Two-dimensional Flow on General Surfaces of Revolution in Turbomachines John D. Stanitz, 1952 A method of analysis is developed for two dimensional flow on general surfaces of revolution in turbomachines with arbitrary blade shapes The method of analysis is developed for steady compressible nonviscous irrotational flow that is assumed uniform normal to the surfaces of revolution Incompressible solutions on a mean surface of revolution between the hub and shroud are presented for four rates through each of two centrifugal impellers with the same hub shroud contours but with different blade spacings In addition correlation equations are developed whereby the velocity components and the stream function distribution can be predicted for compressible or incompressible flow in straight blade impellers only with any tip speed flow rate area variation blade spacing and for any flow surface of revolution
