R. Oliver,IUCN/SSC Pigs and Peccaries Specialist Group,IUCN/SSC Hippo Specialist Group,1993 Tropical Forests Bozzano G Luisa,2012-12-02 Proceedings of a conference on Tropical Forests Botanical Dynamics Speciation and Diversity held at the University of Aarhus Denmark August 8 ba10 1988 The increasing rate of destruction of the world s tropical forests gives grave cause for concern on several counts In conservative terms species are being lost at an incredible rate many before they have even been described In scientific terms habitats communities and unique systems are lost before they can be studied and used to broaden our understanding of ecological processes in general The meeting on which this book is based aimed to address two basic needs to describe some of the marvellous biological treasures of tropical forests and to learn what they can tell us about processes in ecology and to alert us all once again to the disaster which is overtaking this rich and varied environment Hunting for Sustainability in Tropical Forests John Robinson,Elizabeth L. Bennett,2000-02-08 Throughout the world people are concerned about the demise of tropical forests and their wildlife Hunting by forest dwelling people has a dramatic effect on wildlife in many tropical forests frequently driving species to local extinction with devastating implications for other species and the health of the forests themselves But wildlife is an important source of protein and cash for rural peoples Can hunting be managed to conserve biological communities while meeting human needs Are hunting rates as practiced by tropical forest peoples sustainable If not what are the biological social and cultural implications of this failure Answering these questions is ever more important as national and international agencies seek to integrate the development of local peoples with the conservation of tropical forest systems and species This book presents a wide array of studies that examine the sustainability of hunting as practiced by rural peoples Comprising work by both biological and social scientists Hunting for Sustainability in Tropical Forests provides a balanced viewpoint on the ecological and human aspects of this hunting The first section examines the effects of hunting on wildlife in tropical forests throughout the world The next section looks at the importance of hunting to local communities The third section looks at institutional challenges of resource management while the fourth draws on economic perspectives to understand both hunting and sustainability A final section provides synthesis and summary of the factors that influence sustainability and the implications for management Drawing on examples from Ecuador to Congo Zaire to Sulawesi Hunting for Sustainability in Tropical Forests will be a valuable resource to policymakers conservation organizations and students and scholars of biology ecology and anthropology Technical Series Bulletin United States. Agency for International Development. Office of Agriculture, 1975 Guide to Reviews of Books from and about Hispanic America Antonio Matos, 1977 Animal Myths and Metaphors in South America Gary Urton, 1985 What similarities and differences do humans see between themselves and animals Why do people commonly make metaphorical comparisons between human beings or social groups and animals and to what degree are people's attitudes and beliefs about animals parallel to or contingent upon their attitudes and beliefs about human beings and human society This collection of articles considers these issues The issues are basic in any study of totemism or human and animal relationships and they have been discussed in anthropological literature since the time of Lewis Henry Morgan's work on Iroquois social organization The contributors to this anthology have not limited themselves to the notion that clans and moieties are the only sources and objects of metaphorical comparisons between humans and animals They suggest a shift in perspective that has metaphorical comparisons generated by conceived similarities and differences between animals and particular types of human beings Some examples of this include macaw fledglings as adolescents pumas as fully initiated men and foxes as young married men With this shift of emphasis a significantly different analytic focus in the study of human animal relations is produced Third World/Iowa: Latin America University of Iowa. Libraries, 1987 The Chaco Mission Frontier James Schofield Saeger, 2022-08-23 Spanish missions in the New World usually pacified sedentary peoples accustomed to the agricultural mode of mission life prompting many scholars to generalize about mission history James Saeger now reconsiders the effectiveness of the missions by examining how Guaycuruan peoples of South America's Gran Chaco adapted to them during the eighteenth century Because the Guaycuruans were hunter gatherers less suited to an agricultural lifestyle their attitudes and behaviors can provide new insight about the impact of missions on native peoples Responding to recent syntheses of the mission system Saeger proposes that missions in the Gran Chaco did not fit the usual pattern Through research in colonial documents he reveals the Guaycuruan perspective on the missions thereby presenting an alternative view of Guaycuruan history and the development of the mission system He investigates Guaycuruan social economic political and religious life before the missions and analyzes subsequent changes he then traces Guaycuruan history into the modern era and offers an assessment of what Catholic missions meant to these peoples Saeger s research into Spanish documents is unique for its elicitation of the Indian point of view He not only reconstructs Guaycuruan life independent of Spanish contact but also shows how these Indians negotiated the conditions under which they would adapt to the mission way of life thereby retaining much of their independence By showing that the Guaycuruans were not as restricted in missions as has been assumed Saeger demonstrates that there is a distinct difference between the establishment of missions and conquest The Chaco Mission Frontier helps redefine mission studies by correcting overgeneralization about their role in Latin America

At the Crossroads of the Earth and the Sky Gary Urton, 2013-12-18

Above Misminay the sky also is so divided by the alternation of the two axes of the Milky Way passing through the zenith This mirror image quadri partition of terrestrial and celestial spheres is such that a point within one of the quarters of the earth is related to a point within the corresponding celestial quarter The transition between the earth and the sky occurs at the horizon where sacred mountains are related to topographic and celestial features Based on fieldwork in Misminay Peru Gary Urton details a cosmology in which the Milky Way is central This is the first study that provides a description and analysis of the astronomical and cosmological system in a contemporary community in the Americas Separate chapters take up the sun the moon meteorological phenomena the stars and the planets Star to star constellations the animal dark cloud constellations that cut through the Milky Way and certain twilight and midnight zenith stars are analyzed in terms of their spatial and temporal integration within an indigenous cosmological framework Urton breaks new ground by demonstrating the indigenous merging of such forms of precise knowledge as astronomy meteorology agriculture and the correlation of astronomical and biological cycles within a single calendar system More than sixty diagrams clarify this Quechua system of astronomy and relate it to more familiar principles of Western astronomy and cosmology
