

DURABLE (FINANCIAL) POWER OF ATTORNEY

This Power of Attorney for Finances is "durable" (does not terminate upon the principal's incapacity) unless it is specifically stated that it terminates in the event you become incapacitated.

This is a very important legal document. Do not sign it until you, and your chosen agent, understand the powers being granted. By signing this document, you are not giving up any powers or rights to control your finances or property. Instead, you are giving your agent, in addition to yourself, the authority to handle your finances and property.

If you name your spouse or domestic partner as your agent and the marriage or domestic partnership is terminated (annulment or divorce), this document becomes invalid unless the special instructions in this document state that such an action will not terminate the authority given to the agent.

This Power of Attorney authorizes another person (your agent) to make decisions concerning your property for you (the principal). Your agent will be able to make decisions and act with respect to your property (including your money) whether or not you are able to act for yourself.

What Is The Power Of Attorney, The Different Types Of Power Of Attorney That People Can Have, The Reasons Why People Grant Other People Power Of Attorney, And The Problems With Granting Other People Power Of Attorney

Dr. Harrison Sachs, 2022-08-19 This essay sheds light on what is the power of attorney demystifies the different types of power of attorney that people can have explicates the reasons why people grant other people power of attorney and reveals the problems with granting other people power of attorney The power of attorney refers a document which renders it permissible for another person to be able to act on your behalf In other words whenever you grant power of attorney to a person then he has the authorization to act on your behalf The power of attorney document confers another person with the authority to be able to implement decisions on your behalf in certain contexts The scope of authority that a person has over your affairs will vary depending upon the type of power of attorney that you grant him If a person is bestowed power of attorney then he has been entrusted with the authorization to act on your behalf with the hope that he will implement decisions that are eminently aligned with your best interest A person who has been granted power of attorney should never implement decisions that are unaligned with your best interest If a person is bestowed power of attorney then he should exhibit the utmost diligence and should be mindful of your best interest before implementing decisions on your behalf If a person is bestowed power of attorney then he should desist from blithely implementing imprudent decisions that are unaligned with your best interest The power of attorney allows another person to be able to manage your affairs in certain contexts The medical power of attorney for instance allows an agent to be able to implement decisions that are based on the medical doctor's recommendations which appertain to the principal's medical matters If a person is granted medical power of attorney then the agent should choose the utmost optimal medical care decisions that are based on the medical doctor's recommendations if these authorities have been granted to the agent by the principal in the medical power of attorney document It is of eminent importance for a person who has been granted medical power of attorney to always be willing to implement optimal decisions that are aligned with the principal's best interest A medical power of attorney can either be a durable medical power of attorney or a non durable medical power of attorney When a person is granted power of attorney he then becomes the agent of the principal and is entrusted by the principal to implement decisions in the principal's best interest that are optimal decisions and are not abysmal decisions If a general power of attorney is granted to a person then the agent of the principal for instance will be able to implement decisions regarding the principal's financial matters medical matters business matters and estate matters Even though the power of attorney can be granted to more than one person it is typically granted by the principal to a single person in lieu of multiple people when it is granted A principal will grant a person power of attorney in contexts in which he would prefer for an agent to handle his affairs If a principal grants a person general power of attorney the agent will then be at liberty to implement decisions regarding the principal's financial matters medical matters business matters and estate matters which can allay the onerous burden of managing his affairs on the principal's end if an agent is able to act on the principal's behalf and is always willing to implement astute decisions that are aligned with the principal's best interest. There are complexities involved in implementing decisions that appertain to another person's financial matters, medical matters, business matters, and estate matters. Having an agent act on your behalf who is always willing to implement astute decisions that are aligned with your best interest renders it less cumbersome for you to be able to manage your affairs. Having an agent act on your behalf who is always willing to implement astute decisions that are aligned with your best interest can also render it significantly less stressful for you to be able to manage your affairs. Managing one's own affairs is an onerous burden that not every person is content with perpetually dealing with by themselves. If a principal is amenable to granting a person power of attorney, then he should only possibly consider doing so if the agent is always willing to implement astute decisions that are aligned with the principal's best interest.
