Recent Work in Critical Theory, 1989-1995, 1996 Literary Research and British Postmodernism Bridgit

McCafferty, Arianne Hartsell-Gundy, 2015-09-02 Literary Research and British Postmodernism is a guide for scholars that aims to connect the complex relationships between print and multimedia technological advancements and the influence of critical theory that converge in postwar British literature. This era is unique in that strict boundaries between fiction, nonfiction, multimedia, and print are not useful. Postmodern literature is defined by the breaking down of boundaries as a reaction to modernism and requires an innovative, multifaceted approach to research. In this guide, the authors explore these complex relationships and offer strategies for researching this new period of literature. This book takes a holistic approach to postmodern literature that recognizes the way in which digital media, film, critical theory, popular music, and more traditional print sources are inextricably linked. Through this approach, the authors present a broad view of postmodernism that includes a wide variety of British authors writing in the last half of the twentieth century. The book's definition of postmodern includes any British literature following World War II that engages issues central to postmodern theory, including the social construction of gender, sexuality, and power; the subjectivity of truth; technology as a social force; intertextuality; metafiction; postcolonial narrative; and fantasy. This guide aims to aid researchers of postwar British literature by defining best practices for scholars conducting research in a period so broadly varied in the way it defines literature. Wilkie Collins's Library

William Baker, 2002-03-30 Wilkie Collins 1824-1889 is a major British Victorian novelist, dramatist, short story writer, and journalist. He is best known today as the author of The Moonstone, which T. S. Eliot called the first and greatest English detective novel. He has been the subject of two recent biographies, and a revival of interest in his works is now under way. In particular, there is growing concern with his intellectual development, as witnessed by the 1999 publication of his collected letters. This reconstruction of his library offers a thorough analysis of the books he owned and his response to them, and thus illuminates Collins as a reader and writer. The book begins with a narrative discussion of the contents of Collins's library and its auction. This introductory essay sheds light on the types of books he owned, his use of those texts in his writings, and the dispersion of his collection in 1890. The bulk of the volume provides annotated entries for each item from his library. Entries include publication and bibliographic information, descriptions from sale catalogs, information about the author of the item, citations of the book or author from Collins's letters, and information on the present location or subsequent history of the item. An appendix catalogs paintings and artwork in Collins's possession at the time of his death. Transfigured Andrew P.

Wilson, 2007-09-15 Uses Derrida to read the Gospels of Mark A. E. Housman NA, 2016-04-30 This collection of essays was conceived as part of the centenary celebrations of the first publication in 1896 of one of the most popular collections of poetry ever written. A Shropshire lad, a collection never out of print in a hundred years. Yet Housman was a recluse, an austere classicist of great renown who devoted his academic life to the correction of ancient texts. He filled his poems with the lives loves and deaths of simple country people whose emotions are intense and often violent but lived his own life in stoic acceptance of his loveless arid existence Why his life should have been so intentionally empty of emotion raises questions about Housman s own sexuality and the relationship he had with his friend Moses Jackson and Jackson s brother Afalbert Housman s poetry like his life is deceptively simple this volume shows some of the complex currents below the surface John Irving Harold Bloom,2001 A collection of eleven chronologically arranged pieces of literary criticism on the works of twentieth century American author John Irving with a chronology and secondary bibliography essays cover the novels The World According to Garp The Hotel New Hampshire The 158 Pound Marriage A Prayer for Owen Meany and The Cider House Rules Literary Research Guide James L.
