Multiculturalism In The College Curriculum A Handbook Of Strategies And Resources For Faculty:

Multiculturalism in the College Curriculum Marilyn Lutzker, 1995-03-18 Emphasizing that diversity in the curriculum is as much about a way of thinking as it is about specific information Lutzker presents a compendium of innovative and practical classroom strategies and widely available information resources which will enable faculty to increase the multicultural content of their courses without necessarily making major changes in their accustomed methods of teaching This is a handbook for college faculty in all disciplines who would like to increase the multicultural content of their courses but have been reluctant to do so for a variety of reasons including an already overloaded syllabus a lack of background in the subject uncertainty about student reactions or lack of time to make substantial changes in an existing syllabus Administrators anxious to increase diversity in the curriculum of their institutions but unable to fund large scale curriculum revision projects will also find this volume useful Part I is concerned with classroom strategies and with student research projects Starting with discussions of objectives and priorities the underlying role of critical thinking and the importance of language sensitivity the book then describes specific classroom strategies useful for increasing diversity The subsequent chapters are devoted to discussions of general guidelines for developing student projects with a multicultural perspective innovative alternatives to the traditional term paper and suggestions for multicultural student projects which do not require library research Part I concludes with a discussion of possible student reactions to increased multiculturalism and suggested approaches to those reactions Part II is concerned with information resources which will be useful to instructors and to students Fully annotated lists are provided in a variety of areas including widely available primary sources specialized biographical directories sources for sample syllabi in all disciplines guides to ethnic and foreign press to films and videos and to electronic resources Part II concludes with a discussion designed to increase efficiency in using the library catalog to locate information in multicultural subject areas Appendices provide sample research worksheets a list of small publishers and distributors of multicultural books and an annotated bibliography Resources in Education ,2000-10 College and University ,1995

Supervision in Schools Raymond C. Garubo, Stanley William Rothstein, 1998-01-26 Does fear or trust dominate relationships in your school s classrooms How well do supervisors listen to and respond to teachers How well do teachers listen to and respond to students How are problems identified and solved Supportive Supervision in Schools is a guide for teachers and administrators who want to create good school climates and a school culture that encourages professional growth and development among staff members It uses a conferencing method to allow teachers administrators and students to discuss and reflect upon what they are doing inside the school building Old ideas about leadership models have not been supported by empirical research and have not influenced the way school leaders and teachers do their work This book points to specific skill areas that need attention It specifies that the creation of supportive environments occurs in weekly individual and group conferences The authors stress the importance of listening and speaking so that messages are not distorted or misunderstood and emphasize trust building Using actual examples this work shows how to construct supportive environments and how to identify and resolve problems
