Nurturing Consumer Activism Sanjay Kaptan,2003 Activism and the Policy Process Anna Yeatman,2020-07-29

Activists protecting rainforests demanding increased childcare developing local community housing campaigning for AIDS funding or protecting consumers are as much part of the political landscape as the media parliament peak industry groups political parties or trade unions This collection explores the idea of policy activism and its relationship to the processes that not only set but implement and deliver the policy agenda Policy activists operate both inside and outside government They include community based organisers activist bureaucrats service providers and professionals Policy activism has been barely explored in existing literature This collection puts the idea on the map It is an innovative contribution to the literature using case studies across a broad range of policy areas This volume opens the window on an aspect of the policy process that rarely receives attention from students of politics or policy anywhere across the globe The framework presented and the cases included in these pages provide a glimpse of the workings of a complex democracy describing a range of actors responding creatively to the dynamics of social political and economic change It is fascinating to see how policy functions and social values appear to be more important to these processes than the formal structures of the government in which they are placed

Strategic Planning for Public Relations Ronald D. Smith, 2017-05-18 Strategic Planning for Public Relations is in its fifth edition of offering an innovative and clear approach for students looking to learn how to develop public relations campaigns It is a text intended for those serious about entering the rapidly changing professions of public relations and strategic communication Ronald Smith shows how to implement pragmatic research driven strategic campaigns used in public relations practice and draws from his years of experience as a professional in the industry and his years of teaching in the classroom The approach used in this text is a threefold pattern first readers are exposed to new ideas then see them in use before finally being showed how to apply those ideas themselves Complex problem solving and decision making processes in strategic communication and public relations are turned into a series of easy to follow steps flexible enough to be applicable to myriad situations and organizations in the real world This new fifth edition follows the same format as previous editions and includes numerous timely and real world examples of cases and current events along with classic cases that stand the test of time It includes new research on opinions and practices within the discipline and covers several recent award winning public relations campaigns

Sisters Or Strangers Franca Iacovetta, Frances Swyripa, Marlene Epp, 2004-01-01 Spanning two hundred years of history from the nineteenth century to the 1990s Sisters or Strangers explores the complex lives of immigrant ethnic and racialized women in Canada The volume deals with a cross section of peoples including Japanese Chinese Black Aboriginal Irish Finnish Ukrainian Jewish Mennonite Armenian and South Asian Hindu women and diverse groups of women including white settlers refugees domestic servants consumer activists nurses wives and mothers The central themes of Sisters or Strangers include discourses of race in the context of nation building encounters with the state and public institutions symbolic and media representations of women familial relations domestic violence and racism and analyses of history and memory In different ways the authors question whether the historical experience of women in Canada represents a sisterhood of challenge and opportunity or if the racial class or marginalized identity of the immigrant and minority women made them in fact strangers in a country where privilege and opportunity fall according to criteria of exclusion Using a variety of theoretical approaches this collaborative work reminds us that victimization and agency are never mutually exclusive and encourages us to reflect critically on the categories of race gender and the nation

The New Industrial Geography Trevor Barnes, Meric S Gertler, 2002-01-04 Drawing on the theoretical resources of institutional economics The New Industrial Geography opens new perspectives in economic geography In its focus on historical and geographical context institutional embeddedness and tacit rules and formal regulations institutional economics is shown to be the perfect basis for understanding the profound economic and geographical changes of the last two decades and on which also to build a new kind of industrial geography Issues covered include the retheorization of the geography of industrial districts the analysis of institutional thickness and the economic geographical effects of institutional rigidity and sclerosis the economic geographical consequences of new regulatory bodies and policies and the geographically situated character of institutions and regulatory frameworks and the effects of separating them from their originating context the development of new strategies for achieving more equitable forms of regional development

