Re-Educating Chinese Anti-Communists J.A. Fyfield, 2018-09-19 This book first published in 1982 is an in depth study of the process of re education undergone by those who had opposed the Communist revolution in China Told at first hand by several men who had occupied military or government positions of influence it records their long years in prison and the system of re education and also in the interests of balance examines the system from the side of the Communist leadership

The Geography of Injustice Barak Kushner, 2024-03-15 In The Geography of Injustice Barak Kushner argues that the war crimes tribunals in East Asia formed and cemented national divides that persist into the present day In 1946 the Allies convened the Tokyo Trial to prosecute Japanese wartime atrocities and Japan's empire At its conclusion one of the judges voiced dissent claiming that the justice found at Tokyo was only the sham employment of a legal process for the satisfaction of a thirst for revenge War crimes tribunals Kushner shows allow for the history of the defeated to be heard In contemporary East Asia a fierce battle between memory and history has consolidated political camps across this debate The Tokyo Trial courtroom as well as the thousands of other war crimes tribunals opened in about fifty venues across Asia were legal stages where prosecution and defense curated facts and evidence to craft their story about World War Two These narratives and counter narratives form the basis of postwar memory concerning Japan's imperial aims across the region The archival record and the interpretation of court testimony together shape a competing set of histories for public consumption The Geography of Injustice offers compelling evidence that despite the passage of seven decades since the end of the war East Asia is more divided than united by history

China's Education and the Industrialised World Ruth Hayhoe, Marianne Bastid, 2017-12-12 This book first published in 1987 studies the practical and intellectual import of China's educational relations with the industrialised West the Soviet Union and Japan On the practical level it provides a broad historical and philosophical context within which the possibilities and dangers inherent in China's educational involvement with developed countries may be considered The book tests the theory that education transfers from the developed to the developing world have been used to consolidate political domination and economic exploitation by providing a detailed and provocative historical analysis of China's relations with the major developed nations

The Great Wall of Confinement Philip F. Williams, Yenna Wu, 2004-08-17 China is so big and so

diverse that as in the proverbial blind man touching an elephant contemporary descriptions that vary dramatically can all be true Few visitors to glittering Shanghai or Shenzhen for example will get any impression of the gaping gray maw of the government's prison camp system that Philip Williams and Yenna Wu basing themselves on a vast range of Chinese sources illuminate in erudite detail The authors look at every facet of the camps place them within China's historical tradition and compare them with modern analogues Throughout literary and autobiographical sources give the feel for the deadening world of the camps Perry Link author of The Uses of Literature Life in the Socialist Chinese Literary System The Great Wall of Confinement deals with issues ranging from the legal grounding or the lack of any of the Chinese concentration camp system to its technical implementation its discursive manifestation and its physical as well as psychological impact A book like this is long overdue With this work Williams and Wu have made an important contribution to the fields of Chinese legal and literary studies David Der wei Wang author of The Monster That Is History The Great Wall of Confinement is an excellent book It synthesizes an already significant corpus of writings on Chinese prisons and labor camps marshals an array of literary sources as essential historical source materials and compares the literature of Chinese incarceration with its Soviet and European counterparts The value of this important study stems equally from its tone a rare combination of a level headed quality with a very fine sensitivity to the human tragedy recounted in this literature Jean Luc Domenach author of O va la Chine Where does China Go The Great Wall of Confinement has attempted to lift part of the veil on China's long lasting tragedy the use of imprisonment torture forced labor against its citizens whether criminals feeble minded or simply political opponents The angle is new the question is to find out how Chinese have written on this subject whether in fiction or reportage the way they went about telling their stories how much they said or withheld Through Philip Williams and Yenna Wu's thought provoking analysis of such writings of the cultural origins of forced labor and imprisonment in imperial and Communist China one comes closer to this sinister reality which remains to this day one of the best kept secrets of our planet

Marie Holzman President of the Association Solidarit Chine Press and Publications Summary United States Information Service (Taipei, Taiwan), 1968-10 The Chinese Communist Party During the Cultural Revolution P.

Lubell, 2001-12-17 In 1936 a group of Chinese communists were released from jail after a humiliating renunciation of communism The Chinese Communist Party then secretly employed them to galvanise support in nationalist areas of the country It later condemned the members of this group as renegades before finally rehabilitating them in 1978 Pamela Lubell uncovers the fascinating history of these communists known as the Sixty one and in doing so produces a revealing account of the tensions within the Chinese Communist Party Pacific Affairs, 1964 Includes book reviews and bibliographies

