Palliative Care In Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Motor Neurone Disease:

Palliative Care in Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (motor Neurone Disease) David Oliver, Gian Domenico Borasio, Declan Walsh, 2000 Although new treatments for amyotrophic lateral sclerosis motor neurone disease are being developed these at present offer only the potential to slow the disease process Therefore a palliative care approach to the care of the patient and their family is at the center of good clinical practice in ALS MND This book aims to provide an evidence based guide to the care of people with ALS MND including the control of symptoms the psychosocial care of patients and their families and care in bereavement The palliative care approach to the care of ALS MND is outlined and the role of the multidisciplinary team emphasized The international authorship are from many different disciplines and are all closely involved in the care of ALS patients giving a depth of practical knowledge and experience and allowing a comparison of the differences across cultures social circumstances health care systems and nations All contributors are clinicians involved in the care of people with ALS MND and they are able to provide clear guidelines of the care throughout the disease process from telling of the diagnosis to death The experience of patients and families are considered and case studies are provided to show the practical applications of the theoretical knowledge An evidence based approach grounded in day to day care of patients is used Different models of care are explored and the interaction of palliative care with other treatment regimes is addressed as the experience from the treatment of cancer has shown that there may easily be areas of conflict and confusion if there is a lack of clarity in the care provided for patients The book aims to provide a reference for all involved in the care of patients with ALS MND including neurologists general physicians rehabilitationists paramedical staff general family practitioners and specialist palliative care teams The care of a patient with ALS MND and their family is often a challenge but one all should take up so that patients can live life as fully as possible

Palliative Care in Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis David Oliver, Gian Domenico Borasio, Wendy Johnston, 2014-03-20 Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis ALS or motor neurone disease is a progressive neurodegenerative disease that can cause profound suffering for both the patient and their family Whilst new treatments for ALS are being developed these are not curative and offer only the potential to slow its progression Palliative care must therefore be integral to the clinical approach to the disease Palliative Care in Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis From diagnosis to bereavement reflects the wide scope of this care it must cover not just the terminal phase but support the patient and their family from the onset of the disease Both the multidisciplinary palliative care team and the neurology team are essential in providing a high standard of care and allowing quality of life both patient and carer to be maintained Clear guidelines are provided to address care throughout the disease process Control of symptoms is covered alongside the psychosocial care of patients and their families Case studies are used to emphasise the complexity of the care needs and involvement of the patient and family culminating in discussion of bereavement Different models of care are explored and this new edition utilizes the increase in both the evidence base and available literature on the subject New topics discussed include complementary therapies personal and family experiences of ALS new genetics research and updated guidelines for patient care to ensure this new edition remains the essential guide to palliative care in ALS Palliative Care in Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis David Oliver, Gian Domenico Borasio, Declan Walsh, 2006 Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis or motor neurone disease is a rare disease but one that can cause profound suffering for both the patient and their family Whilst new treatments for ALS are being developed these are not curative and offer only the potential to slow its progression Palliative care must therefore be integral to the clinical approach to the disease Palliative Care in Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis From diagnosis to bereavement reflects the wide scope of this care it must cover not just the terminal phase but support the patient and their family from the onset of the disease Both the multidisciplinary palliative care team and the neurology team are essential in providing a high standard of care and allowing quality of life both patient and carer to be maintained Clear guidelines are provided to address care throughout the disease process Control of symptoms is covered alongside the psychosocial care of patients and their families culminating in discussion of bereavement The experience of patients and families is considered and case studies are provided to show the practical application of the theoretical knowledge Different models of care are explored and this new edition utilises the increase in both the evidence base and available literature on the subject Additional chapters on nursing spiritual care decision making and ethical issues surrounding end of life care ensure that this new edition remains the essential guide to palliative care in ALS Palliative Care in Neurology, Volume II Raymond Voltz, Marianne De Visser, David John Oliver, 2022-03-11 Supportive Care in Respiratory Disease Sam Ahmedzai, Martin F. Muers, 2005 Respiratory symptoms such as breathlessness and cough are common in patients with advancing and incurable disease For example cancer chronic cardiac and pulmonary disease progressive neuromuscular disorders and degenerative disorders all give rise to varying degrees of respiratory distress which adversely affects the patient's quality of life In recent years there has been significant growth into the palliation of respiratory symptoms leading to practical ways of giving relief in hospices hospitals and at home The book includes non malignant respiratory diseases such as tuberculosis in AIDS patients ventilator dependent patients and cystic fibrosis and focuses on aetiology and diagnosis and management emphasizing symptoms quality of life and psychosocial support The underlying theme of the book is the application of modern research based knowledge in a humane way for patients with advancing disease Aimed primarily at specialists in palliative care oncology and respiratory physicians doctors nurses physiotherapists and pharmacists will also be interested The book will appeal to those working in acute specialties such as cardiology or pulmonary medicine whose patients are not usually considered for palliative care but in whom relief of distressing respiratory problems could improve the quality of life Psychological Issues in Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Francesco Pagnini, Gianluca Castelnovo, 2016-03-02 Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis is a fatal and progressive disease characterized by progressive muscle weakness with consequent loss of physical capacities Patients become relentlessly immobile and in the late stages of the disease develop a locked in state in which only residual muscular movement is possible but the intellect and the personality usually remain unimpaired At now there is no cure for ALS The psychological impact of the disease is huge on both patients and caregivers Aim of the present Research Topic is to collect new evidence about quality of life depression anxiety pain spiritual and existential issues hope and hopelessness in the ALS field with attention to both patients and their caregivers Emphasis will be provided to the investigation of psychological support and the possible role of psychologists in this challenging field Keywords Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Health Psychology Clinical Psychology Motor Neuron Disorder Quality of Life Subtopics The subtopics to be covered in the Research Topic include but not limited to 1 Assessment of psychological variables in ALS 2 Quality of life during the course of the illness 3 Impact of technological assistance to illness wheelchairs NIV 4 Interfaces among biological psychosocial and social factors 5 Psychological and psychotherapeutic interventions 6 Couple and family relationships 7 Research methodology measurement and statistics 8 Cultural and social features of ALS 9 Professional issues including training and supervision 10 Implications of research findings for health related policy

