Nationalism And Gender:

Nationalism and Gender Chizuko Ueno, 2004 Ueno humanities and sociology U of Tokyo Japan explores interrelated issues of gender war history and public memory She first looks at Japanese women's support for aggressive war and their acceptance of the gender strategy for nationalizing women through mobilization She next turns to the discursive battle over the Japanese treatment of

Feminist Time Against Nation Time Victoria Hesford, Lisa Diedrich, 2009-12-01 Feminist Time Against Nation Time offers a series of essays that explore the complex and oftentimes contradictory relationship between feminism and nationalism through a problematization of temporality Although there has been much recent discussion in the U S of the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq and the War on Terror as signaling a new period of permanent war feminist voices have not been at all prominent in this discussion This collection considers not only the ways in which public spaces for dissent are limited but also the ways in which the time for such dissent is cut short Feminist Time Against Nation Time combines philosophical examinations of Women's Time by Julia Kristeva and The Time of Thought by Elizabeth Grosz with essays offering case studies of particular events including Kelly Oliver's essay on the media coverage of the U S wars on terror and in Afghanistan and Iraq and Betty Joseph's on the anti colonial uses of women's time in the creation of nineteenth century Indian nationalism Feminist Time Against Nation Time juxtaposes feminist time against nation time in order to consider temporalities that are at once contrary to but also drawing toward each other Yet Hesford and Diedrich also argue that because as an untimely project feminism necessarily operates in a different temporality from that of the nation againstness is also used to provoke a rupture a momentary opening up of a disjuncture between the two that will allow us to explore the possibilities of creating a space and time for feminists to think against the current of the present moment

Gender Ironies of Nationalism Tamar Mayer, 2012-10-12 This book provides a unique social science reading on the construction of nation gender and sexuality and on the interactions among them It includes international case studies from Indonesia Ireland former Yugoslavia Liberia Sri Lanka Australia the USA Turkey China India and the Caribbean The contributors offer both the masculine and feminine perspective exposing how nations are comprised of sexed bodies and exploring the gender ironies of nationalism and how sexuality plays a key role in nation building and in sustaining national identity The contributors conclude that control over access to the benefits of belonging to the nation is invariably gendered nationalism becomes the language through which sexual control and repression is justified masculine prowess is expressed and exercised Whilst it is men who claim the prerogatives of nation and nation building it is for the most part women who actually accept the obligation of nation and nation building

Gender, Nationalism and Conflict Transformation Fidelma Ashe, 2019-03-07 Utilising Northern Ireland as a case study this book presents an analysis of the gender and sexual politics of conflict transformation The book synthesises a vast array of international sources with the author's empirical and theoretical research to produce a powerful gendered critique of conflict transformation in Northern Ireland It maps the negative effects of the region's violent conflict on gender and sexual equality and explores the potential of the conflict transformational processes set in motion by the 1998 Peace Agreement to transform relationships between different genders and sexualities Starting from the feminist proposition that building peace requires the inclusion of issues of gender and sexual equality the author analyses how the new institutional and semantic structures of conflict transformation in Northern Ireland preserved older conservative narratives about gender and sexuality As older narratives clashed with progressive forms of sexual and gender politics the core sites of conflict transformation became arenas of gender and sexual struggles The book outlines these struggles and charts the positive and inclusive visions of peace developed by activists throughout the period of conflict transformation This book will be of much interest to students of gender studies conflict transformation ethnic conflict peace studies and Irish politics

Gendering Nationalism Jon Mulholland, Nicola Montagna, Erin Sanders-McDonagh, 2018-05-24 This volume offers an empirically rich theoretically informed study of the shifting intersections of nation alism gender and sexuality Challenging a scholarly legacy that has overly focused on the masculinist character of nationalism it pays particular attention to the people and issues less commonly considered in the context of nationalist projects namely women and sexual minorities Bringing together both established and emerging researchers from across the globe this multidisciplinary and comparison rich volume provides a multi sited exploration of the shifting contours of belonging and Otherness generated by multifarious nationalisms The diverse and context specific positionings of men and women masculinities and femininities and hegemonic and non normative sexualities vis vis nation alism are illuminated through a vibrant array of contemporary theoretical lenses These include historical and feminist institutionalism post colonial theory critical race approaches transnational and migration theory and semiotics

