Movement And Mimesis:

Movement and Mimesis Mandakranta Bose, 2012-01-24 The most comprehensive view of the evolution of dancing in India is one that is derived from Sanskrit textual sources These texts are the basic material that students of the dance in India must examine in order to uncover its past Since the rebirth of informed interest in dancing in early twentieth century its antiquity has been acknowledged but precisely what the art was in antiquity remains unclear Discovering the oldest forms of dancing in India requires as do other historical quests a reconstruction of the past and again as in other historical investigations the primary sources of knowledge are records from the past In this case the records are treatises and manuals in Sanskrit that discuss and describe dancing These are the sources that the present work sets out to mine These texts taken collectively are more than records of a particular state of the art They testify to the growth of the theory and practice of the art and thus establish it as an evolving rather than a fixed art form that changed as much in response to its own expanding aesthetic boundaries as to parallel or complementary forms of dance drama and music that impinged upon it as India's social and political situation changed When we place the Sanskrit treatises in chronological sequence it becomes clear that the understanding of the art has changed through time in its infancy as well as in maturer periods The Path of Archaic

Thinking Kenneth Maly, 1995-03-02 This is the first anthology of commentary on Sallis that shows what is genuinely unique in his thought the transformative relation of reason and imagination in thinking after Heidegger A Democratic Enlightenment Morton Schoolman, 2020-04-03 In A Democratic Enlightenment Morton Schoolman proposes aesthetic education through film as a way to redress the political violence inflicted on difference that society constructs as its racialized gendered Semitic and sexualized other Drawing on Voltaire Diderot and Schiller Schoolman reconstructs the genealogical history of what he calls the reconciliation image a visual model of a democratic ideal of reconciliation he then theorizes through Whitman's prose and poetry and Adorno's aesthetic theory Analyzing The Help 2011 and Gentleman's Agreement 1947 Schoolman shows how film produces a more advanced image of reconciliation than those originally created by modernist artworks Each film depicts violence toward racial and ethnic difference while also displaying a reconciliation image that aesthetically educates the public about how the violence of constructing difference as otherness can be overcome Mounting a democratic enlightenment the reconciliation image in film illuminates a possible politics for challenging the rise of nationalism's violence toward differences in all their diversity Crises in Continental Philosophy Arleen B.

Dallery, Charles E. Scott, 1990-10-02 This book punctuates the moments of crisis in continental thought from the foundational crisis of reason in Husserl's call for a rigorous science of phenomenology to the current crisis of postmodernism and its rejection of Husserl's metanarrative of history and rationality The mediating links between these moments is the centrality of the epochal history of Being the power of cultural and disciplinary practices and the dispersal of meaning in the post-Husserlian and post-subjective philosophies of Heidegger Foucault Derrida and others Included here are the thoughts of leading scholars who critically discuss Husserl's analysis of the crisis of Western thought and the importance of the concepts of world in Husserl's early writings. The authors analyze the deprivileging of philosophy as social critique through the text of Husserl, Habermas, Foucault, and recent feminist theory. They examine the end of the epistemological and morally autonomous subject in continental thought. Together, these thoughts articulate multiple points or moments of crisis without cure or end.

Movement and Action in Learning and Development Ida Stockman, 2004-03-24. This book presents theories and clinical practices for dealing with children diagnosed with pervasive developmental disability or PDD. These are children who have a wide range of disabilities that affect their participation in even the most routine events of daily life such as eating, dressing, bathing, and so on. Unlike many who are diagnosed with classic autism, however, these children seem to have normal social behavior, normal physical appearance, the ability to learn, hear, see, and move their bodies at will. In other words, none of the well-known reasons that cause autistic and other children to develop differently. These children have the use of all their senses, but their brains are unable to process the information that is fed through them. While much new research is being done in genetics and neurobiology to explain why something in these children has gone fundamentally wrong with their development, clinicians and therapists who deal with them on a daily basis have needed to develop practical therapies based on how the children react to their environments. Movement and Action in Learning and Development suggests that when therapists plan treatment strategies, children's experiences and interactions with the world should be given the same consideration as the limits of their biological makeup. Too often, children diagnosed with PDD are lumped into therapy groups for the classically autistic, where the focus tends to be on the distance senses, hearing and vision. Case studies presented in the first half of the book suggest that for children with PDD, there is a disconnect between the brain and the tactile-kinesthetic senses that involve body movement and physical interaction with the world. Movement, in turn, seems to be connected to perception, interpretation of the world around, and ultimately the acquisition of knowledge. For children with PDD, normal learning seems to be limited not only by their tactile-kinesthetic sense but also by the lack of collaboration between all the senses. The second half of the book demonstrates how these new theories translate into clinical practices.

