Musical Idea and the Design Aesthetic in Contemporary Music Clifford Taylor, 1990 Proposing a reaffirmation for musical composition of imaginative figurational invention as idea within expressive harmonic syntax this text challenges the tendency in 20th century music toward systematization and process affording only textural values Towards a Theory of Musical Reproduction Theodor W. Adorno, 2014-11-05 At the beginning of his career in the 1920s Adorno sketched a plan to write a major work on the theory of musical reproduction a task he returned to time and again throughout his career but never completed The choice of the word reproduction as opposed to interpretation indicates a primary supposition that there is a clearly defined musical text whose precision exceeds what is visible on the page and that the performer has the responsibility to reproduce it as accurately as possible beyond simply playing what is written This task according to Adorno requires a detailed understanding of all musical parameters in their historical context and his reflections upon this task lead to a fundamental study of the nature of notation and musical sense In the various notes and texts brought together in Towards a Theory of Musical Reproduction one finds Adorno constantly circling around an irresolvable paradox interpretation can only fail the work yet only through it can music's true essence be captured While he at times seems more definite in his pronouncement of a musical score's absolute value just as a book is read silently not aloud his discourse repeatedly displays his inability to cling to that belief It is this quality of uncertainty in his reflections that truly indicates the scope of the discourse and its continuing relevance to musical thought and practice today An Examination of the Neo-classical Wind Works of Igor Stravinsky Scott Lubaroff, 2004 This study asserts that Stravinsky's Octour pour instruments a vents 1923 is pivotal within Stravinsky's progressions in regard to orchestrational practice instrumental choices and compositional choices and presents it as the point in which all of these transitions came together for the first time After an opening discussion of Stravinsky's early life and compositional career it concentrates on setting up the Octet and Concerto through discussion of the years leading up to their composition In addition to placing the two works within their context of their position and broader influence upon Stravinsky's surrounding production it provides a full musical analysis of the Octet followed by comparative analysis between it and the Concerto The analysis is predominantly centered around compositional practices and orchestrational techniques Erik Leidzén Ronald W. Holz, 1990 A study dealing with the life of Erik Leidzen a band arranger and composer for the Salvation Army who was among the first generation of American musicians to be able to maintain a profession as a writer arranger of band music La Tosca Victorien Sardou, 1990 A translation of La Tosca the play that inspired the Puccini opera complete with annotations and critical comments This work seeks to give a well rounded picture of Sardou as a playwright who imbued his pieces with a wealth of historical knowledge The Harp and the Soul Nancy Elizabeth Van Deusen, 1989 A set of essays dealing with music as it was understood visualized articulated and interpreted in the Middle Ages It argues that medieval discussions of music depended on a structural foundation which writers were certain that their readers possessed
