Metacognition in Educational Theory and Practice Douglas J. Hacker, John Dunlosky, Arthur C. Graesser, 1998-03

Examines the ways in which metacognition has made the shift from theory to practice in education Teaching English as Second Language Aarati R Mujumdar, 2025-04-29 This multidisciplinary volume is a systematic well researched resource to help understand the methods and techniques of teaching English as a second language It integrates theory with praxis drawing on the Cognitivist Social interactionist theory and Constructivist approaches adopted in an English classroom It provides insights into recent trends in teaching given the changed teaching learning scenario in education while simultaneously aiding in the development of the 4IR skills much needed in the 21st century Written in an easy to understand language the book expounds on various language skills and their application in real world classrooms These classroom tested techniques can be used by teachers by modifying the context in which they are used The tasks help develop critical thinking and problem solving abilities in learners The techniques and practices elucidated in the book are designed to be accessible to a global readership This book will be useful to students pre service teachers and researchers who are new to the teaching of English Language It will also be an essential companion to practicing in service teachers and Teacher Trainers to further sharpen their concepts and skills Thinking Through Place on the Early Modern English Stage Andrew Bozio, 2020-02-06

Thinking Through Place on the Early Modern English Stage argues that environment and embodied thought continually shaped one another in the performance of early modern English drama It demonstrates this first by establishing how characters think through their surroundings not only how they orient themselves within unfamiliar or otherwise strange locations but also how their environs function as the scaffolding for perception memory and other forms of embodied thought It then contends that these moments of thinking through place theorise and thematise the work that playgoers undertook in reimagining the stage as the setting of the dramatic fiction By tracing the relationship between these two registers of thought in such plays as The Malcontent Dido Queen of Carthage Tamburlaine King Lear The Knight of the Burning Pestle and Bartholomew Fair this book shows that drama makes visible the often invisible means by which embodied subjects acquire a sense of their surroundings It also reveals how in doing so theatre altered the way that playgoers perceived experienced and imagined place in early modern England Critical Thinking and Language Tim John Moore, 2011-10-13

This book clarifies the idea of critical thinking by investigating the critical practices of academics across a range of disciplines Drawing on key theorists Wittgenstein Geertz Williams Halliday and using a textographic approach the book explores how the concept of critical thinking is understood by academics and also how it is constructed discursively in the texts and practices they employ in their teaching Critical thinking is one of the most widely discussed concepts in debates on university learning For many the idea of teaching students to be critical thinkers characterizes more than anything else the overriding purpose of higher education But whilst there is general agreement about its importance as an educational ideal there is surprisingly little agreement about what the concept means exactly Also at issue is how and what students need to be taught in order to be properly critical in their field This searching monograph seeks answers to these important questions