Mimetic Posthumanism, 2024-10-21. It is tempting to affirm that on and about November 2022, post-human character changed. The revolution in AI simulations certainly calls for an update of the ancient realization that humans are imitative animals or homo mimeticus. But the mimetic turn in posthuman studies is not limited to AI, from simulation to identification, affective contagion to viral mimesis, robotics to hypermimesis. The essays collected in this volume articulate the multiple facets of homo mimeticus. Challenging rationalist accounts of autonomous originality internal to the history of Homo sapiens, this volume argues from different artistic, philosophical, technological perspectives that the all-too-human tendency to imitate is paradoxically central to our ongoing process of becoming posthuman.

Performance and Modernity Julia A. Walker, 2022-01-06. This book argues that ideas first take shape in the human body appearing on stage in new styles of performance     The Philosophy of Improvisation Gary Peters, 2009-08-01 Improvisation is usually either lionized as an ecstatic experience of being in the moment or disparaged as the thoughtless recycling of clichés. Eschewing both of these orthodoxies, The Philosophy of Improvisation ranges across the arts from music to theater, dance to comedy and considers the improvised dimension of philosophy itself in order to elaborate an innovative concept of improvisation. Gary Peters turns to many of the major thinkers within continental philosophy including Heidegger, Nietzsche, Adorno, Kant, Benjamin and Deleuze, offering readings of their reflections on improvisation and exploring improvisational elements within their thinking. Peters's witty, humorous style offers an antidote to the frequently overheated celebration of freedom and community that characterizes most writing on the subject. Expanding the field of what counts as improvisation, The Philosophy of Improvisation will be welcomed by anyone striving to comprehend the creative process.

Dynamics in Circle Rituals Hongyan Chen, 2016 This study focuses on the issues of secrecy, ambiguity and flexibility in what is known as the morning circle in German schools. The morning circle has a longstanding tradition in the German school system and is widely practised. Over the past twenty years, this tradition has been the subject of increasing academic debates, many of which have suffered from one-sided viewpoints that reduce the morning circle to a warm-up phase for the school day or a means of teaching language. What has not been addressed in these debates is the initial notion of the circle as the primary feature of new education. Petersen, which challenged traditional educational ideas or the question as to why the morning circle has become so widespread in German schools today.

Matters of Spirit F. Scott Scribner, 2010 An interpretation of the philosophy of J. G. Fichte. Examines the impact of nineteenth-century psychological techniques and technologies on the formation of his theory of the imagination. Provided by publisher.

Animal Capital Nicole Shukin, 2009 The juxtaposition of biopolitical critique and animal studies, two subjects seldom theorized together, signals the double-edged intervention of Animal Capital. Nicole Shukin pursues a resolutely materialist engagement with the question of the animal, challenging the philosophical idealism that has dogged the question by tracing how the politics of capital and of animal life impinge on one another in market cultures of the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries.

Proceedings, American Philosophical Society (vol. 124, No. 4, 1980), Hidden Dimensions of Education Tobias Werler, Christoph Wulf, Given the complexity of education, educational science can only focus on a limited number of research areas. This book suggests a few new research topics, all of which have not received adequate attention. In the first part of the book, these topics are related to the rhetoric of education; in the second, to rituals in education.

