Mathematical Subjects Fiona Walls, 2009-08-10 Teaching and learning mathematics is a political act in which children teachers parents and policy makers are made visible as subjects As they learn about mathematics children are also learning about themselves who they are who they might become We can choose to listen or not to what children have to say about learning mathematics Such choices constitute us in relations of power Mathematical know how is widely regarded as essential not only to the life chances of individuals but also to the health of communities and the economic well being of nations With the globalisation of education in an increasingly market oriented world mathematics has received intensified attention in the first decade of the twenty first century with a shifting emphasis on utilitarian aspects of mathematics This is reflected in the reconceptualisation of mathematical competence as mathematical literacy loosely conceived as those ways of thinking reasoning and working mathematically that allow us to engage effectively in everyday situations in many occupations and the cut and thrust of world economies as active empowered and participatory citizens It is no surprise then that mathematics has become one of the most politically charged subjects in primary school curricula worldwide We are experiencing an unprecedented proliferation of regional and national strategies to establish benchmarks raise standards enhance achievement close gaps and leave no child behind in mathematics education Industries have sprung up around the design administration and monitoring of standardised assessment to measure and compare children s mathematical achievement against identified benchmarks and each other Year 5 Mathematics Start Right Workbook Eileen

Education Reform and the Learning Crisis in Developing Countries Prema Clarke, 2022-09-15 Over three decades ago international donors declared that there was a learning crisis in developing countries In the years since large investments have been made towards education yet there has been an apparent relative lack of progress in student learning This book unpicks this disparity and explores the implications of evidence based donor programming for quality education It undertakes an in depth analysis of the interventions financed by the main donors in primary education such as infrastructure development provision of instructional material teacher training and community mobilization and argues that the research undertaken during this period was unable to provide answers The author outlines an alternative model for evidence generation that can assist in the design of relevant and targeted interventions for learning to ultimately inform and improve future education programmes Timely and radical this book is essential reading for researchers and students in the fields of education research and education reform
