Remembrance Of Patients Past Patient Life At The Toronto Hospital For The Insane 1870 194:

Remembrance of Patients Past Geoffrey Reaume, 2000-01-01 Oh that I had wings I would fly like a dove and be at rest I would fly out of this asylum So wrote Ralph M a patient at the Toronto Hospital for the Insane from 1889 until his death in 1911 Winston O another inmate at the Toronto asylum actually sought to build wings like Ralph so longed for After crafting violins that he played and building from scratch an automobile he was allowed to drive on the hospital grounds Winston was reported to be working on the construction of an aeroplane In Remembrance of Patients Past historian Geoffrey Reaume chronicles seventy years of daily life at the institution known as 999 the Toronto Hospital for the Insane at 999 Queen Street West His narrative stretches from 1870 to 1940 and examines such aspects as diagnosis and admission daily routine and relationships leisure patients labor family and community responses and discharge and death Mental patients were at times abused and they led lives of tedious monotony that could tend to flatten personality yet many of these women and men worked hard at institutional jobs for years and decades on end created their own entertainment and formed meaningful relationships with other patients and staff A moving chronicle the book is also an important argument for flexibility in treatment for mental illnesses and a challenge to the view that traditional mental institutions were of little help to their patients

Sadly Troubled History John C. Weaver, 2009-04-01 More people die by suicide each year than by homicide wars and terrorist attacks combined Witnesses and survivors are left perplexed and troubled Doctors clinical psychologists and social workers try to deal with it through their professional routines sociologists and psychiatrists attempt to provide theoretical explanations of it In a study of nearly 7000 suicides from 1900 to 1950 in New Zealand and Queensland Australia John Weaver documents the challenges that ordinary people experienced during turbulent times and using witnesses testimony death bed statements and suicide notes reconstructs individuals thoughts as they decide whether to endure their suffering Bridging social and medical history Weaver presents an intellectual and political history of suicide studies a revealing construction and deconstruction of suicide rates a discussion of gender life stages and socio economic circumstances in relation to suicide patterns reflections on reasoning processes and intent and society's reactions to suicide including medical intervention A Sadly Troubled History marshals thousands of suicide inquests replete with observations on the anxieties of unemployment the heartbreak of romantic disappointment the pain of domestic turmoil and the torments of mental illness to demonstrate that history although like biochemistry sociology psychology and psychiatry reliant on remarkable yet imperfect information can contribute to a better understanding of the suicidal act and its motives

Mental health nursing Anne Borsay, Pamela Dale, 2015-07-01 This book seeks to integrate the history of mental health nursing with the wider history of institutional and community care It develops new research questions by drawing together a concern with exploring the class gender skills and working conditions of practitioners with an assessment of the care regimes staff helped create and patients experiences of them Contributors from a range of disciplines use a variety of source material to examine both continuity and change in the history of care over two centuries The book benefits from a foreword by Mick Carpenter and will appeal to researchers and students interested in all aspects of the history of nursing and the history of care The book is also designed to be accessible to practitioners and the general reader Inventing the Feeble Mind James W.
