

A dental procedure is shown in a clinical setting. Two dental professionals, wearing blue scrubs and gloves, are performing a procedure on a patient. The patient is lying down, and their head is positioned on a dental chair. The procedure involves the use of a specialized device, likely the AirFlo system, which is connected to a large, flexible, clear tube. The device is being used to clean the oral cavity. A bright light is focused on the patient's mouth, illuminating the procedure. The background shows a typical dental office environment with white cabinets and a sink.