Confronting Capital Punishment in Asia Roger Hood, 2013-11 This volume explores the continued use of capital punishment in Asia and the reasons behind its retention Various contributions offer insights into the politics practice and public opinion of Asian capital punishment While China Faced West James Claude Thomson, 1969 The years from 1928 to 1937 were the Nanking decade when the Chinese Nationalist government strove to build a new China with Western assistance. This was an interval of hope between the turbulence of the warlord ridden twenties and the eight year war with Japan that began in 1937. James Thomson explores the ways in which Americans both missionaries and foundation representatives tried to help the Chinese government and Chinese reformers undertake a transformation of rural society. His is the first in depth study of these efforts to produce radical change and at the same time avoid the chaos and violence of revolution. Despite the conservatism of the right wing in the Kuomintang party dictatorship this Nanking decade saw many promising beginnings. American missionaries the largest group of Westerners in the Chinese hinterland often took the initiative locally and some rallied to support of China's first modern minded government. They assisted both in rural reconstruction programs and in efforts of at ideological reform. Thomson analyzes the work of the National Christian Council in an area of Kiangsi province recently recovered from Communist rule. He also traces the deepening involvement of missionaries and the Chinese Christian Church in the New Life Movement sponsored by Chiang Kai shek. Unhappily aware of the sharpening polarization of Chinese politics these American reformers struggled in vain to steer clear of too close an identification with the ruling party. Yet they found themselves increasingly identified with the Nanking regime and their reform efforts obstructed by its disinclination or inability to revolutionize the Chinese countryside. In this way American reformers in Nationalist China were forerunners of subsequent American attempts under government sponsorship to find a middle path between revolution and reaction in other situations of national upheaval. For this book James Thomson has used hitherto unexplored archives that document the participation of American private citizens in the process of Chinese social economic and political change.

The Secret Speeches of Chairman Mao Roderick MacFarquhar, Eugene Wu, Timothy Cheek, 2020-10-26. In 1957 and 1958 Chairman Mao Zedong led China into two major experiments the Hundred Flowers policy of encouraging literary and political free expression and the economic Great Leap Forward. Each was a disaster. Repression followed the first when it became clear that intellectuals would criticize the Communist Party itself. Famine followed the second. During two crucial years when the movements were being initiated however Mao addressed various Party groups behind closed doors to explain the new policies and exhort compliance. Recorded at the time and collected for limited circulation in the 1960s by his admirers among the Red Guards the speeches question and answer sessions and letters here translated have never before been published in China or the West. These new candid materials revise our understanding of how the policies developed and reveal not only the extent of Mao's power but the startling flights his untethered thought could take. Introductory essays by Roderick MacFarquhar, Benjamin Schwartz, Eugene Wu, Merle Goldman and Timothy Cheek provide a context for evaluating and interpreting the nineteen texts translated in this volume.

Korea: The War before Vietnam Callum A MacDonald, 1986-10-27. This study of the Korean War is a noteworthy addition to the literature of this conflict. A sometime brilliant and consistently disturbing work. D Clayton James, Mississippi State University.

MacDonald's powerful and richly detailed account of the Korean War renders all the painful details of American involvement. A masterful account that should be widely read. M. Cantor, University of Massachusetts Amherst

From Kona to Yanan Koji Ariyoshi, 2000-01-01 After returning to Hawai'i Ariyoshi plunged into union activities and most notably the editing of the Honolulu Record, the voice of labor during the turbulent and bitter postwar conflicts between unions and Hawai'i's ruling elites. Following his 1951 arrest on charges of being a Communist, Ariyoshi became known as one of the Hawai'i Seven and spent the next year writing My Thoughts for which I Stand Indicted for the Record. The present volume gathers together in one place this energetic, thoughtful, and engaging work chronicling a life lived at the center of events that transformed Hawai'i, America, China, and the world. BOOK JACKET

The Palgrave Handbook of Anti-Communist Persecutions Christian Gerlach, Clemens Six, 2020-12-07 This handbook explores anti-communism as an overarching phenomenon of twentieth-century global history, showing how anti-communist policies and practices transformed societies around the world. It advances research on anti-communism by looking beyond ideologies and propaganda to uncover how these ideas were put into practice. Case studies examine the role of states and non-state actors in anti-communist persecutions and cover a range of topics including social crises, capitalist accumulation, and dispossession, political clientelism, and warfare. Through its comparative perspective, the handbook reveals striking similarities between different cases from various world regions and highlights the numerous long-term consequences of anti-communism that exceeded by far the struggle against communism in a narrow sense. Contributing to the growing body of work on the social history of mass violence, this volume is an essential resource for students and scholars interested to understand how twentieth-century anti-communist persecutions have shaped societies around the world today. Bourdieu and Chinese Education Guanglun Michael Mu, Karen Dooley, Allan Luke, 2018-10-26 This book uses Bourdieu's sociological approach for research as a jumping-off point for framing our understandings and analyses of China and Chinese education. Three major themes: inequality, competition, and change are explored across several theoretical and contextual bases. Bringing together top scholars in the field, the volume examines empirical studies that analyse social mobility through education for students affected by the social divides of class, culture, and rural/urban locations; teacher identity and the field of schooling in the current Chinese environment; and going forward, and the university as an institution for the production of knowledge about education in the globalising academy. Offering insights into the historical and cultural context for China's educational landscape, the contributions of this book revisit Bourdieusian concepts from a new empirical vantage point and bring together key studies that illuminate new pathways for the study of Chinese sociology of education.
