Rethinking Testimonial Cinema in Postdictatorship Argentina Veronica Garibotto, 2019-01-07 For roughly two decades after the collapse of the military regime in 1983 testimonial narrative was viewed and received as a privileged genre in Argentina Today however academics and public intellectuals are experiencing memory fatigue a backlash against the concepts of memory and trauma just as memory and testimonial films have reached the center of Argentinian public discourse In Rethinking Testimonial Cinema in Postdictatorship Argentina Veronica Garibotto looks at the causes for this reticence and argues that rather than discarding memory texts for their repetitive excess it is necessary to acknowledge them and their exhaustion as discourses of the present By critically examining how trauma theory and subaltern studies have previously been applied to testimonial cinema Garibotto rereads Argentinian films produced since 1983 and calls for an alternate interpretive framework at the intersection of semiotics theories of affect scholarship on hegemony and the ideological uses of documentary and fiction She argues that recurrent concepts such as trauma mourning memory and subalternity miss how testimonial films have changed over time shifting from subaltern narratives to official hegemonic and iconic accounts Her work highlights the urgent need to continue to study these types of narratives particularly at a time when military dictatorships have become entrenched in Latin America and memory narratives proliferate worldwide Although Argentina is Garibotto's focus her theory can be adapted to other contexts in which narratives about recent political conflicts have shifted from alternative versions of history to official hegemonic accounts such as in Spanish Chilean Uruguayan Brazilian South African and Holocaust testimonies Garibotto's study of testimonial cinema moves us to pursue a broader ideological analysis of the links between film and historical representation
