My Mothers House:

In My Mother's House Kim Chernin, 2019-10-15 In My Mother's House depicts a profound intergenerational struggle between a powerful politically engaged mother Rose and her spiritually inclined poet and writer daughter Kim. Framing this collision are two other generations: There is Rose's mother from the shtetl, a broken woman regularly beaten by her husband but the source of the family's stories. And Kim's daughter, a second generation fully assimilated girl of eight at the time the book begins. Four generations from the shtetl to an affluent intellectual household in Berkeley, California, the story is a historical record and reckoning between the old activist left and a beginning feminist movement. The double narrative allows Kim to explore the evolving relationship between mother and daughter who through their storytelling are brought to a profound understanding and reconciliation.

My Mother's House David Armand, 2016-03-11 Set in the bucolic yet brutal South of his youth, My Mother's House is a memoir by novelist David Armand. It recounts the young author's early memories of being born to a schizophrenic mother, then given up for adoption only to be raised in a home with an alcoholic and abusive step father. In this sharply remembered portrait of the people and places that shaped him, Armand paints his seemingly negative experiences with a sympathetic and understanding brush. As the reader follows Armand through his childhood and later into adult life when he is reunited with his mother after she makes a failed suicide attempt, a surprisingly new world of hope and possibility is rendered despite the overwhelming challenges of this reunion. Armand's writing is reminiscent of Hemingway's straightforward descriptions of manly action punctuated by laconic dialogue. New York Journal of Books. Armand writes in a comfortingly familiar literary voice that blends Ernest Hemingway's laconic but rhythmically complicated explorations of the mysteries of masculinity with William Faulkner's more fabulist Southern Gothic twang. It's a heady, seductively intoxicating combination. Richmond Times Dispatch.

In My Mother's House Sharika Thiranagama, 2011-08-16 In May 2009 the Sri Lankan army overwhelmed the last stronghold of the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam, better known as the Tamil Tigers, officially bringing an end to nearly three decades of civil war. Although the war has ended, the place of minorities in Sri Lanka remains uncertain, not least because the lengthy conflict drove entire populations from their homes. The figures are jarring: for example, all of the roughly 80,000 Muslims in northern Sri Lanka were expelled from the Tamil Tiger-controlled north, and nearly half of all Sri Lankan Tamils were displaced during the course of the civil war. Sharika Thiranagama's In My Mother's House provides ethnographic insight into two important groups of internally displaced people: northern Sri Lankan Tamils and Sri Lankan Muslims. Through detailed engagement with ordinary people struggling to find a home in the world, Thiranagama explores the dynamics within and between these two minority communities, describing how these relations were reshaped by violence, displacement, and authoritarianism. In doing so, she illuminates an often overlooked intraminority relationship and new social forms created through protracted war. In My Mother's House revolves around three major themes: ideas of home in the midst of profound displacement; transformations of familial experience and the impact of the political violence carried out by both the Tamil Tigers and the Sri Lankan state on ordinary lives and public speech Her rare focus on the effects and responses to LTTE political regulation and violence demonstrates that envisioning a peaceful future for postconflict Sri Lanka requires taking stock of the new Tamil and Muslim identities forged by the civil war These identities cannot simply be cast away with the end of the war but must be negotiated anew

My Mother's House Francesca Momplaisir, 2021-04-13 One of the Best Books of the Year Elle Harper's Bazaar Vulture This uncompromising look at the immigrant experience and the depravity of one man is an electrifying page turner rooted in a magical reality Impossible to stop reading Vulture When Lucien flees Haiti with his wife Marie Ange and their three children to New York City's South Ozone Park he does so hoping for reinvention wealth and comfort He buys a run down house in a quickly changing community and begins life anew Lucien and Marie Ange call their home La Kay my mother's house and it becomes a place where their fellow immigrants can find peace a good meal and necessary legal help But as a severely emotionally damaged man emigrating from a country whose evils he knows to one whose evils he doesn't Lucien soon falls into his worst habits and impulses with La Kay as the backdrop for his lasciviousness What he can't begin to fathom is that the house is watching passing judgment and deciding to put an end to all the sins it has been made to hold But only after it has set itself aflame will frightened whispers reveal Lucien's ultimate evil