Relearning Mads Hermansen, 2005 Relearning is a book about learning and the process of relearning. How are the process of learning in all its complexity and the claim of surplus thinking to be understood and described? These conceptions are brought into a dynamic interaction which ends up in a general model of learning. The author claims that this model is both a minimalist model for learning and a matrix to investigate other learning conceptions. Both the first and the second topic are investigated in the book.

BOOK JACKET     The Art of the Real Roger Rothman, Ian Verstegen, 2015-09-18

Art of the Real is devoted to registering the materialist turn of contemporary theory in visual studies For many years visual studies was dominated by post structuralist theory and its attendant nominalism More recently however the materialism of Slavoj i ek the realism of Gilles Deleuze especially as imputed by Manuel de Landa and Alain Badiou has disrupted this status quo Today we are more likely to take for granted the relevance of biology and the natural sciences while the return of Marx has been more serious than countenanced by Derrida or Foucault This book considers visual studies and the questions that have led to the new materialism its ontology and its relation to contemporary politics While a good deal of work has promoted a materialist agenda at the same time that scholars in art history and visual studies have felt liberated by the call to attend to objects materials and materiality no publication has yet treated this move for its meta theoretical commitments This volume does this by addressing the conditions that have brought about the turn to materiality the ontological commitments that follow on from new materialist metaphysics and the political implications wrought by these commitments

The Mimetic Tradition of Reform in the West Karl F. Morrison,2014-07-14 Ancient writers distinguished between art and style arguing that free imitation was a critical strategy that freed artists from servile copying of objects and blind submission to rules of style In this study Karl F Morrison explores the far reaching consequences of this distinction Originally published in 1982 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Bodies of the Text Ellen W. Goellner,Jacqueline Shea Murphy,1995 Dance and literary studies have traditionally been at odds dancers and dance critics have understood academic analysis to be overly invested in the mind at the expense of body signification literary critics and theorists have seen dance studies as anti theoretical even anti intellectual Bodies of the Text is the first book length study of the interconnections between the two arts and the body of writing about them The essays by scholar critics of dance and literature explore dances actual and fictional to offer powerful new insights into issues of gender race ethnicity popular culture feminist aesthetics historical embodiment identity politics and narrativity The general introduction traces the genealogy of dance studies in the academy to suggest why critical and theoretical attention to dance and dance s challenges to writing is both compelling and overdue A milestone in interdisciplinary studies Bodies of the Text opens both its fields to new inquiry new theoretical precision and to new readers and writers

Narrative Medicine Rita Charon,2006-03-02 In this important and long awaited book Rita Charon provides a comprehensive and systematic introduction to the conceptual principles underlying narrative medicine as well as a practical guide for implementing narrative methods in health care A true milestone in the field it will interest general readers and experts in medicine and humanities and literary theory

argued that deconstruction has to a considerable extent been formed by critical accounts of it This collection reprints a cross section of these important works charting the ways in which deconstruction is conceptualized and demonstrating the impact it has had on a wide range of traditions The essential pieces in this set include writings by Jacques Derrida Jonathan Culler Paul de Man Barbara Johnson and a wide range of key thinkers in areas as diverse as psychoanalysis law gender studies and architecture The major themes covered include Vol 1 Part I What is Deconstruction Part II Philosophy Vol 2 Part III Literary CriticismPart IV Feminism and Queer Theory Vol 3 Part V PsychoanalysisPart VI Religion TheologyPart VII Architecture Vol 4 Part VIII PoliticsPart IX Ethics

Dissemination Jacques Derrida, 2004-12-14 The notorious French philosopher literary critic and film star First translated in 1983 Dissemination contains three of Derrida's most central and seminal works Plato's Pharmacy The Double Session and Dissemination The essays provide original readings of philosophy and literature and present a re-evaluation of the logic of meaning and the function of writing in Western discourse This is a groundbreaking work on the relationship and interplay between language literature and philosophy
