Science from an Easy Chair Sir Edwin Ray Lankester, 1912 More Science from an Easy Chair Ray Lankester, 2015-05-01 More Science From an Easy Chair from Ray Lankester, British zoologist 1847-1929 Science from an Easy Chair, Etc. (Ninth Edition.). Sir Edwin Ray LANKESTER, 1916 Science From an Easy Chair (Classic Reprint) Edwin Ray Lankester, 2015-08-04 Excerpt from Science From an Easy Chair. This volume is a collection of some of the papers which I have contributed to the Daily Telegraph during the years 1908-1909 under the title Science from an Easy Chair. I have revised and corrected the letterpress and have added some illustrations. A smaller volume containing earlier papers was published by Messrs Constable in 1908 with the title From an Easy Chair. It is my intention now to produce additional volumes under the title Easy Chair Series as their constituent articles accumulate and I hope to be able to publish a second and a third instalment at no distant date. I should like to draw the special attention of the reader to the Frontispiece Plate I which is very beautifully executed and is, I believe, the first coloured drawing yet published showing the difference between the adult silver eel and the more abundant immature yellow eel, sometimes called the frogmouthed eel.
