Sacramento and the Catholic Church Steven Avella, 2008-08-22 This work examines the interplay between the city of Sacramento and the Catholic Church since the 1850s Avella uses Sacramento as a case study of the role of religious denominations in the development of the American West In Sacramento as in other western urban areas churches brought civility and various cultural amenities and they helped to create an atmosphere of stability so important to creating a viable urban community At the same time churches often had to shape themselves to the secularizing tendencies of western cities while trying to remain faithful to their core values and practices Besides the numerous institutions that the Church sponsored it brought together a wide spectrum of the city's diverse ethnic populations and offered them several routes to assimilation Catholic Sacramentans have always played an active role in government and in the city's economy and Catholic institutions provided a matrix for the creation of new communities as the city spread into neighboring suburbs At the same time the Church was forced to adapt itself to the needs and demands of its various ethnic constituents particularly the flood of Spanish speaking newcomers in the late twentieth century

Christian Ritual and the Creation of British Slave Societies, 1650-1780 Nicholas M. Beasley, 2010-01-25 This study offers a new and challenging look at Christian institutions and practices in Britain's Caribbean and southern American colonies Focusing on the plantation societies of Barbados Jamaica and South Carolina Nicholas M Beasley finds that the tradition of liturgical worship in these places was more vibrant and more deeply rooted in European Christianity than previously thought In addition Beasley argues white colonists' attachment to religious continuity was thoroughly racialized Church customs sacraments and ceremonies were a means of regulating slavery and asserting whiteness Drawing on a mix of historical and anthropological methods Beasley covers such topics as church architecture pew seating customs marriage baptism communion and funerals Colonists created an environment in sacred time and space that framed their rituals for maximum social impact and they asserted privilege and power by privatizing some rituals and by meting out access to rituals to people of color Throughout Beasley is sensitive to how this culture of worship changed as each colony reacted to its own political environmental and demographic circumstances across time Local factors influencing who partook in Christian rituals and how when and where these rituals took place could include the structure of the Anglican Church which tended to be less hierarchical and centralized than at home in England the level of tensions between Anglicans and Protestants the persistence of African religious beliefs and colonists attitudes toward free persons of color and elite slaves This book enriches an existing historiography that neglects the cultural power of liturgical Christianity in the early South and the British Caribbean and offers a new account of the translation of early modern English Christianity to early America
