Mary Of Mile Eighteen:

Mary of Mile 18 [eighteen] ,1984 Mary Austin's Regionalism Heike Schaefer,2004 Mary Austin s decades old regionalist work still has the power to fascinate and move a wide audience of contemporary readers Under the Sign of Nature Explorations in Ecocriticism Disability in Eighteenth-Century England David M. Turner,2012-08-21 This is the first book length study of physical disability in eighteenth century England It assesses the ways in which meanings of physical difference were formed within different cultural contexts and examines how disabled men and women used appropriated or rejected these representations in making sense of their own experiences In the process it asks a series of related questions what constituted disability in eighteenth century culture and society How was impairment perceived How did people with disabilities see themselves and relate to others What do their stories tell us about the social and cultural contexts of disability and in what ways were these narratives and experiences shaped by class and gender In order to answer these questions the book explores the languages of disability the relationship between religious and medical discourses of disability and analyzes depictions of people with disabilities in popular culture art and the media It also uncovers the hidden histories of disabled men and women themselves drawing on elite letters and autobiographies Poor Law documents and criminal court records The book won the Disability History Association Outstanding Publication Prize in 2012 for the best book published worldwide in disability history and also inspired parts of the Radio 4 series Disability A New History on which the author was historical adviser The series gained 2.6 million listeners when it first aired in 2013 Lady Mary Wortley Montagu and the Eighteenth-Century Familiar Letter Cynthia J. Lowenthal,2010-07-01 This is the first critical study of one of the most important women writers of the early eighteenth century Lady Mary Wortley Montagu 1689-1762 who produced a body of erudite and entertaining correspondence that spanned more than fifty years Lady Mary s letters illuminate the difficulties encountered by a sensitive intelligent and gifted woman writer living through an era of significant cultural change These letters display the tensions inherent in the competing demands of public and private life revealing Lady Mary s own discomfort about the problems of authorship and authority in an age that held publication to be an improper activity for respectable women Through the discourse of supposedly private letters Lady Mary was able to find an avenue for her talents that brought her public stature without violating the imperatives of her position as a woman and an aristocrat Cynthia Lowenthal argues persuasively that Lady Mary s letters themselves central to the establishment of the familiar letter as an important eighteenth century genre were self consciously constructed as literary artifacts and crafted as part of a larger female epistolary tradition Moreover Lowenthal contends the works of Lady Mary are essential to the feminist recuperation of women s writing precisely because she provided an aristocratic critique a voice often ignored of the class and gender codes of her day Translating Canada Luise von Flotow,Reingard M. Nischik,2007-10-25 In the last thirty years of the twentieth century Canadian federal governments offered varying degrees of support for literary and other artistic endeavour

A corollary of this patronage of culture at home was an effort to make the resulting works available for audiences elsewhere in the world. Current developments in the study of translation and its influence as cultural transfer have made possible new assessments of such efforts to project a national image abroad. Translating Canada examines cultural materials exported by Canada in addition to those selected for acquisition by German publishers, theatres and other culture brokers. It also considers the motivations of particular translators and the reception by German reviewers of works by a wide variety of Canadian writers: novelists and poets, playwrights and children's authors, literary and social critics. Above all, the book maps for its readers a number of significant though frequently unsuspected roles that translation assumes in the intercultural negotiation of national images and values. The chapters in this collection will be of value to students, teachers and scholars in a number of fields. Informed lay readers too will appreciate the author's insights into the different ways in which translation has contributed to German reception of Canadian books and culture. Translating Canada examines cultural materials exported by Canada in addition to those selected for acquisition by German publishers, theatres and other culture brokers. It also considers the motivations of particular translators and the reception by German reviewers of works by a wide variety of Canadian writers. Published in English.

Selected Short Works of Mary Hunter Austin Mary Hunter Austin, 2020-09-28

THE first time of my hearing of her was at Temblor. We had come all one day between blunt whitish bluffs rising from mirage water with a thick pale wake of dust billowing from the wheels, all the dead wall of the foothills sliding and shimmering with heat to learn that the Walking Woman had passed us somewhere in the dizzying dimness going down to the Tulares on her own feet. We heard of her again in the Carrisal and again at Adobe Station where she had passed a week before the shearing and at last I had a glimpse of her at the Eighteen Mile House as I went hurriedly northward on the Mojave stage and afterward sheepherders at whose camps she slept and cowboys at rodeos told me as much of her way of life as they could understand. Like enough they told her as much of mine. That was very little. She was the Walking Woman and no one knew her name but because she was a sort of whom men speak respectfully they called her to her face Mrs Walker and she answered to it if she was so inclined. She came and went about our western world on no discoverable errand and whether she had some place of refuge where she lay by in the interim or whether between her seldom unaccountable appearances in our quarter she went on steadily walking was never learned. She came and went oftenest in a kind of muse of travel which the untrammelled space begets or at rare intervals flooding wondrously with talk never of herself but of things she had known and seen. She must have seen some rare happenings too by report. She was at Maverick the time of the Big Snow and at Tres Pinos when they brought home the body of Morena and if anybody could have told whether de Borba killed Mariana for spite or defense it would have been she only she could not be found when most wanted. She was at Tunawai at the time of the cloud burst and if she had cared for it could have known most desirable things of the ways of trail making, burrow habiting, small things.
