Principles of Population and Development Nigel Crook, 1997 Principles of Population and Development is designed to fill a significant gap in introductory teaching materials on population for undergraduate and Masters students of demography development studies economics geography and related disciplines The text grew out of Nigel Crook s lectures at SOAS University of London and its use of models and data from a wider than normal geographical base reflects his intention to produce a truly international course book The book considers the debate over the relationships between population natural resources and development from Malthus on and introduces recent thinking on population and environment issues The political economy of famine and health and of fertility and birth control is discussed in detail The final chapters focus on interrelationships between population change and urbanization and industrialization in the developing world Each chapter introduces theories and ideas about population and development and then moves on to empirical and quantitative material and case studies Demographic measures and principles are explained fully in boxes without taking any prior technical knowledge for granted

Journal of Economic Literature ,1998 World Hunger, Health, and Refugee Problems: Special study mission to Africa, Asia & Middle East United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee to Investigate Problems Connected with Refugees and Escapees,1973 An Essay on the Principle of Sustainable Population Toshihiko

Hara,2020-05-23 This book focuses on the future of the global population and proposes revising Malthus Law The United Nations estimates that the global population will top 11 billion by 2100 at which point its growth will be near an end it will find a new equilibrium in a long demographic transition from high birth and death rates to low ones However the author reviews the fertility developments reported in the World Population Prospects 2017 which are near or below the replacement level in most regions with the important exception of Sub Saharan Africa and warns of a possible scenario of the extinction of human society Returning to Malthus his Essay on the Principle of Population is critically reconsidered Simple simulations show that exponential growth and decay are unsustainable beyond the narrow ranges of the net reproduction rate In addition the length of reproduction periods which depends on women s lifespans plays a pivotal role The limits of growth are given in any case to the extent that time and space will permit From this perspective teleological conditions such as instinct passion or even natural reproductive tendencies are irrelevant and unnecessary When the population deviates too far from the replacement level either its shrinking or massive growth will overshoot the limits of its existence This principle of sustainable population indicates that the demographic transition must follow a logistic curve Using a system dynamics approach the author constructs a simulation model based on four major loops fertility reproduction timing social capital accumulation and lifespan Using only endogenous variables this model successfully reproduces the historical process of the demographic transition in Japan Thereby it shows that the timing and periods of reproduction maximum fertility and maximum lifespan hold the key to sustainability Based on these findings the author subsequently discusses recovering replacement fertility extending lifespans and the demographic future of the human race Asia and the History of the International Economy

A.J.H. Latham,Heita Kawakatsu,2018-02-02 The Christian churches have frequently pioneered educational advances from the seventh century down to the nineteenth Schools universities and colleges of education stand as tangible evidence of these efforts Do all these ventures belong merely to educational history relics of the days when Christianity was influential enough to play a leading part in education Or has Christianity still a distinctive contribution to make to educational thought and practice The educationalists who contributed to the Hibbert Lectures of 1965 are convinced that it has They examine the nature of this contribution and show how it is to be made a time when education seems to be mainly influenced by secular rather than religious assumptions and aims The six lectures fall into two main parts Christianity in the schools is the theme of the first three Christianity in higher education that of the last three Africa's Demographic Transition David

Canning,Sangeeta Raja,Abdo S. Yazbeck,2015-10-22 Africa is poised on the edge of a potential takeoff to sustained economic growth This takeoff can be abetted by a demographic dividend from the changes in population age structure Declines in child mortality followed by declines in fertility produce a bulge generation and a large number of working age people giving a boost to the economy In the short run lower fertility leads to lower youth dependency rates and greater female labor force participation outside the home Smaller family sizes also mean more resources to invest in the health and education per child boosting worker productivity In the long run increased life spans from health improvements mean that this large high earning cohort will also want to save for retirement creating higher savings and investments leading to further productivity gains Two things are required for the demographic dividend to generate an African economic takeoff The first is to speed up the fertility decline that is currently slow or stalled in many countries The second is economic policies that take advantage of the opportunity offered by demography While demographic change can produce more and high quality workers this potential workforce needs to be productively employed if Africa is to reap the dividend However once underway the relationship between demographic change and human development works in both directions creating a virtuous cycle that can accelerate fertility decline social development and economic growth Empirical evidence points to three key factors for speeding the fertility transition child health female education and women s empowerment particularly through access to family planning Harnessing the dividend requires job creation for the large youth cohorts entering working age and encouraging foreign investment until domestic savings and investment increase The appropriate mix of policies in each country depends on their stage of the demographic transition Crises of Governance in Asia and Africa Sandra J. MacLean,Fahimul

