The Social and Cultural Construction of Risk B.B. Johnson,V.T. Covello,2012-12-06 The Social and Cultural Construction of Risk Issues Methods and Case Studies Vincent T Covello and Branden B Johnson Risks to health safety and the environment abound in the world and people cope as best they can But before action can be taken to control reduce or eliminate these risks decisions must be made about which risks are important and which risks can safely be ignored The challenge for decision makers is that consensus on these matters is often lacking Risks believed by some individuals and groups to be tolerable or accept able such as the risks of nuclear power or industrial pollutants are intolerable and unacceptable to others This book addresses this issue by exploring how particular technological risks come to be selected for societal attention and action Each section of the volume examines from a different perspective how individuals groups communities and societies decide what is risky how risky it is and what should be done The writing of this book was inspired by another book Risk and Culture An Essay on the Selection of Technological and Environmental Dangers Published in 1982 and written by two distinguished scholars Mary Douglas a British social anthropologist and Aaron Wildavsky an American political scientist the book received wide critical attention and offered several provocative ideas on the nature of risk selection perception and acceptance

Cross-Cultural Risk Perception Ortwin Renn,Bernd Rohrman,2000-01-31 Cross Cultural Risk Perception demonstrates the richness and wealth of theoretical insights and practical information that risk perception studies can offer to policy makers risk experts and interested parties The book begins with an extended introduction summarizing the state of the art in risk perception research and core issues of cross cultural comparisons The main body of the book consists of four cross cultural studies on public attitudes towards risk in different countries including the United States Australia New Zealand France Germany Sweden Bulgaria Romania Japan and China The last chapter critically discusses the main findings from these studies and proposes a framework for understanding and investigating cross cultural risk perception Finally implications for communication regulation and management are outlined The two editors sociologist Ortwin Renn Center of Technology Assessment Germany and psychologist Bernd Rohrman University of Melbourne Australia have been engaged in risk research for the last three decades They both have written extensively on this subject and provided new empirical and theoretical insights into the growing body of international risk perception research
