Leaders of the 19th Century Evelyn Harriet Walker, 1900 Government Leaders, Military Rulers and Political Activists David W. Del Testa, 2014-01-27 In each volume, an introductory essay outlines the history of the disciplines under discussion and describes how changes and innovations in these disciplines have affected our lives. These biographies cover a diverse group of men and women from around the globe and throughout history. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Mao Tse-tung, and Genghis Khan are among the 200 well-known historical figures included in this volume. Examples of other lesser-known yet important individuals covered in this work are Gustavus Adolphus, Swedish empire creator; Hatshepsut, queen of ancient Egyptian dynasty; and Jean Jaurès, French socialist leader and pacifist. Each synopsis provides information on each individual's enduring impact on the common understanding of fundamental themes of human existence.

Historical Dictionary of U.S. Diplomacy during the Cold War Martin Folly, 2014-11-13 This Historical Dictionary of U.S. Diplomacy during the Cold War offers readers a comprehensive, accessible survey of the principal actors and events involved in the making of United States foreign policy during a crucial period in the nation's history. The Cold War saw the United States acquire superpower status and to be closely involved in events around the globe. Foreign policy became a central issue in domestic politics. The confrontations with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and its allies and satellites, and with the forces of international communism, dominated U.S. interactions with the world throughout this period. This book covers this turbulent period through a chronology, an introductory essay, appendixes, and an extensive bibliography. The dictionary section has over 900 cross-referenced entries on key persons, policies, events, institutions, and organizations, along with issues such as the division of Germany after World War II, the creation of the People's Republic of China, European economic recovery, communist movements in the Third World, decolonization, the Vietnam War, and the nuclear arms race. This book is an excellent access point for students, researchers, and anyone wanting to know more.

Leaders' Personalities and the Outcomes of Democratic Elections

Anthony King, 2002-03-21 The conventional wisdom purveyed by the press and television and accepted as true by most politicians is that elections throughout the democratic world are personal clashes between individual presidential candidates and party leaders Almost everyone assumes that election outcomes are frequently determined by the major candidates personal characteristics In the United States Al Gore in 2000 came over as aloof and arrogant and failed to win his expected victory In Great Britain Tony Blair in 2001 came across as dynamic and personable and won a second term So personal charisma appears to yield electoral success This study by eminent scholars on both sides of the Atlantic suggests that the conventional wisdom is wrong Survey research conducted in recent decades indicates that relatively few voters are swayed by candidates personal characteristics Far more important are voters longstanding party loyalties their views on issues and their judgments of how well or badly presidents and parties have performed or will perform in office The votes of even the few electors who are swayed by candidates personalities usually cancel each other out As a result election outcomes are seldom decided by individual candidates personal images Occasionally but not often Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton owed their election victories more to economics than to charm At the end of World War II the charismatic Winston Churchill lost the 1945 British general election the colorless Clement Attlee won Chancellor Helmut Kohl remained in power in Germany for a generation but was never personally popular Russian voters reckoned that Boris Yeltsin could not hold his drink but nevertheless elected him The implications of the authors analyses are profound They suggest that modern democratic politics is not nearly as candidate centered and personality oriented as is often supposed They also suggest that parties policies and their performance in office usually count for far more than the men and women they choose as their leaders Not least the authors suggest that the efforts of political consultants advertising agencies and spin doctors are often misdirected

for the solutions that are needed for diagnosis effective cost effective and time efficient healthcare delivery of which digitized medicine value based care and payor reimbursement modes are just some of the factors The authors propose that the real solution involves having the patient at the center of the issues and changing from an archaic gold standard way of thinking to a Predictive Analytic thinking where one gets at the real truth by doing real science that in the end becomes effective not only for the population but for the individual person This all leads to real person centered and person directed medicine and healthcare delivery
