Sahara Jil Fine,2004 Sahara Jil Fine,2002 Sahara Marq de Villiers,Sheila Hirtle,2003-09-01 In the parched and seemingly lifeless heart of the Sahara desert earthworms find enough moisture to survive Four major mountain ranges interrupt the flow of dunes and gravel plains and at certain times waterfalls cascade from their peaks Even the sand amazes massive dunes can appear almost overnight and be gone just as quickly We think we know the Sahara the largest and most austere desert on Earth yet it is full of surprises as Marq de Villiers reveals in his brilliant and evocative biography of the land and its people If you traveled across the United States from Boston to San Diego you still wouldn't have crossed the Sahara writes de Villiers painting a vivid picture of this most extraordinary place He charts the course of Atlantic hurricanes many of which are born in the Tibesti Mountains of northern Chad and offers a fascinating disquisition on the physics of windblown sand and the formation of dunes He chronicles the formation of the massive aquifers that lie beneath the desert some filled with water that pre dates the appearance of modern man on Earth He marvels at the jagged mountains and at ancient cave paintings deep in the desert which reveal that the Sahara was a verdant grassland 10 000 years ago a cycle that has been repeated several times Woven through de Villiers's story is a chronicle of the desert's nations and people the Berbers and Arabs of the north its black African south whose ancestors peopled the greatest empires of Old Africa and the extraordinary nomads the Moors the Tuareg the famous blue men and the Tubu who call the desert home today Illuminated by the eloquent written testimonies of past travelers Sahara is a glittering geographic tour conveying the majesty mystery and abundance of life in what the outside world thinks of as the Great Emptiness Sahara Desert Megan

Sub-Saharan Africa Gregory H. Maddox, 2006-03-24 A wealth of information and analysis on the environmental forces that have helped shape the cultures of the African continent. A scholarly reference work that will also appeal to the general reader. Sub-Saharan Africa sets the story of the African environment within the context of geological time and shows how the continent's often harsh conditions prompted humans to develop unique skills in agriculture, animal husbandry, and environmental management. Part of ABC-CLIO's Nature and Human Societies series, this book enables readers to better grasp the extent of humanity's effect on our world. Of particular interest are the book's sections dealing with the impact of the Biafran famine of the 1960s, the Sahelian drought of the 1970s, population growth, and the ongoing challenges of war and HIV/AIDS. Crucially, the book also shows how, despite their relative poverty, many African states have coped admirably with rapid urbanization and have developed world-class conservation and sustainability programs in order to protect and harness some of the most endangered species in the world.
