

Horkheimer and Adorno 5

The Culture industry as Mass Deception

Some major points simplified.

"Culture Industry: Enlightenment as Mass Deception" is a chapter in Theodor Adorno and Max Horkheimer's book "Dialectic of Enlightenment" which discusses their famous notion of the "culture industry".

In this chapter Adorno and Horkheimer view capitalist society's culture industry as an aspect of the enlightenment has betrayed itself by allowing instrumental logic to take over human social life .

- According to Adorno and Horkheimer culture industry is a main phenomenon of late capitalism, one which encompasses all products and form of light entertainment – from Hollywood films to elevator music. All these forms of popular culture are designed to satisfy the growing needs of mass capitalistic consumers for entertainment. Adorno specifically notes that the term "culture industry" was chosen over "mass culture" in order to make sure that it is not understood as something which spontaneously stems from the masses Got article summaries, reviews, themselves.
- According to Adorno and Horkheimer this means that every work of art is then up for others to use - turned into a consumer product and is shaped by the logic of capitalist rationality (i.e. whatever sells best).
- The main argument of "Culture Industry: Enlightenment as Mass Deception" is that the commodification of culture is the commodification of human conciseness. Adorno and Horkheimer assert that culture industry eradicates autonomous thinking and criticism, serving to preserve the reigning order. It provides easy entertainment which distracts massed from the wrongs and sickness of the ruling order.
- They argue that culture industry has taken over reality as the prism through which people experience reality, thus completely shaping and conditioning their experience of life. In addition culture industry serves to keep workers busy, expressed by the famous quote from "Dialectic of Enlightenment": "Amusement has become an extension of labor under late capitalism". Popular culture appears to be offering a refuge and distraction for work, but in fact it causes the worker to further dwell into a world of products and consumerism. The only freedom culture industry has to really offer is a freedom from thinking.
- In "Culture Industry: Enlightenment as Mass Deception" Adorno and Horkheimer stress the fact that culture Mass industry uses a production-line mentality in producing cultural products. Seemingly all films and TV shows we watch are different, but in fact they follow the same recycled formulas as in other types of consumer goods. Like consumers goods, it feels like "there is something for everyone" here but in fact it's all variations of (Example of new iPads etc.)of the same thing. This is a main feature of the culture industry, for the fact that all products are produced under the same scheme allows them to be "readable" and effortlessly digested.
- This is how culture industry imposes conformity – with things that only seem to be different but are in fact all (slight) variations of the same thing. The final argument posed by Adorno and Horkheimer is that people under capitalism suffer the same fate of art

Financial Cultures and Crisis Dynamics Bob Jessop, Brigitte Young, Christoph Scherrer, 2014-10-17 The recent financial crisis exposed both a naive faith in mathematical models to manage risk and a crude culture of greed that embraces risk This book explores cultures of finance in sites such as corporate governance hedge funds central banks the City of London and Wall Street and small and medium enterprises It uses different methods to explore these cultures and their interaction with different financial orders to improve our understanding of financial crisis dynamics The introduction identifies types of cultural turn in studies of finance Part I outlines relevant research methods including comparison of national cultures viewed as independent variables cultural political economy and critical discourse and narrative policy analysis Part II examines different institutional cultures of finance and the cult of entrepreneurship Part III offers historical comparative and contemporary analyses of financial regimes and their significance for crisis dynamics Part IV explores organizational cultures modes of calculation and financial practices and how they shape economic performance and guide crisis management Part V considers crisis construals and responses in the European Union and China This book's great strength is its multi-faceted approach to cultures of finance Contributors deploy the cultural turn creatively to enhance comparative and historical analysis of financial regimes institutions organizations and practices as well as their roles in crisis generation construal and management Developing different paradigms and methods and elaborating diverse case studies the authors illustrate not only how and why culture matters but also how its significance is shaped by different financial regimes and contexts

The State of the American Mind: Stupor and Pathetic Docility Volume I Amechi Okolo, 2010-06-11 This book The State of the American Mind Stupor and Pathetic Docility Volume One begins to unravel some of the most obvious perplexing embarrassing and enduring problems and contradictions of American history and sociology viz how could the American revolution that started with the most ringing and most inspiring Declarations of human equality in world history end up establishing the most vicious exploitative society the world ever knew Black chattel slavery and only ten percent white enfranchisement etc Further how could men of such great wisdom and intellect like George Washington James

Madison Thomas Jefferson and others who were Enlightenment scholars and clearly knew that slavery was despicable and evil because they had variously experienced white servitude and slavery themselves collude to establish and institutionalize the horrible system of Negro chattel slavery in America and also disenfranchised over 90 percent of people of their own race actions that racism could not explain The structural institutional slavery system they established and the resultant consequent racism hobbles America today as it did in the past and forced Eric Holder the Attorney General to declare that America is a nation of cowards when it comes to race discussions Thus this book starts with serious critical discussions of race in America and reveals what no textbook has ever done viz that most early American whites and Blacks were slaves an uncomfortable fact that would shock most Americans because it contradicts the orthodoxy or the dominant narrative that only Blacks were brought here in chains Further the book also shows the year Black slavery started something almost all textbooks got wrong It also shows who was the first Black slave in America something no textbook ever mentions It also shows when and how racism started in America and many other very sensitive and embarrassing but necessary issues that America avoids but must be frankly discussed for America to move forward This book therefore shatters the two dominant themes of Americas history and sociology that Blacks were brought into America in chains as slaves while whites came to America in search of freedom as Harvard educated President Obama famously told us in his race speech Thus the crowning lesson of this book in addition to discussing some critical policy issues like education health care etc is that it discovers the centripetal force of the American society that eluded contemporary Americans because American bosses have laboriously concealed the facts from the public the scary but clearly healthy uniting fact that most Americans are united by their common ancestry their universal history and experience of servitude bond indentures and slavery Nothing is more universal more common and more shared in American history and sociology than the fact that most of our ancestors black and white were servants bond indentures and slaves who were dominated and super exploited by few overlords Colonial America was the preferred dumping ground for British outcasts rejects criminals masterless class vagabonds bond indentures slaves etc until 1776 when Australia replaced America as the British dump for its rejects and surplus citizens Thus that America was a nation founded by British rejects and losers is inherently more rational than the prevailing orthodoxy or the Obama theory of Americas founders that they were great honorable men who journeyed across the ocean for freedom because of the obvious reason that good powerful achieving citizens do not normally emigrate to new uncharted lands

Management Education Thomas Klikauer, 2016-10-25 Written in the tradition of the Frankfurt School of critical theory this book develops a practical theory designed to humanise management education Inevitably encountering deeply authoritarian business schools the author sets the rigidity of curriculum against a student centred approach found in Honneth s concept of recognition and the Habermasian concept of communicative action Management Education outlines measures for preventing Managerialism from colonising learning spaces that would prevent the practice of emancipatory learning from flourishing The aim of the book is to allow students and teachers of business schools to create learning inside an education system based on humanity

Endless War? David Keen, 2006-04-20 Was the Iraq war really an act of goodwill to liberate people from injustice Or was it a strategic move to maintain US dominance globally This book casts a critical light on the real motives behind war and conflict David Keen explores how winning war is rarely an end in itself rather war tends to be part of a wider political and economic game that is consistent with strengthening the enemy Keen devises a radical framework for analysing an unending war project where the war on terror is an extension of the Cold War The book draws on the author s detailed study of wars in Sudan Sierra Leone as well as in a range of other conflicts

Reading Media Theory Brett Mills, David M.