Saxena,A. K. Tiwari,2017-10-14 Begomoviruses are one of the most interesting plant viruses to study for basic and applied research as they cause huge economic losses to agriculture industries and farmers all over the world They belong to family Geminiviridae and are emergent plant viral pathogens which cause diseases in various crops in the tropical and subtropical regions They are transmitted by the whitefly B tabaci and have either one monopartite DNA A or two bipartite DNA A and DNA B genomic components DNA A and DNA B are of 2600 2800 nucleotides each A number of serious diseases of cultivated crops of the Fabaceae Malvaceae Solanaceae and Cucurbitaceae families are caused by Begomoviruses which are considered as threat to their cultivation in many countries Accurate diagnosis is important for successful diseases management since plants infected by Begomovirus do not recover suffer serious yield losses and act as further sources of inoculum which is then picked up and spread by their vector whitefly B. tabaci Reports of occurrence of new viruses and re emergence of several known viruses in new niches have become regular event In such a dynamic system growth of several crop species relies on an accurate diagnosis management and better understanding of the biology of the casual virus This is crucial to evolve appropriate control practices and to prevent the virus infection Researchers have achieved considerable progress in characterization detection and management of virus on different crop species in the last decade This book covers latest information in diagnosis of begomoviruses in the present scenario and explores the new vistas in the field of genomics and proteomics Chapters in Section 1 illustrates the occurrence genome organisation transmission and diagnostics of begomoviruses It also details the diseases caused by begomoviruses on different crops detection techniques and management strategies in support of research findings by presentation of data graphics figures and tables Section 2 is a chapterwise collection of occurrence diversity and status of begomoviruses in Asian Africa counties where the diseases are most prevalent This book will provide wide opportunity to the readers to have complete information and status of begomovirus in Asia and Africa This will be useful resource for researchers and extension workers involved in the begomovirus disease diagnosis and molecular biology Expert detection accurate diagnosis and timely management play a significant role in keeping plants free from pathogens In this book expert researchers share their research knowledge and literature which are vital towards the diagnosis of begomoviruses addressing traditional plant pathology techniques as well as advanced molecular diagnostic approach The book deals with the economically important crops including fruits vegetables along with challenges in crop protection against diseases caused by begomovirus This will be resourceful and handy for researcher practitioners and also students East Asia and Food (In)Security Shaun Breslin, Christopher W.

Hughes, 2017-10-02 This book presents a study of perceptions of food insecurity in East Asia and explores how individual countries are developing strategies to deal with the situation It also looks at how the perception of food insecurity has increasingly influenced the nature of international interactions not just within East Asia but also in the region's relations with major external actors Many of the challenges facing East Asia are generic food security issues that face people and governments across the world for example the implications of climate change and demographic changes on food supplies This book places the East Asian context in the wider discussion of food in security in global politics However it also identifies potential regional differences for example the significance of rice for the region and the unavoidable impact of China as a major regional player What the Chinese state and Chinese companies decide to do in response to concerns about food insecurity have an impact not just on the rest of the region but on the rest of the world Taking too much of a Sinocentric focus however ignores other actors in East Asia or merely relegates discussion to how they respond to Chinese policies or external strategies This book considers the region as a whole both when it comes to thinking about food security challenges and responses within the region itself and also in the outward projection of regional food insecurity on the rest of the world

Ali Heshmati, Victor R. Squires, 2013-07-01 This book is about the how of desertification control as opposed to an analysis of the why and fills a gap in the desertification related literature in that it shows what to do in situations ranging from fixing mobile sands to arresting accelerated soil erosion in sloping lands There are numerous illustrations to show the successful techniques This compilation demonstrates that desertification and land degradation can be controlled and reversed with existing techniques in such widely varying environments as the Sahel of Africa to Sri Lanka and the Philippines in SE Asia from mountains in Lesotho to low lands on desert margins in Mongolia Proven approaches include technical interventions changes in governance and to the legislative framework and policy reform The book fills a gap in the desertification related literature in that it shows what to do in situations ranging from fixing mobile sands to arresting accelerated soil erosion in sloping lands
