Race Rhetoric And Technology Searching For Higher Ground:

Race, Rhetoric, and Technology Adam J. Banks, 2006-08-15 This book examines the Digital Divide in light of America's larger racial divide in an attempt to figure out what meaningful access for African American to technologies and the larger American society can or should mean

Distributed Blackness André Brock, Jr., 2020-02-25 Winner 2021 Harry Shaw and Katrina Hazzard Donald Award for Outstanding Work in African American Popular Culture Studies given by the Popular Culture Association Winner 2021 Nancy Baym Annual Book Award given by the Association of Internet Researchers An explanation of the digital practices of the Black Internet From BlackPlanet to BlackGirlMagic Distributed Blackness places Blackness at the very center of internet culture Andr Brock Jr claims issues of race and ethnicity as inextricable from and formative of contemporary digital culture in the United States Distributed Blackness analyzes a host of platforms and practices from Black Twitter to Instagram YouTube and app development to trace how digital media have reconfigured the meanings and performances of African American identity Brock moves beyond widely circulated deficit models of respectability bringing together discourse analysis with a close reading of technological interfaces to develop nuanced arguments about how Blackness gets worked out in various technological domains As Brock demonstrates there's nothing niche or subcultural about expressions of Blackness on social media internet use and practice now set the terms for what constitutes normative participation Drawing on critical race theory linguistics rhetoric information studies and science and technology studies Brock tabs between Black dominated technologies websites and social media to build a set of Black beliefs about technology In explaining Black relationships with and alongside technology Brock centers the unique joy and sense of community in being Black online now

Making Matters Leigh Gruwell, 2022-04-15 Craft is a process oriented practice that takes seriously the relationships between bodies both human and nonhuman and makes apparent how these relationships are mired in and informed by power structures Making Matters introduces craft agency a feminist vision of new materialist rhetorics that enables scholars to identify how power circulates and sometimes stagnates within assemblages of actors and provides tools to rectify that uneven distribution To recast new materialist rhetorics as inherently crafty Leigh Gruwell historicizes and locates the concept of craft both within rhetorical history as well as in the disciplinary history of writing studies Her investigation centers on three specific case studies craftivism the fibercraft website Ravelry and the 2017 Women's March These instances all highlight how a material ecological understanding of rhetorical agency can enact political change Craft agency models how we humans might work with and alongside things nonhuman sometimes digital sometimes material to create more equitable relationships Making Matters argues that craft is a useful starting point for addressing criticisms of new materialist rhetorics not only because doing so places rhetorical action as a product of complex relationships between a network of human and nonhuman actors but also because it does so with an explicitly activist agenda that positions the body itself as a material interface industry practitioners in the field of TPC Islam in America Jonathan Curiel, 2015-03-31 Islam is a hidden ingredient in the melting pot of America. Though there are between 2 and 8 million Muslims in the USA, Islam has traditionally had little political clout compared to other minority faiths. Nonetheless, it is believed to be the country's fastest growing religion with a vibrant culture of theological debate, particularly regarding the role of women preachers. In Islam in America, Jonathan Curiel traces the story of America's Muslims from the seventeenth-century slave trade to the eighteenth-century immigration wave to the Nation of Islam. Drawing on interviews in communities from industrial Michigan to rural California, Curiel portrays the diversity of practices, cultures, and observances that make up Muslim America. He profiles the leading personalities and institutions representing the community and explores their relationship to the wider politics of America, particularly after 9/11. Islam in America offers an indispensable guide to the social life of modern Islam and the diversity of contemporary America.