Palliative Care in Neurology Raymond Voltz,Marianne de Visser,David Oliver,2020-03-10 Over the last 50 years palliative care has usually been associated with cancer patients but more recently there has been increased discussion of the role of palliative care for neurological patients In the past years neurology has moved from being a purely diagnostic area to a very therapeutically active one A further step needs to be taken to modify the therapeutic activity from cure to care depending on the patient s disease trajectory Palliative care has been associated with care at the end of life whereas it may be appropriate earlier in the disease progression and will extend after death in the support of bereaved families The care of patients with neurological disease and their families will encompass the psychological spiritual and existential issues and neurologists and the teams in which they work should develop skills to consider all aspects of care in order to maximize the quality of life of all involved and enable patients to die peacefully

Neurodegenerative Disorders as Systemic Diseases Keiji Wada, 2015-10-21 This book sheds new light on neurodegenerative disorders as systemic diseases Classically neuronal cell death was a hallmark of such disorders However it has become evident that neural dysfunction is more important in the pathophysiology of neurodegenerative disorders More recently the prionoid spreading hypothesis of disease causing molecules has attracted a great deal of attention Therapeutic strategies thus must be reconsidered in the light that neurodegenerative disorders are indeed systemic diseases The first part of this book introduces the concept of neurodegeneration in biology and pathophysiology The second part focuses on clinical evaluation and biomarkers from the perspective of this new concept while the third summarizes the risk factors of neurodegeneration The fourth part of this work indicates future directions of treatment and the final part discusses health promotion for prevention and quality of life This book will be of interest to both researchers and medical personnel and provides a fresh approach to neurodegenerative diseases paving the way to new research and improved quality of health care for patients