Feminist Nationalism Lois West,2014-01-21 Feminist Nationalism demonstrates how feminism is redefining nationalism by presenting case studies from Europe the Middle East Africa Asia and the Americas Consisting of social movements and cultural ideologies feminist nationalism links struggles for women s rights with struggles for group identity rights and or national sovereignty in their goals of self determination Many analyses of nationalism assume it is identical for women and men in its definition and operation This collection challenges that framework by placing women at the center and demonstrating how feminism is redefining nationalism both in particular cases and in the global context

Nationbuilding, Gender and War Crimes in South Asia Bina D'Costa,2012-07-26 This book gives a detailed political analysis of nationbuilding processes and how these are closely linked to statebuilding and to issues of war crime gender and sexuality and marginalization of minority groups With a focus on the Indian subcontinent the author demonstrates how the state itself is involved in the construction of a gendered identity and how control of women and their sexuality is central to the nationbuilding project She applies a critical feminist approach to two major conflicts in the Indian subcontinent the Partition of India in 1947 and the Liberation War of Bangladesh in 1971 and offers suggestions for addressing historical injustices and war crimes in the context of modern Bangladesh Addressing how the social and political elites were able to construct and legitimize a history of the state that ignored these issues the author suggests a critical re examination of the national narrative of the creation of Bangladesh which takes into account the rise of Islamic rights and their alleged involvement in war crimes Looking at the impact that notions of nation state and nationalism have on women from a critical feminist perspective the book will be an important addition to the literature on gender studies international relations and South Asian politics

Intersections of Gender, Class, and Race in the Long Nineteenth Century and Beyond Barbara Leonardi, 2018-12-29 This book explores the intersections of gender with class and race in the construction of national and imperial ideologies and their fluid transformation from the Romantic to the Victorian period and beyond exposing how these cultural constructions are deeply entangled with the family metaphor For example by examining the re-signification of the angel in the house and the deviant woman in the context of unstable or contingent masculinities and across discourses of class and nation the volume contributes to a more nuanced understanding of British cultural constructions in the long nineteenth century The central idea is to unearth the historical roots of the family metaphor in the construction of national and imperial ideologies and to uncover the interests served by its specific discursive formation The book explores both male and female stereotypes enabling a more perceptive comparison enriched with a nuanced reflection on the construction and social function of class

Handbook of Gender and Women's Studies Kathy Davis, Mary Evans, Judith Lorber, 2006-04-27 This breathtakingly broad interdisciplinary reader demonstrates how widely feminist thinking has spread how deeply it has shaken settled assumptions in the disciplines and how much new light it throws on contemporary controversies Myra Marx Ferree University of Wisconsin Madison A timely intervention and highly engaged thoughtful and scholarly analysis of the state of gender and women's studies in the West by three eminent feminist scholars Highly cognisant of the central issues that have fractured blocked and enhanced western feminism Bev Skeggs Goldsmiths The comprehensiveness and the interdisciplinary range of themes are impressive and they make the Handbook into a wonderful tool for teachers and students of women's and gender studies Nina Lykke Linköping University Gender and women's studies is one of the most challenging fields within the social sciences the dynamics of gender relations and the social and cultural implications of gender constructions offer a lively forum of debate The Handbook of Gender and Women's Studies presents a comprehensive and engaging review of the most recent developments within the field including the study of masculinity the feminist implications of postmodernism the cultural turn and globalization The authors review current research and offer critical analyses of women's and gender studies in work, the welfare state, family, education, religion, violence, and war, and feminist global politics. Edited by three leading academics from Europe and the United States and with 25 chapters written by scholars based throughout the world, the Handbook situates the most important debates in the field within a uniquely international and interdisciplinary context. The Handbook is a useful introduction to gender theory and an exciting starting point for fresh debates.

