Bewley,1989-10-01 Over fifty years have passed since the first patient was treated with fast neutrons but this form of therapy is still a matter of bitter dispute Neutron generators have been installed in many countries and now patients can be treated with equipment that is technically similar to modern megavoltage x ray equipment The Physics and Radiobiology of Fast Neutron Beams presents a full discussion of the physical and radiobiological factors governing the production and use of fast neutron beams for therapy The book discusses vastly improved neutron generators advances in the standardization of dosimetric methods and the specification of radiation quality In addition it explores nuclear methods of analysis particularly neutron activation analysis in vivo Influencing the place of radiotherapy with neutrons and other heavy particles the radiobiological factors governing the treatment of cancer with radiation are examined The author also studies the radiation hazard of neutrons a matter of importance in the use of neutrons for chemical analysis in vivo The Physics and Radiobiology of Fast Neutron Beams will be a valuable introduction to the subject for radiotherapists medical physicists radiographers and radiobiologists new to the field The book is also a useful summary of current knowledge for those already established in the use of fast neutrons for medical purposes Nuclear Safety ,1968 Energy Research Abstracts ,1987 Radiation Protection for Particle Accelerator Facilities National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements,2003 The purpose of this Report is to provide design guidelines for radiation protection and to identify those aspects of radiological safety that are of major or even unique importance to the operation of particle accelerator installations and to suggest methods by which safe operation may be achieved The report is written from an engineering physics viewpoint and is intended to be useful to those engaged in the design and operation of accelerators particularly in smaller institutions and organizations that do not have a large radiological protection staff SI Units in Radiation Protection and Measurements National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements,1985 National Center for Radiological Health Research Projects Supported by Grant Funds ,1968 Ionizing Radiation Exposure of the Population of the United States National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements,1987 Nuclear Science Abstracts ,1976-06
