethnic groups occurred independently of each other That is to say African American and Hispanic Latino a theologians and religious scholars have rarely inquired into the possibility and desirability of a cross cultural dialogue between these two communities Acknowledging both the previous lack of substantive dialogue and the present need for coalition among disadvantaged groups five African American and five Hispanic Latino a theologians here explore their common historical and cultural heritage and their similar chronicle of struggle and affirmation The aim is develop overarching meaning systems that encourage and sustain holistic imagination notions of self and communal integrity social activism and solidarity Among the topics treated are the core themes concerns and historical development of these two theologies the roles played by scripture tradition imagination and individual and collective experience popular religion Womanist and Mujerista theologies ways of dealing with pain suffering and subjugation and finally strategies for building bridges between communities of struggle

Faith and Human Transformation James Forsyth, 1997 This book proposes the parallel concept that authentic faith development both presupposes and facilitates authentic human development Thomas Aquinas posited a reciprocal relationship between nature and grace grace both presupposes or builds on nature and perfects nature Translated into developmental terms this would mean that religious and spiritual growth takes place on the foundation of healthy human growth and reciprically the authentic religious development facilitates development towards the goals of authentic human growth This study attempts to investigate the validity of this reciprical relationship as it applies to human and religious growth A dialogue is constructed between the views of four Christian thinkers Kierkegaard Barth Bultmann and Tillich on the dynamics of the Christian faith experience and four psychological theorists Alsler Fromm Allport and Frankl on the dynamics of human growth