Gender and Nationalism in Serbia: The impact of political ideology on women's human rights Juliane M., 2011-05-23 Master's Thesis from the year 2010 in the subject Politics Region Southeastern Europe grade 1.5 University of Bologna and University of Sarajevo language English abstract Reproductive and labour rights of women are of interest because they are mutually linked and reinforcing. Firstly, it is through reproduction policies and rhetoric that women are limited to their role in preserving the continuance of the nation. In turn, this serves the benefit of the demographic policies of ethnocracies. It is important to note that it is through these policies that hierarchical and patriarchal structures are reinforced. As a logical consequence, this is supposed to have an impact on the enjoyment of women's labour rights because following this argumentation, it is not in the interest of ethnocracies to involve women equally to men into paid labour but rather to reinforce their primary task of reproduction by discriminating them through certain policies related to the labour market. This is why the aim of this research is to analyse how these specific politics and policies related to reproduction and labour have affected the enjoyment of certain women's human rights. Therefore, I will first review certain policies and politics of religious and nationalistic leaders to point out what initiatives they have undertaken in regards to women's reproductive rights. Moreover, the thesis will elaborate the enjoyment of women's social, economic rights and cultural rights such as labour rights art 6 CESCR and the right to family life art 10 CESCR that are set in the International Covenant of Economic, Social and Cultural Rights from 1966. Thus, it will be of interest to see how women's participation in the labour market has developed within the framework of changing political ideology and whether we can see significant developments not only for the question of whether women are being employed but also about which types of labour women are carrying out.

Women, Nationalism, and Social Networks in the Habsburg Monarchy, 1848-1918 Marta Verginella, 2023-12-15 Women, Nationalism and Social Networks in the Habsburg Monarchy 1848-1918 focuses on the lives of women in Southeastern Europe during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, exploring the intersection of gender and nationalism. By looking at a wide range of sources and employing rich historiography, this collection investigates the currents of women's emancipatory efforts in a climate of conflicting assumptions relating to nationhood and nationalization. This book sheds light on a time when both women and nations were working to assert themselves and how women promoted the national cause in an attempt to assume stronger roles in the public sphere. The volume studies areas that were nationally mixed and linguistically plural, thus pointing to the dynamic role of peripheries and pluralism affecting women's approaches to and experience of nationalization. These essays speak to women's agency as individuals and members of the social networks and their roles in cultural ethnic and political movements in pluralistic societies of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries thereby arguing that they enacted borders and were not simply acted on by them while also elucidating the ways they transgress the borders

Women, Ethnicity and Nationalism Robert E. Miller, Rick Wilford, 2004-01-14 Women Ethnicity and Nationalism asks whether societies caught in political or social transition provide new opportunities for women or instead create new burdens and obstacles for them Using contemporary case studies each author looks at the interaction of gender ethnicity and class in a divided society The varying experiences of women are discussed in the following countries Northern Ireland South Africa the former Soviet Union and Yugoslavia Yemen Lebanon and Malaysia

Reel Gender Sa'ed Atshan, Katharina Galor, 2022-10-20 Reel Gender is a groundbreaking collection that addresses the collective realities and the filmic representations of Palestinian and Israeli societies The eight essays by leading scholars demonstrate how Palestinian and Israeli film production despite obvious overlaps and similarities and while keeping in mind the inherent asymmetry of power dynamics are at the forefront of engaging gender and sexuality. The scholars of this volume construct and deconstruct still and moving images, characters and stories that create an entanglement of Palestinian and Israeli cinema. Together they portray the region's diverse but unexpectedly intermingled ethnic, religious and national communities framed or countered by various societal norms, laws and expectations while also defined by colonial realities. The essays draw methodologically from the fields of media and cultural studies, critical and postcolonial theory, feminism, post feminism and queer theory.

Marginality and 'Resistencia' Miguel Rivas Venegas, Martina L. Weisz, 2024-12-30. This book promotes international and interdisciplinary reflections on narratives of exclusion, liminality, dissident power and the forging of new identities during the last decades. Focusing on the rich case studies presented by the Spanish speaking world and beyond, it seeks to generate a deeper understanding of the mechanisms of othering and the strategies being developed by the traditionally suppressed voices of marginalized ethnic, gender and mnemonic communities in order to be heard.