Economy Ron Martin, 2017-11-30 Economic geographers have always argued that space is key to understanding the economy that the processes of economic growth and development do not occur uniformly across geographic space but rather differ in degree and form as between different nations regions cities and localities with major implications for the geographies of wealth and welfare This was true in the industrial phase of global capitalism and is no less true in the contemporary era of post industrial knowledge driven global capitalism Indeed the marked changes occurring in the structure and operation of the economy in the sources of wealth creation in the organisation of the firm in the nature of work in the boundaries between market and state and in the regulation of the socio economy have stimulated an unprecedented wave of theoretical conceptual and empirical enquiry by economic geographers Even economists who traditionally have viewed the economy in non spatial terms as existing on the head of the proverbial pin are increasingly recognising the importance of space place and location to understanding economic growth technological innovation competitiveness and globalisation This collection of previously published work though containing but a fraction of the huge explosion in research and publication that has occurred over the past two decades seeks to convey a sense of this exciting phase in the intellectual development of the discipline and its importance in grasping the spatialities of contemporary economic life and students in anthropology and food studies Rethinking the Market Economy J. Lambin, 2014-03-14 This book explores the changing socio economic and technological landscape of the 21 century and what it means It adopts an industrial economic approach whilst proposing a road map leading to the adoption of a societal market economy model as an appealing and politically acceptable third way between capitalism and socialism Consuming the Inedible Jeremy M. MacClancy, C. J. K. Henry, Helen Macbeth, 2009-10 Everyday millions of people eat earth clay nasal mucus and similar substances Yet food practices like these are strikingly understudied in a sustained interdisciplinary manner This book aims to correct this neglect Contributors utilizing anthropological nutritional biochemical psychological and health related perspectives examine in a rigorously comparative manner the consumption of foods conventionally regarded as inedible by most Westerners This book is both timely and significant because nutritionists and health care professionals are seldom aware of anthropological information on these food practices and vice versa Ranging across diversity of disciplines Consuming the Inedible surveys scientific and local views about the consequences biological mineral social or spiritual of these food practices and probes to what extent we can generalize about them The Far East and Australasia 2003 Europa Publications, 2002 A unique survey of each country in the region It includes an extensive collection of facts statistics analysis and directory information in one accessible volume Encyclopedia of the Environment in American Literature Geoff Hamilton, Brian Jones, 2014-01-10 This encyclopedia introduces readers to American poetry fiction and nonfiction with a focus on the environment broadly defined as humanity's natural surroundings from the discovery of America through the present The work includes biographical and literary entries on material from early explorers and colonists such as Columbus Bartolome de Las Casas and Thomas Harriot Native American creation myths canonical 18th and 19th century works of Jefferson Emerson Thoreau Whitman Hawthorne Twain Dickinson and others to more recent figures such as Jack London Ernest Hemingway Norman Mailer Stanley Cavell Rachel Carson Jon Krakauer and Al Gore It is meant to provide a synoptic appreciation of how the very concept of the environment has changed over the past five centuries offering both a general introduction to the topic and a valuable resource for high school and university courses focused on environmental issues The Christian Science Monitor Index , 2002 Stories of House and Home Christine Varga-Harris, 2016-02-19 Stories of House and Home is a social and cultural history of the massive construction campaign that Khrushchev instituted in 1957 to resolve the housing crisis in the Soviet Union and to provide each family its own apartment Decent housing was deemed the key to a healthy productive home life which was essential to the realization of socialist collectivism Drawing on archival materials as well as memoirs fiction and the Soviet press Christine Varga Harris shows how the many aspects of this enormous state initiative from neighborhood planning to interior design sought to alleviate crowded undignified living conditions and sculpt residents into ideal Soviet citizens She also details how individual interests intersected with official objectives for Soviet society during the Thaw a period characterized by both liberalization and vigilance in everyday life Set against the backdrop of the widespread transition from communal to one family living Stories of House and Home explores the daily experiences and aspirations of Soviet citizens who were granted new apartments and those who continued to inhabit the old housing stock due to the chronic problems that beset the housing program Varga Harris analyzes the contradictions apparent in heroic advances and seemingly inexplicable delays in construction model apartments boasting modern conveniences and decrepit dwellings happy housewarmings and disappointing moves and new residents and individuals requesting to exchange old apartments She also reveals how Soviet citizens identified with the state and with the broader project of building socialism

Social Innovation in the Service of Social and Ecological Transformation Olivier De Schutter, Tom Dedeurwaerdere, 2021-10-14 This book explores how the State can play a role as an enabler of citizens led social innovations to accelerate the shift to sustainable and socially just lifestyles To meet the twin challenges of environmental degradation and the rise of inequalities societal transformation is urgent Most theories of social change focus either on the role of the State on the magic of the market or on the power of technological innovation This book explores instead how local communities given the freedom to experiment can design solutions that can have a transformative impact Change cannot rely only on central ordering by government nor on corporations suddenly acting as responsible citizens Societal transformation at the speed and scope required also should be based on the reconstitution of social capital and on new forms of democracy emerging from collective action at the local level The State matters of course for the provision of both public services and of social protection and to discipline the market but it should also act as an enabler of citizen led experimentation and it should set up an institutional apparatus to ensure that collective learning spreads across jurisdictions Corporations themselves can ensure that society taps the full potential of citizens led social innovations they can put their know how their access to finance and their control of logistical chains in the service of such innovations rather than focusing on shaping consumers tastes or even adapting to consumers shifting expectations With this aim in mind this book provides empirical evidence of how social innovations typically developed within niches initially at a relatively small scale can have society wide impacts It also examines the nature of the activism deployed by social innovators and the emergence of a do it yourself form of democracy This book will appeal to all those interested in driving societal change and social innovation to ensure a sustainable and socially just future for all Monitoring the Movies Jennifer Fronc, 2017-11-15. As movies took the country by storm in the early twentieth century, Americans argued fiercely about whether municipal or state authorities should step in to control what people could watch when they went to movie theaters, which seemed to be springing up on every corner. Many who opposed the governmental regulation of film conceded that some entity, boards populated by trusted civic leaders, for example, needed to safeguard the public good. The National Board of Review of Motion Pictures (NB), a civic group founded in New York City in 1909, emerged as a national cultural chaperon well suited to protect this emerging form of expression from state incursions. Using the National Board's extensive files, Monitoring the Movies offers the first full-length study of the NB and its campaign against motion picture censorship. Jennifer Fronc traces the NB's Progressive-era founding in New York, its evolving set of standards for directors, producers, municipal officers and citizens, its city plan which called on citizens to report screenings of condemned movies to local officials, and the spread of the NB's influence into the urban South. Ultimately, Monitoring the Movies shows how Americans grappled with the issues that arose alongside the powerful new medium of film: the extent of the right to produce and consume images and the proper scope of government control over what citizens can see and show.
