Funerals, Festivals, and Cultural Politics in Porfirian Mexico Matthew D. Esposito, 2010 When President Benito Ju rez died unexpectedly of a heart attack in 1872 the Mexican government declared a seven day period of mourning Nearly the entire population of Mexico City filed past Ju rez s body as it lay in state in the National Palace Over 100 000 people watched the magnificent procession of his hearse and countless mourners vied for position to listen to his eulogies Ju rez s was the last state funeral for a sitting president in republican Mexico and the public response proved the existence of a Mexican national community It also gave birth to the cultural politics and mythical discourse of the Porfirian regime that would overthrow Juárez's successor in 1876 In 1902 Mexican journalist congressman and intellectual Justo Sierra asserted that Mexico gained both national pride and its international personality during the long reign of Porfirio Díaz Matthew Esposito argues that much of this identity stemmed from Díaz's reliance on memorialism Over the course of thirty five years the Porfirian state constructed dozens of national monuments performed countless commemorations and held 110 state funerals While most historians have argued that Díaz's reign owed its longevity to extralegal activities and personal appeals to loyalty Esposito examines Díaz's successful manipulation of cults of the dead hero cults and national memory to shape the perception of his leadership
