Coetzee and the Limits of the Novel John Bolin, 2023-06-22 This is the first book that reads Coetzee's novels in light of research into his archive of manuscripts and drafts The Postwar Decline of American Newspapers, 1945-1965 David R. Davies, 2006-07-30 On the surface the American newspaper industry appears to have changed little from 1945 to 1965 remaining both healthy and prosperous The number of newspapers in 1965 was about the same as in 1945 while during the twenty year period advertising revenues increased substantially despite new competition from television Just as in 1945 the vast majority of newspapers went to press with improved but old fashioned letterpress methods in 1965 And newspaper reporters still professed a strong if now somewhat shaken faith in the federal government at the end of the twenty years But the surface appearance of both stability and profitability obscured profound change In the two decades after World War II the business of newspaper publishing changed significantly in myriad ways By 1965 editors and publishers had recognized the extent of these changes and were beginning to adjust Each of the changes

was significant of its own accord and the range of challenges throughout the period combined to transform newspapers and the nation they served by 1965 This transformation was evident to varying degrees in newspapers content their production methods their economic position within the overall media marketplace and their relationship with government Newspapers some more than others made strides to keep up with and overcome some of these challenges But in each of these areas newspapers as a group were slow to respond to the problems facing journalism

Reframing Technology Kent Hufford,2024-07-22 For over a hundred years technological change has been framed using a simple narrative technology drives history Reframing Technology challenges this idea of technological determinism through metahistorical and literary analyses that locate the birth of contingent frameworks in the historiography of technology in and around the 1930s The book also traces how the formal discipline of the History of Technology was remarkably preconfigured by four North American authors who were not professional historians Thorstein Veblen Stuart Chase Lewis Mumford and Marshall McLuhan They are considered as a continuum and are put in dialogue despite their training in different disciplines Their work is then linked up with the emergence of formal and institutional inquiry into narratives of technology at the end of the twentieth century The ideas in the book are applied to current discussions about the future of technology and artificial intelligence The book s main argument is that as the authors listed above suggest we need to think beyond the machine and reframe technology as a cultural practice rather than thinking of it as an object or a tool
